

RAIL DETECTIVE FOUND SHOT TO DEATH IN STREET

Robert Mulcahy Killed at Northern Edge of Mill Creek Valley Yards—on Duty at Time.

WOUND IN HEAD; PISTOL IN HOLSTER

Police Consider Holdup Theory After Finding No Money in Pockets—Terminal Employee Was 59.

Robert Mulcahy, 59 years old, private detective for the Terminal Railroad Association, was shot and killed shortly after 5 o'clock this morning by an unidentified assailant on Atlantic street about 100 feet east of Garrison avenue, on the northern edge of the Mill Creek Valley yards.

His body was found, lying face up, shortly before 6 o'clock by Mrs. Lily Mae Johnson, Negro, as she left her home at 2915 Atlantic street, the only house on the block, to go to a store. She flagged a passing engine, and the crew, Engineer Arthur Cooper and Fireman William Studer, summoned policemen.

City Hospital physicians and morgue attendants were unable to determine whether the private detective had been shot in the back of the head, or fired in the chest. There was a wound under the left ear and another just below the hairline in the middle of the forehead.

No Cash in Pockets.
His revolver, in the belt holster at his side, was fully loaded and had not been fired. On one finger was an inexpensive ring and in his pockets were his watch, keys and a 10-cent police game ticket, but no cash. Fellow members of the Terminal police force said that Mulcahy always carried a small amount of money and the fact there was none in his pockets caused police to surmise that he may have been held up by a prowler who shot him when he reached for his revolver.

Mrs. Johnson told policemen that shortly after she arose at 5 o'clock she heard a sharp report, at the time she supposed to be a backfire, but which policemen were convinced was the shot that killed the railroad detective. He fell less than 100 feet east of an elevated footbridge over the yards which is used by the police.

Was on Duty at Time.
Mulcahy, who had been working for the Terminal Association for seven years, went on duty at 6 o'clock last night and was to have been relieved at 6 o'clock this morning. He was a brother of Capt. Maurice Mulcahy of the Dayton Avenue Police District, and lived at 2814 South Ninth street.

Before becoming a railroad detective Mulcahy had for many years operated a horseboosing establishment in the 2800 block of South Ninth street. He closed the shop when he went to work for the Terminal. He had been separated from his wife, who lives with their daughter in Chicago. A brother, Patrick Mulcahy, also lives in Chicago.

FOUR ROBBERS GET $18,000 IN NEW JERSEY BANK HOLDUP

Teller at Prospect Park Empties Pistol at Their Car as They Drive Away.

PATerson, N. J., Nov. 8.—Four men, one armed with a machine gun and the others with pistols, held up the Prospect Park National Bank, at Prospect Park, near here, today and escaped with $18,000.

The bank's paying teller, Albert Bauman, emptied a pistol at the robbers as they fled in a waiting automobile. Several shots hit the car.

The four men walked into the bank, ordering employees and customers to make no resistance. While two of them kept those present covered, the other two scooped up currency.

Officials said a large amount of bills had been brought to the bank in order to cash pay checks of workers in dye shops in the vicinity.

BRITISH DUKE IS A BANKRUPT FOR THIRD TIME

Tells Court Reduced Allowance Caused Insolvency—Has Only $25.

LONDON, Nov. 8.—The portly, gray-haired Duke of Manchester, who claims assets of only $25, ended his examination today in the London Bankruptcy Court, on his third failure since the turn of the century. His next step is to apply for discharge from bankruptcy within two years.

Aside from a bad book debt of $1000 (about $5000), which was treated as valueless, the Duke's assets were only $5. His amended statement of affairs showed gross liabilities of $29136, of which $28981 are expected to take precedence. He attributed his insolvency in part to the reduction of the voluntary allowance given by the trustees of the will of his mother, the late Consuelo, Duchess of Manchester, who was the daughter of Antonio Yznaga de Valle of Ravenswood, La.

ROOSEVELT BACK IN CAPITAL AFTER TRIP TO HYDE PARK

Attends Masonic Ceremony in New York; Will Receive Canadian Premier.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—President Roosevelt arrived in Washington shortly after 8:30 a. m. today and went at once to the White House where later in the day he expected to welcome Prime Minister Mackenzie King of Canada.

The President came from Hyde Park by way of New York, after a stop in the latter place to take part in the induction of two of his sons, James and Franklin Jr., into the Masonic Order.

On the train were Mrs. Roosevelt, Secretary of Commerce Roger and Postmaster-General Roper. A crowd estimated by police at 400 persons, many of whom had stood in the rain since the five hours of dinner and ceremony here, cheered and whistled as the President emerged from the Masonic hall in New York. Several hundred more cheered him in the station. The Masonic session was secret.

KINGSFORD-SMITH OVERDUE AT SINGAPORE ON FLIGHT

Last Seen Over Bay of Bengal on Way From England to Australia.

SINGAPORE, Straits Settlements, Nov. 8.—Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith, long overdue here on a flight from England to Australia, still missing as darkness fell tonight.

The noted Australian pilot and his co-pilot, Tom Pethbridge, were last sighted by C. James Melrose, who reported that he had flown over their plane over the Bay of Bengal. Melrose, a prize-winner in the London-Melbourne Air Derby last year, abandoned his own flight from England to Australia to assist Royal Air Force pilots in a search tomorrow for the missing men.

Kingsford-Smith reached Allahabad, in northeast India, at 5:25 p. m. Thursday and was reported over Calcutta at 9:06 p. m. Thursday. From there his route lay around the coast of the Bay of Bengal and the Strait of Malacca to Singapore. He was trying to set a new speed record for the England-to-Australia flight.

DISBARMENT SUIT TRIALS ORDERED FOR TWO LAWYERS

Court Names Troy (Mo.)
Man to Hear Charges Against O. M. Gallant,
M. J. Hannigan.

HEARINGS LIKELY EARLY IN JANUARY

Defendants Accused of Unethical Practices in Solicitation of Personal Injury Actions.

Disbarment proceedings against Otis M. Gallant and Marion J. Hannigan, law partners, charged with professional misconduct, will be heard by Darwood E. Williams of Troy, former State Senator, as Special Commissioner for the St. Louis Court of Appeals.

The Court of Appeals today overruled the motion of Gallant and Hannigan that the charges against them be dismissed. It then announced the naming of a Special Commissioner, this action having been requested by the Advisory Committee of the State Bar Disciplinary Committee, which preferred the charges.

It was understood that the hearing would be set for a date early in January. Montague Lyon, counsel for Gallant and Hannigan, is counsel also for Everett Huliverson, against whom a disbarment proceeding is pending before the Missouri Supreme Court.

Conspiracy Charged.
A disbarment suit against Gallant and Hannigan was filed in the Court of Appeals Sept. 9 by the advisory committee. They were charged in three counts with conspiring to practice law unethically, in solicitation of personal injury damage suits against corporations.

The first count alleged that they had become common barrators in inciting litigation, chiefly in the Tenth Judicial Circuit, which comprises Monroe, Marion and Rain counties, but also in other Missouri circuits. It was alleged that they agreed with their clients to pay costs and expenses of prosecuting claims, and costs of medical examinations, and that they advanced money and benefits to clients.

57 Clients Named.
Fifty-seven persons were named in the petition as having made claims against their former employers. Of these, 28 were said to have been employed by the Missouri Portland Cement Co. and 11 by the Universal Atlas Cement Co.

The second count charged that the two lawyers paid agents and runners to solicit claims, and named 12 such agents, one of them Gallant's brother, Sidney Gallant. The third count charged unlawful and unethical division of fees with the 12 agents named, and with other persons not licensed to practice law.

Members of the Advisory Committee which filed the charges were: John C. Grover, Kansas City; James A. Parks, Clinton; J. D. James, Joplin; and Morris E. Osburn, Shelbyville. The Special Commissioner will hear testimony and report his findings to the members of the Court of Appeals, Judges Jefferson D. Hostetter, William De Becker and Edward J. McCullen.

STUDENTS WOULD 'NOT FIGHT FOR MY COUNTRY IN ANY WAR'

Hundreds Cheer Pledge at College of City of New York—Nationwide Demonstrations.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Twenty-five hundred students, in a peace meeting at the College of the City of New York, cheered thunderously today in support of a pledge not to "fight for my country in any war." They booed Dr. Frederick B. Robinson, college president, when he called the pledge "unconstitutional and illegal."

He dismissed the assembly, saying that, when the meeting was proposed, "it was generally agreed there would be no proposal to take the pledge. I think I speak for the trustees when I say we cannot encourage disloyalty and bad citizenship."

Anti-war cries rang out from other campuses in the city in observance of the peace movement sponsored by student organizations throughout the country. There were meetings against war at Columbia University and New York University and other schools throughout the nation.

KILLS WIFE, THEN ENDS OWN LIFE AT MASCOUTAH, ILL.

Mrs. Carl Kutterer Shot to Death in Home, Husband

DOMESTIC TROUBLE SHERIFF THINKS

Woman Was About to Leave to Visit Parents
Mr. and Mrs. J. G.
Gougion, St. Louis.

Carl Kutterer, 38-year-old painting contractor of Mascoutah, shot and killed his wife, Calista, 35, at their home today, then ended his own life.

The body of Mrs. Kutterer was found by a neighbor in the kitchen of the residence about noon and that of Kutterer in his painting shop behind the house. A 12-gauge repeating shotgun lay beside his body. Kutterer was shot in the left breast, his wife in the right breast.

Sheriff Henry Siekman of St. Clair County, who was investigating the shootings, said domestic difficulties apparently prompted the killings. It was learned Mrs. Kutterer was about to go to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John G. Gougion, 5315A Devonshire avenue, St. Louis, a traveling bag was found beside her body.

At the Gougion home, a sister of Mrs. Kutterer said the Kutterers had been married 17 years and, so far as was known, had no difficulties. There are no children. Her father is a retired carpenter and the family formerly resided in Mascoutah. Mrs. Kutterer was one of six brothers and four sisters. The Kutterers visited the Gougion home last Sunday, the sister said. The bodies were taken to the Moll undertaking parlors at Mascoutah.

An inquest was held by Dr. W. W. Boyne, Coroner of St. Clair County.

COMMISSIONER OF BAHAMAS REPORTED DROWNED IN STORM

Said to Have Perished With 10 Other Persons During Hurricane on Great Abaco.

NASSAU, Bahamas, Nov. 8.—Reports reaching this capital of the Bahamas today said Commissioner John Eldridge Russell and 10 other persons were drowned on Great Abaco when the hurricane swept the island Sunday.

Five vessels of the sponge fishing fleet were destroyed, it was reported, while the others were badly damaged. Other property damage was said to have been small.

The hurricane was the same that struck Miami, Fla., Monday, causing three deaths and doing property damage set at $3,000,000.

POLITICIAN WOUNDS ANOTHER IN SWORD DUEL IN ARGENTINA

Governor-Elect Injures Former Deputy—They Leave Field, Unreconciled.

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 8.—The Governor-elect of the Province of Buenos Aires wounded a radical former deputy in a sword duel this morning, the outgrowth of an election dispute, and then left the field without reconciliation.

Alejandro Minones, the ex-deputy, received a gash in the right arm as he fought with Manuel Fresco, victorious conservative gubernatorial candidate in Sunday's provincial elections in Argentina. Physicians said the wound was not serious. Fresco suffered a slight cut in the arm.

Minones, in a letter regarding the elections, had used terms which Fresco considered to be offensive.

ALDERMEN REJECT BILLS TO REQUIRE CITY TO BUY P. S. C.

Ask Sponsors to Withdraw Initiative Petitions and Save Cost of Special Election.

KRATKY INSISTS ON VOTE, HOWEVER

Election Commissioners, 15 Days After Action Is Certified, Must Set Date for Public Balloting.

The Board of Aldermen, by unanimous vote, today rejected the bills directing the city to purchase the street car and bus systems and operate them on a 5-cent fare.

Immediately after this action the board, again by unanimous vote, asked sponsors of the bills to withdraw their initiative petitions and save the city the expense of a special election which would cost $124,000.

Because the bills were presented by initiative petition, the Board of Aldermen could not finally defeat them. The board's refusal to pass them is now to be certified to the Board of Election Commissioners, which must, within 15 days, set a date for submitting them to the voters unless sponsors of the measures withdraw them in the meantime.

Kratky to Demand Election.
Robert J. Kratky, chairman of the committee sponsoring the measures, when told of the Aldermen's resolution, said to a Post-Dispatch reporter that the measures would not be withdrawn, and that his committee would insist on the people having an opportunity to vote on them.

Kratky, an attorney, was in charge of the circulation of initiative petitions for the two bills, one directing the Mayor and Comptroller to acquire the transportation systems for not more than $25,000,000, and one fixing the date for an election on a proposition to issue $25,000,000 in bonds to finance the purchase.

A hearing was held on the measures today by the Ways and Means Committee of the Board, and Kratky appeared to urge the passage of the bills. When the Board convened after the committee meeting, Alderman Nick Reidy, chairman of the committee, moved that the rules be suspended so that the measures could be taken up today, and recommended that they be defeated.

28 Vote Against Bills.
Twenty-eight voters were cast against the bills. President William L. Mason of the board not voting because he was serving today as Acting Mayor. Mason, however, stated his opposition to the bills.

In this connection, the city learned today that the State Board of Equalization had placed a valuation of $16,524,415 on the St. Louis properties of the Public Service Co. This was a reduction of nearly $2,500,000 from last year's valuation of $19,024,415. The company's city-state school property tax bill for 1935 will be $457,726, compared with $521,266 last year. The company also pays franchise taxes and a mill tax on fares collected.

LANE AND SIX MEN FOUND ON ISLAND IN YUKON RIVER

Men Missing Since Saturday May Have to Be Rescued by Dog Teams.

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Nov. 8.—Pilot Jack Herman and his five passengers, missing since they took off from Dawson last Saturday for Fairbanks, were reported safe yesterday at Cassiar Roadhouse, 35 miles from Dawson.

Pilot Bob Randall, who sent word he found Herman's party and plane on an island in the Yukon River yesterday, and three other pilots were ready to fly from Dawson to determine whether the men would be returned by air. If not, they will have to make the trip by dog team.

Food supplies and small parachutes are ready to be dropped, but it is doubtful the supplies will be needed. Herman's plane was reported undamaged on the island.

Chicago Ex-Official on Trial For Withholding Public Funds

ROBERT M. SWEITZER.
Former Cook County Treasurer.

COLORADO HOUSE VOTES TO IMPEACH OFFICIAL SWEITZER CHALLENGES AMOUNT OF SHORTAGE

Secretary of State James H.
Carr Accused of Liquor License Irregularities.

DENVER, Colo., Nov. 8.—Formal charges of impeachment against James H. Carr, 32-year-old Secretary of State, were drafted today by a committee from the Colorado House of Representatives which last night voted to impeach him.

Carr, head of the State Liquor Licensing Department, was accused of malfeasance in office as the result of an investigation. The impeachment resolution, approved 48 to 15, was the first ever voted in the State's history. Gov. Ed C. Johnson, who called the special session to consider action against Carr, declared the vote was "a victory for honest government."

Carr is accused, among other things, of conspiring with William E. O'Toole to extort a "bribe" of $35,000, but was told by the County Board to pay the full amount shown by the audit or resign.

Most of the money alleged to be missing is from the tax redemption fund. Sweitzer said that when property is sold for taxes, the money is held in this fund in case the delinquent taxpayer wishes to redeem.

"Where is it held?" asked Defense Attorney Short.
"That is entirely under the discretion of the clerk," said Sweitzer, raising the point on which his defense has been based.

"I was advised by my attorneys I could keep it any place—in my office, my safe, the bank or even in my vest pocket," Sweitzer admitted there were a good many "I O U's" in the cash box he turned over to Michael J. Flynn, his successor as clerk. Then he partly confirmed earlier testimony that some of these represented loans to fellow politicians.

Testimony challenging the accuracy of the audit that showed the shortage was offered yesterday by Jacob Ullman, certified public accountant. Ullman said the audit was completed only from Jan. 1, 1934, to Dec. 1, 1934. Asked if it was sufficiently detailed to produce an accurate result, Ullman said: "It is not. It is complete for only 11 months of the period in question. No detailed audit was made for 23 years and one month of that period."

Sweitzer was elected County Treasurer in November, 1934. He was ousted from office for failure to settle his accounts for the time he was County Clerk.

HAND LABOR AT JOLIET PRISONS Warden Orders Eight-Hour Work Day to Reduce Restlessness

JOLIET, Ill., Nov. 8.—Hand labor will return to Joliet and Stateville Prisons, Warden Joseph Ragen announced yesterday, as a means of keeping the 5635 prisoners occupied eight hours a day. "This will not only create more work hours," he said, "but will result in a saving to taxpayers, as less money will be used to purchase power and to repay machinery." As a further means of ending restlessness among the convicts, Ragen said he was considering drills and setting up exercises, and improvements to the grounds.

GORRAHEI FALLS ON SOUTHERN FRONT

This Also Is Important Center, Lying on Route to Harar, to Which Fascist Invaders Are Apparently Headed.

ROME, Nov. 8.—The fortified town of Gorrahei, one of the most important objectives of the Italian forces in Southern Ethiopia, was taken by troops under Gen. Rudolfo Graziani, an official bulletin announced today.

It was the second major conquest of the Italian invading forces today, as the City of Makale, immediately objective of the northern army, fell earlier.

Gorrahei is a vital point on the route between Italian Somaliland and the important city of Harar, in the interior of Ethiopia, toward which Gen. Graziani's troops are apparently headed.

The Government bulletin, filed from Mogadiscio, Italian Somaliland, at 3 p. m., said: "Our troops have occupied Gorrahei, an important strategic center."

Native troops under the immediate command of Col. Marelli stormed Gorrahei to effect the capture. Gorrahei dominates all caravan trails in southeastern Ethiopia, whether they lead to the north, south, east or west. It is also the source of a large water supply.

Captain of Makale at 9 a. m. was announced officially in a one-sentence bulletin from Gen. Emilio de Bono, commander of the Fascist forces in East Africa.

"Our flag, which was lowered Jan. 25, 1896, from the fort of Makale, was unfurled anew over that fort at 9 a. m., as the result of the work of national and native troops," said the communique.

The correspondent for the newspaper Il Piccolo said that at the approach of the Italians many natives appeared on a hill, waving white flags. The Ethiopians welcomed the Fascist soldiers with shouts of joy, the correspondent said, and presented to the troops gifts of hens, eggs and other produce.

WITH THE ITALIAN ARMY ON THE NORTHERN FRONT, Nov. 8.—Italy's Northern army took Makale today without a fight.

The Fascist forces entered the strategic Ethiopian city from three sides and ran up the Italian tricolor over the old fort and palace of Makale.

Blackshirt soldiers under Gen. Ruggiero Santini simultaneously entered the village of Dolo, eight miles to the east. Ras Haile Selassie Gussa had the honor of being the first to enter Makale. The former Ethiopian Governor of Makale, who deserted to the Italians, swaged into the city at the head of his followers, with the populace cheering.

Gussa proceeded to former King John's castle and established himself there as Governor of Tigre, intending to make Makale the capital of Italy's newly-taken province.

Planes Fly Over City.
Twelve Italian planes commanded by Premier Mussolini's son-in-law, Count Galeazzo Ciano, flew low over Makale as the Italian flag was hoisted over the old fort in the presence of Gen. Alessandro Pirlo-Bioli.

Outposts were established immediately along the Gubat River, running a few miles south of Makale and Dolo. They will form the advance line while native troops clear the region and engineers build roads.

Gen. Mariotti's column of Danakil warriors, to the east of the main body, entered the town of Azbi on the left flank shortly after dawn, taking a strategic position there to protect the advancing army.

Makale itself was occupied by a composite brigade of infantry, made up of troops from various units including Premier Mussolini's favorite Bersaglieri (sharpshooters), with cock's feathers on their hats, and some Eritrean Askaris. Ahead of all were Gussa's tribesmen.

The Italian troops at once took up

MOVIE TRUST CASE ARGUMENT ENDS; TO JURY MONDAY

Court Adjourned Till That Date—Judge Will Deliver Instructions in New Federal Building.

EX-SENATOR REED ASSAILS TESTIMONY

Denounces Statements of Two Fanchon & Marco Officials as 'Mosaic of Falsehood.'

At the end of two days of courtroom oratory, final arguments of counsel in the movie conspiracy trial were concluded in Federal Judge Moore's court at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

The judge then adjourned the case until 10 a. m. next Monday, Armistice day, when he will deliver instructions to the jury in the Federal Building after which the jurors will begin their deliberations. This is the last trial to be finished in the old building. The movie trial has required six weeks so far, having started Sept. 30. An hour after its adjournment, Federal Judge Davis joined Judge Moore in ceremonies formally transferring the Federal courts to the new structure, effective Monday.

Assistant Attorney-General Russell Hardy, in charge of the prosecution, closing the arguments, quit with an hour of allotted time unused.

Defendants are eight corporations of Warner Bros., Paramount and R-K-O movie interests and five of their executives, charged with violation of the anti-trust law in withholding films from Fanchon & Marco's Ambassador, Missouri and Grand Central theaters.

Several hundred persons filled the courtroom to capacity, with a few standing, today and yesterday, to hear the legal oratory. Many were lawyers; some represented the movie industry. Former Senator James A. Reed of Kansas City, a lawyer for Warners, was counted on to hold the interest of many listeners, but he confined his extended remarks largely to dry review of the testimony in conversational tones, seldom raising his voice but occasionally employing some of the biting terms of which he is a master.

Hotel Suite Conference. Reed talked about a meeting in a suite at the Plaza Hotel, New York, in April, 1934, when John S. Leahy, attorney for the lessee of the three theaters, Allen L. Snyder, who turned them over to Fanchon & Marco, talked with one of the defendants, Ned E. Depinet, president of R-K-O Distributing Corporation. Reed charged that, in effect, Leahy said to Depinet, with reference to R-K-O's agreement to sell Warners films for St. Louis: "You break your contract or I'll send you to the penitentiary." Doubt that Leahy meant to say that was expressed by Reed.

Recalling testimony that there was drinking going on in the hotel suite and speculating on the resultant situation, Reed caused laughter by quoting the poetical finding of an old English judge: "He is not drunk who from the floor can rise again and drink some more."

He is drunk who on the floor prostrate lies And can neither drink some more nor rise.

Reed related that Hardy had in his argument accused two St. Louis lawyers for Warners, Sam B. Jeffries and Arthur E. Simpson, of not being truthful when they testified in denial of statements that had been attributed to some of the defendants by various Government witnesses. However, Reed said, Hardy had upheld the testimony of J. M. Ulmer of Cleveland, a Government witness, on the ground that Ulmer could not afford to falsify because he was a lawyer.

Reed Interprets Ulmer. "Ulmer came here as full of virus as a rattlesnake," Reed declared in characteristic manner. "If Mr. Hardy at his death has written a story to parallel that of Sam Jeffries, he'll be a better man than I think he is."

With reference to the defense contention that Fanchon & Marco sought to monopolize the first-run movie business here, Reed declared: "This is the first time I ever heard of the Sherman anti-trust act being used to defend a monopoly and assist it in carrying out its nefarious purposes."

"Mosaic of Falsehoods." Testimony of Harry C. Arthur Jr. and Jack Allan Partridge, vice-president and president, respectively, of Fanchon & Marco, principal Government witnesses, was "a mosaic of falsehood," Reed asserted. "There is a conspiracy and the Government is here to prosecute it. It is here to prosecute the sum of that conspiracy by a verdict of this jury. This diabolical scheme originated in the mind of Harry Koplar (veteran St. Louis exhibitor) and was to be carried out with the assistance of Arthur and Fanchon & Marco, while Snyder merely was a straw man."

Concluding, Reed, who will be 74 years old tomorrow, declared the defendants were "as decent as any men I ever knew," and said to the jurors: "I hope you reach a prompt verdict, so its very promptness will be a vindication of these defendants."

Hardy, who followed Reed, reminded the jury that he had told them in his previous address that the defense would try to drag a red herring or a dead cat across the trail and he said this had been done in the defense arguments about an alleged Fanchon & Marco monopoly and Koplar's interest in it. If the defense had wanted to show Koplar's interest it could have put him on the witness stand, the prosecutor asserted. Koplar was in the courtroom as a spectator two days recently. Hardy went over testimony of Arthur and of defense witness, point by point.

George C. Leasure of New York and Jacob M. Lashly, of counsel for R-K-O defendants, preceded Reed. Leasure said Arthur was the man in the background of the whole case and charged that Arthur impersonated Leahy in telephoning Depinet before the Plaza Hotel meeting. Depinet had testified that Leahy talked with him on the telephone, while Leahy testified that he had Arthur call.

"A Foul Conspiracy." Arthur, it was charged by Leasure, in his argument, plotted a "foul conspiracy" against Depinet and expected to profit, under the provision of the Sherman act for the damages where a conspiracy in restraint of trade was shown to exist, if a conviction was obtained in this trial.

If Warners had been able to effect an agreement with a Bondholders' Committee for reorganization of the theaters, the trial would not have been held, Lashly declared. He said that all R-K-O and Depinet did was to sell films for one season to a customer who applied for them (Warners) and had the money to pay for them. Testimony by Depinet that Arthur was dissatisfied with R-K-O and was an unsatisfactory customer was borne out, Lashly added, by Arthur's own testimony that an R-K-O film, "Of Human Bondage," which the producer had advertised as "the smash hit of the season" was "a piece of cheese."

Five hours or more of the allotted 10 hours for arguments was taken yesterday, more than half of the time being used for the opening speech for the Government. Schaefer's Orange Juice Bill. William R. Gentry, of counsel for Paramount defendants, making the second speech for the defense, dwelled particularly on testimony concerning one of his clients, George J. Schaefer, vice-president and general manager of Paramount Pictures Distributing Co., Inc. He recalled the testimony of Arthur about a telephone conversation in New York with Schaefer, between Feb. 20 and March 6, 1934, and Schaefer's alibi, backed by room service checks and other evidence, that he was away from New York, staying in Miami, Fla., from Feb. 15 to March 10.

"Why," the attorney said, "George Schaefer was there drinking orange juice, a double dose. They charged 50 cents a glass for it and thirty old George drank so much of it that they put the price up to 60 cents—and here's the evidence. And George was registered there with his wife—his own wife."

be a vindication of these defendants."

Hardy, who followed Reed, reminded the jury that he had told them in his previous address that the defense would try to drag a red herring or a dead cat across the trail and he said this had been done in the defense arguments about an alleged Fanchon & Marco monopoly and Koplar's interest in it. If the defense had wanted to show Koplar's interest it could have put him on the witness stand, the prosecutor asserted. Koplar was in the courtroom as a spectator two days recently. Arthur, it was charged by Leasure, in his argument, plotted a "foul conspiracy" against Depinet and expected to profit, under the provision of the Sherman act for the damages where a conspiracy in restraint of trade was shown to exist, if a conviction was obtained in this trial.

If Warners had been able to effect an agreement with a Bondholders' Committee for reorganization of the theaters, the trial would not have been held, Lashly declared. He said that all R-K-O and Depinet did was to sell films for one season to a customer who applied for them (Warners) and had the money to pay for them. Testimony by Depinet that Arthur was dissatisfied with R-K-O and was an unsatisfactory customer was borne out, Lashly added, by Arthur's own testimony that an R-K-O film, "Of Human Bondage," which the producer had advertised as "the smash hit of the season" was "a piece of cheese."

Five hours or more of the allotted 10 hours for arguments was taken yesterday, more than half of the time being used for the opening speech for the Government. Schaefer's Orange Juice Bill. William R. Gentry, of counsel for Paramount defendants, making the second speech for the defense, dwelled particularly on testimony concerning one of his clients, George J. Schaefer, vice-president and general manager of Paramount Pictures Distributing Co., Inc. He recalled the testimony of Arthur about a telephone conversation in New York with Schaefer, between Feb. 20 and March 6, 1934, and Schaefer's alibi, backed by room service checks and other evidence, that he was away from New York, staying in Miami, Fla., from Feb. 15 to March 10.

"Why," the attorney said, "George Schaefer was there drinking orange juice, a double dose. They charged 50 cents a glass for it and thirty old George drank so much of it that they put the price up to 60 cents—and here's the evidence. And George was registered there with his wife—his own wife."

Gentry called attention to the wide discrepancy between Arthur and Schaefer's testimony as to whether the telephone conversation took place, and demanded that an investigation be made.

Testimony of Harry C. Arthur Jr. and Jack Allan Partridge, vice-president and president, respectively, of Fanchon & Marco, principal Government witnesses, was "a mosaic of falsehood," Reed asserted. "There is a conspiracy and the Government is here to prosecute it. It is here to prosecute the sum of that conspiracy by a verdict of this jury. This diabolical scheme originated in the mind of Harry Koplar (veteran St. Louis exhibitor) and was to be carried out with the assistance of Arthur and Fanchon & Marco, while Snyder merely was a straw man."

Concluding, Reed, who will be 74 years old tomorrow, declared the defendants were "as decent as any men I ever knew," and said to the jurors: "I hope you reach a prompt verdict, so its very promptness will be a vindication of these defendants."

Hardy, who followed Reed, reminded the jury that he had told them in his previous address that the defense would try to drag a red herring or a dead cat across the trail and he said this had been done in the defense arguments about an alleged Fanchon & Marco monopoly and Koplar's interest in it. If the defense had wanted to show Koplar's interest it could have put him on the witness stand, the prosecutor asserted. Koplar was in the courtroom as a spectator two days recently. Hardy went over testimony of Arthur and of defense witness, point by point.

George C. Leasure of New York and Jacob M. Lashly, of counsel for R-K-O defendants, preceded Reed. Leasure said Arthur was the man in the background of the whole case and charged that Arthur impersonated Leahy in telephoning Depinet before the Plaza Hotel meeting. Depinet had testified that Leahy talked with him on the telephone, while Leahy testified that he had Arthur call.

"A Foul Conspiracy." Arthur, it was charged by Leasure, in his argument, plotted a "foul conspiracy" against Depinet and expected to profit, under the provision of the Sherman act for the damages where a conspiracy in restraint of trade was shown to exist, if a conviction was obtained in this trial.

If Warners had been able to effect an agreement with a Bondholders' Committee for reorganization of the theaters, the trial would not have been held, Lashly declared. ITALIANS CAPTURE MAKALE WITHOUT FIRING A SHOT

positions in fortified posts on the south side of Makale, overlooking a little market town beyond the city.

Officers indicated the next advance probably would be to Ambaigi, 40 miles closer to Addis Ababa and the heart of the Ethiopian empire. The troops of Italy feel they must occupy Ambaigi, not only for its strategic mountain position but for sentimental reasons as well. For that is the southernmost point reached in the disastrous Italian invasion of 1895-96. It was at Ambaigi that Major Tosselli's advancing force of 2,000 men, mostly natives, was cut to pieces by the Ethiopians in December, 1895. The culminating disaster of Adowa occurred a few weeks later.

Before another advance is undertaken, however, there probably will be an interval in which the Makale position will be consolidated and the lines of communication perfected.

Runners from the Italian Army Corps of Gen. Pietro Maravigna reported today he had sent "raking squadrons" deep into the regions leading to Lake Tana, headwaters of the Nile, in which Great Britain is vitally interested. Lake Tana is 180 miles southwest of Makale.

The runners said the squadrons had entered the Adabo territory, dispersing groups of the warriors of the Ethiopian commander, Ras Seyoum.

They brought word that one of Gen. Maravigna's light infantry columns, backed by mountain artillery, had left the Italian line along the Setti River, where they had been facing the Ethiopian Ras Burro's troops. The force had cut across country to the southeast, the runners said, taking up positions along the Takakeze River.

One column of light infantry operating near Makale was reported to have entered the Adabo territory, dispersing groups of the warriors of the Ethiopian commander, Ras Seyoum.

Aerial reconnaissance reports that bodies of Ethiopians were on the move behind Makale heightened the expectation that scattered engagements might result from the renewed drive.

Ethiopian soldiers, sighted earlier in the city, were reported by runners to have quit Makale again for the ground beyond, lying between the Italians and the Ethiopian troop center of Dessye, 200 miles distant.

This fifth day since the new drive was started found the advance columns completing their 60-mile march from the former Adigrat-Aduwa-Aksum front lines.

Italian Troops Extend Operations Into Amhara Province. By the Associated Press.

ROME, Nov. 8.—Italian press dispatches say troops on the extreme right of the northern front in Ethiopia have extended their operations into Amhara Province.

Troops there, which have been engaging in minor clashes with Ethiopian patrols, are reported to have crossed the Setti River at the border far west of the main operations about Makale, and are said to be proceeding straight south.

Reports from Asab, Eritrea, say Italian forces there also have launched an advance across the Danakil desert.

The troops are reported to be advancing on Mount Mussa Ali, southeast of the main front lines in the angle formed by the borders of Eritrea, Ethiopia and French Somaliland, aiming at conquest of the Aussa sector.

Italian correspondents say they have confirmed reports that Mohammed Yaya, son of Sultan Yaya of Aussa, has gone over to the Italians.

SOFT PEDAL PUT ON ANTI-SANCTION FIGHT IN ITALY

Fascist Leaders to Continue Campaign Against Penalties But Try to Eliminate Bitterness.

(Copyright, 1935, by the Associated Press.)
ROME, Nov. 8.—The Fascist high command is unwilling to let the anti-sanctions reaction in Italy grow beyond control, it was learned authoritatively today.

Sources close to the Government said preparations to defeat the purpose of League of Nations measures would go forward unabated, but predicted quiet efforts by the Fascist leadership to remove bitterness from the campaign.

What was wanted, these sources said the Associated Press, was a strong sense of economic nationalism, stressing the "buy Italian" aspect of resistance to sanctions rather than the "down with somebody" attitude.

Word to the Press.
Spokesmen predicted the press would be discouraged from continuing publication of lists of goods to be boycotted in reprisal for the League boycott and embargo on shipment of certain key products to Italy, ordered effective 10 days hence.

One Rome newspaper, La Tribuna, has devoted sections daily to a single "sanctionist" country—England—listing articles which it said should not be bought from that source.

The Fascist leaders' desire for restraint became known after students paraded the streets of Naples last night, crying out against conditions imposing sanctions and demanding closing of shops showing foreign products.

Mussolini's Economic Board. Three men, handling billions of foreign exchange, hold the power behind the scenes in the campaign against sanctions.

Premier Mussolini created the "sovrintendenza" or "superintendence" six months ago when he foresaw some of the economic questions now arising.

His three members are Prof. Felice Guarnieri, superintendent and his assistants, Alberto d'Agostino and Erasmo Caravale, all just under 50 years of age. With Mussolini supporting them, they rule Italy's foreign trade and foreign exchange.

No one dares dispute their decisions.

Caravale has a building of his own, with 50 experts who know all angles of manufacturing and foreign trade, plus something of international politics, so that they may enter business to the "right" countries. Applications for imports are made to Caravale's office and if a need for such goods is shown a license is granted.

Then d'Agostino's section, with another 50 experts in another building, decides if there is foreign exchange available for the purchase. Guarnieri is the leader in the sense that he co-ordinates the licensing and foreign exchange sections. An economic specialist and general secretary of the association of stock companies, he is familiar with most of Italy's business.

D'Agostino is general manager of the Banca Commerciale Italiana, the largest bank in Italy. Caravale was trained in the Ministry of Finance and more recently was Italian commercial attaché at Paris.

Heads Authors' League Again. NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Marc Connelly, author of "Green Pastures," was elected to a third term as president of the Authors' League of America yesterday.

Province, it was reported here today.

The report said Italian planes had dropped thousands of bombs and that Greek and Arab residents were among the casualties. Dedias, match Afewerki, commander of the Daga Bur garrison, was said to have been fatally wounded.

Observers here believed the Italians had started their expected drive in tanks and armored cars toward Jijiga and Harar.

60 WAR CORRESPONDENTS IN BARRACKS AT ASMARA

Writers of 12 Nationalities Live and Write in Former Fascist Headquarters.

ASMARA, Eritrea, Nov. 8.—Sixty war correspondents of 12 nationalities are gathered here to cover the Italian side of the Italian-Ethiopian conflict. The big hall of the former Fascist headquarters here has been cut into four divisions within which the men sit around tables to write stories.

The French, carrying out their idea of friendship with Italy, are most numerous. Of Germans there is only one, the correspondent of the official German news agency.

In the barracks the men sleep two or three in each of the small rooms. They generally eat together in a reasonably good, but simple, mess at the press bureau.

Frequent dashes to the front lines are made, often in American trucks over bumpy roads.

General headquarters are hours from Asmara where quarters are also provided. However, the writers have to furnish beds and blankets. Sheets are unheard of.

COLLEGE DEAN TAKEN CAPTIVE BY STUDENTS SEEKING HOLIDAY

He Cancels Classes With a Smile; Won't Discipline Four Girls Involved.

CHICKASAW, Okla., Nov. 8.—Dr. Howard Taylor, dean of the Oklahoma College for Women, was taken captive before dawn today by four women students clamoring for a holiday. The students wanted a day off from books to observe the annual inter-class contests between the four women were named by Dean Taylor as Maxine Hunter of Okarche, Margaret Nance of Tulsa, Kathryn Kniesly of Idabel and Mary Gaylord Booth of Oklahoma City. They lured the dean away from home on the pretext of attending a special freshman meeting.

Under pressure of a gag in a wooded spot near here, Dean Taylor refused to promise the holiday. He was returned to the campus, where about 400 students, most of whom had missed the first hour classes, demonstrated for the holiday. Smiling, the dean canceled the day's classes.

"In view of the fact that I was presented with a big red apple with a green ribbon tied around it, and restored to my office with dignity, no disciplinary action is being considered," Dean Taylor said. "As a matter of fact, I enjoyed the ride very much."

Farmer Hurt Blasting Stump Dies. ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Nov. 8.—John Anderson, 71 years old, New Market, Mo., died yesterday morning from injuries received on Oct. 24 as the result of a dynamite charge in a tree stump on a farm near New Market. The dynamite exploded after Anderson believed that the stump had gone out and approached the stump.

Girl Injured in Fall. Joyce Etling, 9 years old, 2826A Missouri avenue, suffered a skull injury when she fell off a trapeze while playing in a neighbor's yard early last night. She is in City Hospital.

INSULL 'INSIDERS' ORDERED TO PAY $3,671,000 LOSS

Some on Second "Preferred List" Have Made Payments — Others Sued at Court's Direction.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—"Insiders" on Samuel Insull's second "preferred list" found he did them an expensive favor. Nearly 100 of them, let in on a $30,000,000 stock syndicate in 1930, have had to pay $214,094.45 to get out. Court authority has been granted for lawsuits against others.

This was disclosed today in court orders and petitions concerning Insull, Son & Co., on file with the Referee in Bankruptcy. The concern managed the Insull Utility Investments, Inc., syndicate.

The "preferred list" was an invitation. In a previous one profits of 25 per cent were realized.

Members of the second syndicate included some of Illinois' most prominent politicians and two opera stars.

Now many of those who have not paid up are being sued for their pro rata share of the syndicate's loss, $3,671,811.

Michael L. Igoe, United States District Attorney in Chicago, faces suit, the Referee's document shows, for $762,931 and P. A. Nash, National Democratic Committeeman from Illinois, for $30,519.96.

From Frank L. Smith, Republican National Committeeman, the attorneys want $15,259.96.

The trustee's lawyers were "endeavoring to make collections," said one report. From Rosa Raisa and Giacomo Rimini, of operatic fame, presenting bills of $152,598.

Some of the losers have paid in full. Others were let out with small payments, on statements that they could not afford more.

At least one of the losers showed fight. Arthur Meeker, Chicago banker, argued that the syndicate was a "gambling proposition." The attorneys settled his $11,444.87 liability for $617.03.

EMMETTSBURG, Ia., Nov. 8.—Casper Nelson of Emmetsburg, Palo Alto County Treasurer, named Ivan Sullivan of Trenton, Mo., Tuesday, as the man who abducted and robbed him of $22 near here three weeks ago. Sullivan and Francis Mitchell of Estherville were arrested at Chaska, Minn., Monday, as suspects in the Estherville robbery. Sullivan denied the charge.

ORPHIR TO STOP WORK FOR WINTER TOMORROW

Captain Hopes to Send Diver Down Again Before Operations Are Halted.

(Copyright, 1935.)

By GILBERT McALLISTER.

ABOARD SALVAGE SHIP ORPHIR, Nov. 8.—The Orphir is set for an eleventh-hour effort to bring up proof that the wreck it found is that of the torpedoed Lusitania. Officers and crew were ordered yesterday to stand by for a signal from Capt. Russell which would send the salvage ship out in a final attempt before operations end Saturday for the winter. Only rough weather keeps Capt. Harry Russell from giving the signals.

If his signal comes, the Orphir will weigh anchor at once. Steaming out to the markers beyond Old Head of Kinsale, it will make fast to the buoys which guard the hulk, and Jim Jarratt will be lowered 300 feet in a final effort to raise evidence from the wreck.

The buoys placed by the Orphir's crew will be left to guard the hulk through the winter storms.

The solemnity of the memorial service yesterday left a deep impression on every one connected with the expedition.

When the Orphir pulled into position, its port bulwark was lined with floral wreaths. There were elaborate ones from the former American Minister in Dublin, with humble tributes from the citizens of Kinsale and the men of the Orphir.

The ship rolled in a heavy spray, which frequently burst high over its decks.

Representatives of the Protestant Catholic and Jewish religions stood by while Capt. Russell, in a solemn monotone, delivered a brief address in tribute to the victims of the disaster.

As the captain's voice died away, a bugle sounded "last post." There followed two minutes of silence.

At the first notes of the bugle the sun broke through the clouds. A clearly defined rainbow in the sky appeared to rise from every point in the ocean.

An officer called from the bridge "the outline of the Lusitania is just coming up on the echo-sounder chart."

We steamed slowly over the wreck and Robert Chisholm, the chief steward and a survivor of the Lusitania disaster, dropped the first wreath into the grey waters.

Wanted for Bigamy

Man Held for Bigamy on New Wedding Day

St. Louis Prisoner Arrested While Dining With "Fiancee"—Wanted at Los Angeles.

A man, arrested last night as he was dining with a St. Louis woman whom he said he was to marry today, is wanted in Los Angeles on an indictment charging bigamy and grand theft, the police learned this morning in checking over their files.

The prisoner who was registered at the York Hotel, where he was arrested, as "Dr. Franklin J. Miller, Los Angeles," obtained a license yesterday to marry Miss Ethel Heinemann, who also gave her address as the York Hotel, but who was quoted as telling "Dr. Miller" that she lived at 4515 Chouteau avenue.

The arrest followed a chance remark made by the room clerk at the York, Sixth and Market streets, to Detectives Martin J. Cliffe and Ferdinand Firle of the hotel squad that "Dr. Miller," who had been in the hotel since Oct. 25, was going to marry a woman he had met only a few days before.

A hurried investigation by the detectives convinced them that "Dr. Miller" was no physician. Summoning him from the dining room, where he was having dinner with Miss Heinemann, they took him to Police Headquarters. Today a warrant charging him with practicing medicine without a license was issued.

Meanwhile his identification data was checked against the files, which finally showed he was wanted in Los Angeles, where, a circular stated, he had operated as "J. F. Miller" and "Frank J. Miller."

He admitted using the names, according to the police, but denied his real name was Frank Politano, as the circular stated.

Admits Leaving With $300.

The Los Angeles police circular stated that "Dr. Miller" married a woman and robbed her there.

"Miller" told the police that he had married Mrs. Gertrude Washburn in Reno, Nev., in June, 1934, and subsequently had left her in Los Angeles, and that he "left with $200."

He said his first wife, now dead, had left him earlier in 1934.

He declared he had studied medicine in the University of Vienna, but was forced by the war to interrupt his studies. He was vagrant in the United States Army, in which he said he had served overseas, and treated as a joke the efforts of the police to pin him down to exact statements, replying to most questions, "You've got me there, Chief."

He told the police he was 42 years old. The marriage license gave his age, and that of Miss Heinemann as 39.

MISS GRACE V. TAYLOR DIES ON 69TH BIRTHDAY

Sister of Late Ex-Judge Was Active in Catholic Charities; Funeral Tomorrow.

Miss Grace V. Taylor, sister of the late Daniel G. Taylor, died today at De Paul Hospital after an illness of two months. She had been active in the work of Catholic charities in St. Louis for years.

Today was Miss Taylor's sixty-ninth birthday. She was born in St. Louis and resided with her sister, Miss Angelique Taylor, at 4402 McPherson avenue.

In 1924 she was president of the Children of Mary, of the Sacred Heart convent, Taylor and Maryland avenue, and was active in the work of the Helpers of Holy Souls, an organization for the care of the indigent sick. She also assisted Father Dempsey when he was beginning his various charities.

She was the daughter of Daniel G. Taylor Sr., Mayor of St. Louis from 1861 to 1863. Her brother, a former Circuit Judge, died Aug. 21 on a visit to Julia, Cal.

Funeral services will be held at the Sacred Heart convent at 9 a. m. tomorrow, with burial in Calvary cemetery.

SCHOOL BOARD HEAD KILLED BY SUSPENDED PRINCIPAL

Victim Fatally Wounded in Troy (N. Y.) Bank of Which He Was President.

TROY, N. Y., Nov. 8.—William F. Seber, president of the Troy School Board, was shot and fatally wounded today in the Manufacturers National Bank of which he was president.

John E. Healey Jr., suspended principal of Public School No. 5, who was in the bank, admitted the shooting, District Attorney Charles J. Ranney announced.

Seber was taken to a hospital with a pistol bullet wound in his abdomen. He died a short time later.

J. D. Welsh, vice-president and cashier of the bank, said he was positive whatever disagreement preceded the shooting had no connection with the bank affairs. He said Seber was shot at his desk.

MAN HELD FOR BIGAMY ON NEW WEDDING DAY

St. Louis Prisoner Arrested While Dining With "Fiancee"—Wanted at Los Angeles.

A man, arrested last night as he was dining with a St. Louis woman whom he said he was to marry today, is wanted in Los Angeles on an indictment charging bigamy and grand theft, the police learned this morning in checking over their files.

The prisoner who was registered at the York Hotel, where he was arrested, as "Dr. Franklin J. Miller, Los Angeles," obtained a license yesterday to marry Miss Ethel Heinemann, who also gave her address as the York Hotel, but who was quoted as telling "Dr. Miller" that she lived at 4515 Chouteau avenue.

The arrest followed a chance remark made by the room clerk at the York, Sixth and Market streets, to Detectives Martin J. Cliffe and Ferdinand Firle of the hotel squad that "Dr. Miller," who had been in the hotel since Oct. 25, was going to marry a woman he had met only a few days before.

A hurried investigation by the detectives convinced them that "Dr. Miller" was no physician. Summoning him from the dining room, where he was having dinner with Miss Heinemann, they took him to Police Headquarters. Today a warrant charging him with practicing medicine without a license was issued.

Meanwhile his identification data was checked against the files, which finally showed he was wanted in Los Angeles, where, a circular stated, he had operated as "J. F. Miller" and "Frank J. Miller."

He admitted using the names, according to the police, but denied his real name was Frank Politano, as the circular stated.

Admits Leaving With $300.

The Los Angeles police circular stated that "Dr. Miller" married a woman and robbed her there.

"Miller" told the police that he had married Mrs. Gertrude Washburn in Reno, Nev., in June, 1934, and subsequently had left her in Los Angeles, and that he "left with $200."

He said his first wife, now dead, had left him earlier in 1934.

He declared he had studied medicine in the University of Vienna, but was forced by the war to interrupt his studies. He was vagrant in the United States Army, in which he said he had served overseas, and treated as a joke the efforts of the police to pin him down to exact statements, replying to most questions, "You've got me there, Chief."

He told the police he was 42 years old. The marriage license gave his age, and that of Miss Heinemann as 39.

MISS GRACE V. TAYLOR DIES ON 69TH BIRTHDAY

Sister of Late Ex-Judge Was Active in Catholic Charities; Funeral Tomorrow.

Miss Grace V. Taylor, sister of the late Daniel G. Taylor, died today at De Paul Hospital after an illness of two months. She had been active in the work of Catholic charities in St. Louis for years.

Today was Miss Taylor's sixty-ninth birthday. She was born in St. Louis and resided with her sister, Miss Angelique Taylor, at 4402 McPherson avenue.

In 1924 she was president of the Children of Mary, of the Sacred Heart convent, Taylor and Maryland avenue, and was active in the work of the Helpers of Holy Souls, an organization for the care of the indigent sick. She also assisted Father Dempsey when he was beginning his various charities.

She was the daughter of Daniel G. Taylor Sr., Mayor of St. Louis from 1861 to 1863. Her brother, a former Circuit Judge, died Aug. 21 on a visit to Julia, Cal.

Funeral services will be held at the Sacred Heart convent at 9 a. m. tomorrow, with burial in Calvary cemetery.

Victim Fatally Wounded in Troy (N. Y.) Bank of Which He Was President.

TROY, N. Y., Nov. 8.—William F. Seber, president of the Troy School Board, was shot and fatally wounded today in the Manufacturers National Bank of which he was president.

John E. Healey Jr., suspended principal of Public School No. 5, who was in the bank, admitted the shooting, District Attorney Charles J. Ranney announced.

Seber was taken to a hospital with a pistol bullet wound in his abdomen. He died a short time later.

J. D. Welsh, vice-president and cashier of the bank, said he was positive whatever disagreement preceded the shooting had no connection with the bank affairs. He said Seber was shot at his desk.

FRANCE TRIES AAA SCHEME TO STEADY PRICE OF WINE

Production of Champagne Has Been Limited to 440 Gallons an Acre.
PARIS, Nov. 8.—France is following the example of the American agricultural program in reducing production of fine wines to maintain prices.
The limitation is on the volume of labeled wine which may be turned out for each acre of grapes. Champagne production, for example, has been limited to 440 gallons an acre. Wine over this quota may be sold, but not as champagne. Similar regulations are in effect in the Bordeaux region.

The quotas are set by agreement of producers and the agreements are made binding at law.

EX-CASHIER DEAD

HENRY GIESSENBIER.

HENRY GIESSENBIER,
FORMER CASHIER, DIES

Succumbs to Kidney Ailment at 43—One of Organizers of Junior C. or C.

Henry Giessenbier, former cashier of the defunct Scruggs, Vandervoort & Barney Bank, who was acquitted last March of charges of misapplying $19,700 of the bank's funds and making false book entries, died at City Hospital last night of a kidney ailment. He was 43 years old and resided at 4225 De Tonty street.

Long active in civic affairs, he was the first president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce and in 1920 was elected first president of the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce. In 1915 he founded the Young Men's Progressive Civic Association, predecessor of the local Junior Chamber of Commerce. Because of his work in organizing the national association he was made an honorary vice-president for life.

He went to work for the Scruggs bank in 1916 as assistant cashier and in 1920, when 29 years old, became the youngest bank cashier in St. Louis. He was indicted in 1933 after he had resigned his position with the bank in 1931 following a nervous breakdown.

The Government charged he took money from the accounts of customers of the bank and used it in personal speculation in the stock market. Insisting on his innocence from the beginning, he contended that in the transactions complained of, he acted not for himself, but as agent for the bank and the customers. He was acquitted by a jury verdict directed by Federal Judge Davis, who commented that the transactions had been ratified and that if the stock market had gone up instead of down there would have been no charges.

Recently he worked for the Be Mac Transport Co. as a solicitor. He is survived by his wife and two children, Dorothy, 12 years old, and Henry, 8.

MRS. LILLIE ADERTON ESTATE

Inventory Shows She Left Corporation Stock Valued at $201,000.

An inventory of the estate of Mrs. Lillie H. Aderton, who died July 11, was filed in Probate Court yesterday. Property valued at $367,027 was listed, the principal asset consisting of corporation stock carried at $201,095.

Among the stocks were 943 shares of preferred and 564 shares of common in the Globe-Democrat Publishing Co. having a par value of $100 a share, totaling $150,700. Other assets were bonds, $109,240; cash, $25,052; interest in realty, $30,746; and chattels, $894.

Mrs. Aderton was the widow of William T. Aderton and resided at Hotel Chase. She was a daughter of the late D. M. Houser, a former president of the Globe-Democrat. In her will she bequeathed her property to her sister, Mrs. Malotte H. Lehmann; brothers, Douglas B. and Duncan P. Houser; two nieces, Mrs. J. Soule Smith and Mrs. Ashley C. McKinley, and a nephew, William C. Houser. The latter, Douglas Houser and the St. Louis Union Trust Co. were appointed executors.

BASIS OF CHALLENGE OF COAL ACT STATED

Tonnage Shifts and Fixing of Wages Are Points Outlined—
Answer to Tax Petitions

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—As a basis for the suit challenging constitutionality of the Guffey Coal Act, William D. Whitney, attorney for James Walter Carter, president of the Carter Coal Co., presented in the District of Columbia Supreme Court today an outline in connection with cross-examination of one of the Government's witnesses and told the Court it would be the foundation for his final argument next week.

Whitney contended the shifts of tonnage from one coal producing district to another, cited by the Government as the primary result of price fluctuations, do not give Congress the power to regulate the coal industry. He said Congress did not have the power to fix prices as a regulatory measure and, even if it did, such power could not be used solely to sustain wages.

Minor Wages and Hours.
"If Congress had the power to fix wages," Whitney continued, "it would not have that power without fixing a standard and could not delegate that power to agreements between operators and miners to fix wages any way they liked." Under the Guffey Act, wages and hours of mine workers are to be fixed through collective bargaining.

Whitney said he would rest upon those points and added, "Any one of them upsets the act."

Whitney then amended his original complaint to say such "enforced agreements" as the wage contracts between operators and miners "deprive the workers of their liberty." He injected this amendment on the heels of testimony by Philip Murray, international vice-president of the United Mine Workers of America, that the district agreements provided penalties for miners striking in violation of the contracts.

Government's Brief.
Government attorneys filed a brief yesterday opposing a petition to the Supreme Court for an injunction to halt collection of an operators' tax provided by the Guffey Act.

"It is obvious," the Government brief contended, "that none of the Government officers, defendants in the suit, can take any measures against the Carter Coal Co. for collection of the tax until after Jan. 2, 1936." The tax went into effect Nov. 1 but is not collectible until Jan. 2.

"Petitioner alleges immediate, continuing and irreparable injury but the mere accrual of the tax during the pendency of the trial now in progress cannot possibly cause him any injury," the Government brief added.

Carter's brief, filed by Whitney, said denial of the injunction would not only injure the petitioner but "strike at a great and fundamental principle relating to the supreme function of the Federal judiciary in maintaining the doctrine of the enumeration of congressional powers."

"By making judicial review so hazardous as to leave the citizen no choice but to comply with congressional regulation of his conduct, it would operate to make the Congress the sole and exclusive judge of its own powers," the Carter brief argued.

Testimony on Stabilization.
George W. Reed, vice-president of the Peabody Coal Co. of Illinois, told the court that organization of the mine workers and Federal intervention on two occasions were the only stabilizing influences exerted on the industry during his 30 years' experience. He referred to appointment of a fuel administrator during the World War and to operation of the NRA bituminous coal code.

E. C. Mahan of Knoxville, Tenn., president of the Southern Coal & Coke Co., said:
"I don't relish the idea of the union controlling this business but I don't see any way for stabilizing the industry without it."

LATE SENATOR CLARK'S WIDOW AND DAUGHTER GET $500,000 Court Orders Initial Payment Under Trust Established by Montana.

By the Associated Press.
TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 8.—Vice-Chancellor Vivian M. Lewis has ordered the Commercial Trust Co. of Jersey City, keepers of a trust fund established by the late United States Senator William A. Clark of Montana, to pay his widow and daughter $500,000.

Senator Clark established the fund for his infant daughter, Hugonette M. Clark, and included in it 36,000 shares of the United Verde Copper Co. The trust agreement stipulated that when she reached the age of 28 she should receive one-third of the fund.

The daughter assigned half of her share to her mother, Mrs. Anna E. Clark, in 1929. When the daughter is 33 years old she is to receive a second third, the final third being payable when she is 38.

Mrs. Clark and her daughter demanded payment of the first third in June, 1934, but the bank declined, saying it was unable to determine the value of the copper shares. The Vice-Chancellor fixed their value at $55 each, which, with other securities and interest, made the initial payment $500,000.

CHARITIES SOLICITORS GETTING INSTRUCTIONS

Four Meetings Held Yesterday and Others Are Scheduled for Tonight.

Daily instruction meetings for groups of solicitors in the $2,850,000 United Charities campaign which will open Monday are being held as preparations for the drive near completion.

Four such meetings were held yesterday. Workers in the central, northeast and northwest region of the general division are to meet tonight at Hotel Coronado at 6:30 o'clock. Solicitors in the larger subscriptions division, which has conducted its canvass in advance of the formal opening, held their final separate report meeting today at Hotel Statler.

Three Objectives to Overcome.
At a meeting of the downtown region of the general division, held last night at Hotel Statler, R. Walton Chubb, chairman of the speakers' division, told the workers they would have three principal objections to overcome in talking with prospective donors. The objections, he said, would be that the private charities did not need help because the Government was carrying the relief burden, that the campaign cost too much, and that the prospective subscriber "is tired of campaigns, anyway."

"As for the first of these," Chubb said, "it is well known that the Government is sharing none of the cost of carrying on the hospitals, orphanages and other institutions included in United Charities. As a matter of fact, the Government will soon withdraw from direct relief, which will throw a heavier burden on the privately supported agencies."

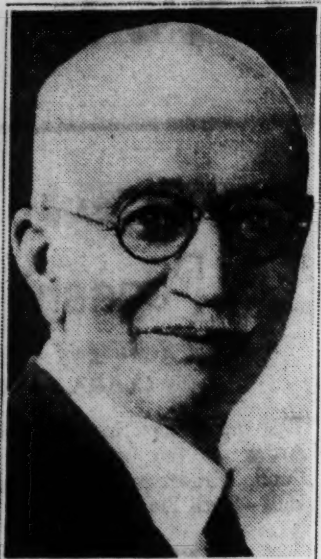

Campaign Cost 4 1/2 Per Cent.
"Questions as to campaign costs can be answered just as definitely. The cost of conducting United Charities campaigns is held to 4 1/2 per cent of the amount raised, while the cost of year-round administration amounts to 3 1/4 per cent. Each of these items represents an appreciable economy as compared with the campaigns carried on prior to the formation of United Charities."

"As to the third objection, one of the principal reasons for United Charities is to have one big drive once a year in place of a large number of individual appeals for funds conducted throughout the year by the various agencies."

In another meeting held last night at Hotel Statler workers in the group solicitation division, formerly designated as the employe division, held their first report session. Eugene H. Harms, division chairman, said preliminary reports indicated that it would exceed its quota. He told of one instance in which 35 girls, employed at a factory where their maximum earnings are $8 a week, signing pledges to give 10 cents a week. Twenty of the girls, Harms said, formerly received help from United Charities agencies.

DETROIT ART INSTITUTE GETS LOST PAINTING BY RAPHAEL

Picture Missing for Centuries, Rediscovered in Royal Collection in Central Europe.

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 8.—The Detroit Institute of Arts disclosed yesterday that it had acquired one of the lost paintings by Raphael, Florentine master. Dr. William R. Valentiner, director of the institute, said the painting, lost for centuries, had been rediscovered in a royal collection in Central Europe.

The story of how the institute obtained the painting and the circumstances surrounding its rediscovery, Dr. Valentiner said, would not be disclosed for one year. Purchase price was not disclosed.

He said considerable mystery surrounded the identity of the royal collection where the work was rediscovered.

The picture, Valentiner said, bears Raphael's signature and date, indicating that it was painted in 1506.

There are only eight other Raphaels owned in this country, he said, and the only other galleries that possess the Master's work are the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York and the Gardner Museum in Boston.

Raphaels have sold as high as $1,100,000 in this country, and none have changed hands for less than $200,000, said the director.

Peoria Postoffice Site Chosen.

52 INDICTED, ACCUSED OF $4,500,000 FRAUD

Arnold C. Mason and Others Charged With Using Mails in Selling Stock.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Wallace G. Garland, who as a college student was praised for his unorthodox and interesting financial ideas, heads a list of 52 individuals named in a Federal grand jury indictment charging a $4,500,000 mail fraud.

Arnold C. Mason, formerly of St. Louis, also an honor graduate of a university business school, and various salesmen and associates of Garland in the Public Service Holding Corporation and its affiliated companies are the other individuals named in the indictment returned yesterday which also listed 20 corporate defendants.

The indictment alleges that an automatic traffic signal patent, which Garland received from his father and which had an original book value of $7500, was increased, through a series of paper manipulations, to a claimed value of $35,000,000. Stock in the series of corporations formed on the basis of this patent is alleged to have been sold by Garland and his associates through fraudulent mail advertising.

Another defendant, David Saylor, who also received his degree in science in 1930, lives in Annville, Pa.

POLICE CHIEF AGAIN URGES LOWER NIGHT SPEED LIMIT

Would Make Maximum 25 Miles an Hour; 6053 Traffic Violations in October.

Chief of Police John J. McCarthy urged again today that the legal speed limit be reduced from 30 to 25 miles an hour during the night, after inspecting the October report of arrests for traffic violations, which he said evidenced "a disregard for traffic regulations and safety factors."

October arrests for traffic violations totaled 6053, including 794 charges of speeding and 1606 arrests for ignoring stop signs. Forty-five arrests were made for driving through safety zones and 109 for passing to the left of them. Arrests for careless driving totaled 474 and 46 motorists were arrested for driving while intoxicated.

The 25-mile-an-hour night speed limit, from sundown to sunup, was recommended by the Police Department last September. Maj. Albert Bond Lambert, a member of the Board of Police Commissioners, estimated this measure would reduce traffic fatalities here from 120 to 90 a year.

Charles M. Schwab, former president of the United States Steel Corporation, was a board member of Automatic Signal, one of the affiliated companies, but resigned, it was said, when the promoters put their stock on the market.

Mason's father is a department manager of Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co. in St. Louis.

FARMERS OFFER REGULATION IN AAA CORN-HOG PROGRAM

Prepare to Revise Rule That Fixed Part of Crop Must Go Into Silo.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Corn-hog farmers helping the AAA draft a new control program voted today for elimination of regulations as to how much of their corn they may harvest for silage and how much is to be left for maturity.

It was the first definite recommendation by farmers and extension workers from 25 states in conference for the last week with farm officials discussing the 1936-37 adjustment program.

Up to date the acreage of corn grown for silage in the 1932-33 base period year has been included in a farmer's corn base but the AAA required him to store silage equal to that of those years in order to obtain benefit payments. Where crops were short, farmers complained they had to put an undue percentage of their crop into silos.

The proposal would permit growers to continue including in their base, all corn acreage whether for silage or not, but would allow them to harvest the acreage in any form they saw fit.

The conference was working on proposed methods of adjusting inequitable corn and hog quotas, considered likely to give county farmer allotment committees wide authority to make adjustments.

Sentiment of the farmers' appeared to be crystallizing for limiting hog production again next year to 90 per cent of each farmer's 1932-33 average to prevent too great an expansion in 1937. The Farm Administration had recommended tentatively that farmers are permitted to produce up to their 1932-33 average as part of the AAA effort to increase pork supplies 30 per cent next year.

COLD SNAP ON PACIFIC COAST CAUSES HEAVY LOSS TO CROPS

Damage of Several Million Dollars to Fruits and Vegetables Reported.

By the Associated Press.
SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 8.—A loss of several million dollars in Pacific Coast crops has occurred as a result of a sub-normal cold period which prevailed more than a week before lifting Tuesday.

Fruit orchards and vegetable fields of Washington, Oregon, Idaho and California suffered. Greatest damage in the Northwest was to apples and potatoes. In California, tomatoes still in the fields were ruined. Peas, except in the Imperial Valley, were damaged 50 per cent. Considerable damage also was reported to the California grape and cotton crops.

In Washington State, where the price of some vegetables advanced 300 per cent in a few days, jobbers estimated losses at $4,000,000 for apples, $1,000,000 for potatoes and $25,000 for celery. Shippers said the cold snap reduced Seattle milk receipts to 10 per cent.

F. Lee Johnson, Idaho Commissioner, said from 3000 to 7000 carloads of potatoes out of the estimated 30,000-car crop had been lost. The Idaho apples loss was placed at 1500 to 2500 carloads out of the expected 6500 carload yield.

PARISH TESTIFIES PIPELINE FIRM HAD FIGHT IN BOARD

Says Dispute Developed
After Missouri - Kansas
Sold Panhandle Eastern Stock to Columbia Gas.

MINUTES 'FALSIFIED,' HE ONCE CHARGED

Witness Asserts This Was Insertion of Statement Attributed to Charles A.
Munroe.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—An account of a story board meeting of the Panhandle Eastern Pipeline Co. at which he charged "falsification" of minutes of a preceding meeting, was given today by Frank P. Parish at a Federal Trade Commission hearing.

Parish, 39-year-old president of the Missouri-Kansas Pipeline Co., now in receivership, said there had been inserted in the minutes of a meeting on Aug. 13, 1931, a statement, never made, but attributed to Charles A. Munroe, at the time vice-president and now head of the Columbia Gas and Electric Co. That event, he said, was part of a factional scrap between Missouri-Kansas and Columbia that developed after the former, which once owned Panhandle Eastern, had sold half the stock to Columbia. The contract called for Missouri-Kansas and Columbia to have four members each on the Panhandle Eastern board with a ninth impartial director. The contract provided also for both companies to receive 20,000,000 feet daily of Panhandle Eastern's natural gas output.

Columbia members on the Panhandle Eastern board, he said, contended that Panhandle Eastern might not have sufficient reserves to supply 20,000,000 feet each to both firms. He said, too, that they argued there had been an agreement for a division of territory and wanted to be sure that alleged agreement was observed.

Missouri-Kansas representatives, argued, Parish asserted, that there had been no such arrangement and any of that type would violate the anti-trust laws.

Parish said that on Oct. 27, 1931, at the next board meeting after he had received a copy of the minutes which he said were altered, he "charged the board secretary with falsification and brought a reporter with me." He added that a motion was made to adjourn before anything was accomplished.

Alleged False Paragraph.
This was the paragraph which Parish said was incorporated falsely in the minutes:

"Mr. Munroe made it clear that neither he nor any other representatives of the Columbia interests had ever said that Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line Co. would not sell gas to Missouri-Kansas, but that he did say that representatives of the Columbia interests had expressed grave doubt as to the advisability of the Panhandle management committing the Panhandle line to deliver gas in the quantities and for the periods contemplated in the proposed contracts with the Columbia and Missouri-Kansas interests."

In minutes of a board meeting on May 26, introduced into the hearing record, Fred Crawford, president of Panhandle Eastern, was said to have stated that there was a definite agreement that any Panhandle Eastern gas distributed by Columbia was to go to Indianapolis, Northern Indiana, Detroit, Michigan points and have Ohio connections and that Missouri-Kansas distribution was to be limited to Southwestern Indiana, and extend down through Terre Haute and to Nashville.

Crawford was quoted as saying that Panhandle Eastern had notified both companies that it did not consider either entitled to gas if used in violation of that supposed agreement.

Columbia members on the board, Parish said, tried and failed to obtain from Missouri-Kansas representatives an admission that such an agreement had been reached.

Yesterday's Testimony.
Before the hearing recessed yesterday Parish had reached the point in his story where, he said, Columbia Gas & Electric Co. had obtained in 1930 part control of the Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line Co., a key subsidiary of Missouri-Kansas. He said Columbia had acquired $20,000,000 in bonds intended to finance a Panhandle Eastern pipe line, taken over four of nine directorships on the Panhandle Eastern board and then won acceptance of a suggestion that George H. Howard be given a directorship. Howard, is head of the United Corporation, a holding company for Morgan Utilities, Columbia Gas & Electric is one of these.

Bond: From National City Co.
Columbia, Parish said, got the bonds from the National City Co. of New York. Evidence was produced yesterday to show that the National City Co. had been exonerated by Henry L. Doherty for giving "moral and financial support" to Parish.

Telegrams of protest from Doherty to Charles E. Mitchell of National City went into the record. Doherty maintained that National City should have consulted his organization, which already was constructing a pipe line from Texas to Chicago through the area Panhandle Eastern proposed to serve. Mitchell defended the bond purchase with an assertion that "we see no threat to other companies or the utility industry, if they and it truly desire harmonious relations, are willing to give as well as take, and recognize established factors in the situation."

Doherty promptly sent a second protest, asserting that "your people" should have known about the Eastern Gas Pipe Line under construction and should have consulted Cities Service."

Parish identified the line as one from Texas to Chicago. Mitchell wired that he had nothing to add to his previous message. That drew from the Cities Service head another long telegram which included this: "Parish has claimed he was not trying to injure us and yet as soon as this deal was announced he or his officials went to the Kansas City Star and said this deal would enable them to give Kansas City cheap gas and we are now being subjected to the merciless castigation of that paper. "We are already in the position of being forced to sell gas for 14 cents in Kansas City and if cheap gas is a good thing for Kansas City then Parish and his partners should sell cheap gas in their markets."

SLOW WORK ON AGE PENSION CLAIMS

Three State Appointed Investigators Handle 52 Cases in Three Weeks.

Three State-appointed investigators for the St. Louis Old Age Assistance Board have taken three weeks to investigate and report on 52 applications for State old age pensions, Charles Hertenstein, a member of the board, told a Post-Dispatch reporter yesterday. With the prospect that 15,000 applications will be filed in St. Louis, Hertenstein said that at this rate the outlook for a speedy disposition of the cases was not very favorable.

To date, about 4000 applications have been filed with the St. Louis office, which was re-opened Monday after being closed for five weeks, because of a dispute between State and city pension officials over compensation for a local office staff.

Appointment of a fourth investigator for the St. Louis office became known yesterday when Russell J. Kettler, 1716 Waverly place, reported at the office with a certificate of appointment from Allen M. Thompson, State Old Age Pension Commissioner.

Kettler told Hertenstein he was a former piano teacher and had also been a city sanitary inspector, until discharged recently in the Democratic factional row. He was recommended for the appointment by State Senator Percy Pepon of St. Louis.

PREMIER OF CANADA VISITS WASHINGTON

Mackenzie King Confers with Hull; to Dine at White House Tonight.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Prime Minister Mackenzie King of Canada conferred with Secretary of State Hull today about the general economic situation at home and abroad. The conversation took place after Hull, Undersecretary William Phillips, Assistant Secretary Francis E. Sayre and economic and trade advisers of the State Department had called on President Roosevelt, apparently to give him latest information on the progress of negotiations for a Canadian-American reciprocal trade treaty.

Emerging from Hull's office, King said to newspaper men that it was "not safe to assume anything." Hull, however, pointed out to reporters that both Governments had been referring in the last few months to the desirability of working out a trade arrangement as expeditiously as possible. He said no specific matters concerning the proposed pact were discussed in his meeting with King.

Asked if there had been any reference to the Ottawa agreement of 1932, in which the Dominion extended preferential tariff treatment to Great Britain, Hull said there may have been some parenthetical reference to that, but there was no concrete talk on any phase of trade agreements.

Hull was host to King at luncheon today and will be a guest at President Roosevelt's dinner for the Canadian Prime Minister tonight.

TAX ON NATURAL GAS URGED AT ILLINOIS MINE MEETING

New Source of Relief Funds Suggested by Springfield Mayor.

By the Associated Press. SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Nov. 8.—Mayor John W. Kapp Jr. of Springfield urged delegates at the Illinois Mining Institute today to demand that Gov. Horner call another special session of the Legislature to tax natural gas. He said the natural gas industry, which he described as "laborless," should be taxed for the benefit of unemployed persons.

The Southern Illinois Reciprocal Trade Association at Belleville has urged a tax of 5 cents per 1000 cubic feet on natural gas in the State, estimating that it would provide at least $2,350,000 annually for relief. Such a tax, the association reported yesterday, would "greatly reduce the necessity for State and Federal relief funds in the coal producing counties."

T. J. Thomas of Chicago was elected president of the institute. W. J. Jenkins of St. Louis was named vice-president, the office formerly held by Thomas. B. E. Schonthal of Chicago was re-elected secretary-treasurer. Members elected to the executive board include C. J. Sanzone, St. Louis.

PILOT AND WOMAN KILLED IN VIRGINIA PLANE CRASH

Sisters On Way to Florida Separated by Death; Survivor in Petersburg (Va.) Hospital.

By the Associated Press. LAWRENCEVILLE, Va., Nov. 8.—An airplane pilot and one of his two women passengers were killed and the other passenger was seriously injured yesterday in the crash of their plane 15 miles south of here.

Lafayette Rothstein of Port Washington, N. Y., the pilot, who was flying his own plane, was reported as having taken off from a Long Island airport early in the morning to take Anne Mullon and her younger sister, Vivian, to visit their parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Mullon, at Green Cove Springs, Fla. He was instantly killed.

The passenger, about 35 years of age, who died in a hospital at Roanoke Rapids, N. C., was identified as Anne. The other passenger, believed to be her sister, Vivian, was taken to a Petersburg, Va., hospital where her condition was reported as "fair" with prospects for her recovery.

TURKISH POLICE ROUNDING UP VAGABOND CHILDREN

5000 a Year Taken Into Custody in Istanbul; Parents Made Responsible for Them.

By the Associated Press. ISTANBUL, Nov. 8.—Thousands of vagabond children are being rounded up by authorities here. Special institutions are being opened for the education and care of these children, boys especially, who roam the streets, begging or stealing.

In Istanbul more than 5000 of these children are arrested yearly, and as many more in other important cities. Born for the most part in homes where poverty and drunkenness are the rule, the children seek the free life of the streets as a refuge from their families.

Under the new regulations the parents of children found on the streets during school hours are liable to punishment.

Woman Elected Mayor.

By the Associated Press. WACONIA, Minn., Nov. 8.—Mrs. Louise Bucks, running on a reform ticket, is Waconia's first woman Mayor. She was elected Wednesday. Mrs. Bucks, who promised appointment of a new Police Chief and an economic administration, defeated two men seeking the Mayor's office.

AUSTRALIAN LITIGATION OVER UNDERWEAR COSTS $100,000

Doctor's Suit, Asserting Chemical Caused Skin Disease, Goes to Highest British Court.

LONDON, Nov. 8.—A pair of underpants of the plain, everyday long type, intended for a brief and obscure life in the service of the law, have caused litigation costing nearly $100,000.

Within six years 4,737,600 similar garments have been made by the manufacturers. Only one gained the height of publicity. An Australian doctor who bought the garment alleged that an irritating chemical in the cuffs caused a skin disease.

The Supreme Court of South Australia awarded $11,200. The manufacturers appealed to a higher court and won. The doctor carried the case to the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council, the highest tribunal in the British empire. The most expensive lawyers of Australia argued the case here for nine days, and the Council found in the doctor's favor. Court costs mounted tremendously, and before the Privy Council alone were $50,000.

9685 IN BUFFALO GETTING RELIEF, ALSO ON PAYROLLS

Chamber of Commerce Asserts Its Expose Has Saved City $83,291.

By the Associated Press. BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 8.—Exposing 9685 persons receiving relief while on industrial payrolls, officials of the Chamber of Commerce reported today they had saved the city $83,291 in preventing continuance of the frauds.

The double-income cases were discovered, Edwin J. Schwanhauser, chairman of an investigating committee, said in an inquiry suggested by Relief Bureau officials. A total of 2203 company payrolls were checked. Nearly 400 of the 9685 cases of fraud were turned over to the legal department of the city to seek restitution of the money received in relief. The balance of the cases were settled in various ways.

There were 36,280 on relief at the time of the survey.

$4,000,000 STATE LIQUOR TAX

Becker Hopes to Get $500,000 More by End of Year.

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 8.—Missouri's revenue from liquor taxes so far this year passed the $4,000,000 mark yesterday. E. J. Becker, state liquor control supervisor, announced the figure was $4,000,347. He continued hopeful that the department's $4,500,000 "goal" for this year would be reached. Last year's revenue totaled $2,363,745.

Trousers Delay Trial.

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich., Nov. 8.—A murder trial was delayed in Circuit Court today while a juror bought a new pair of trousers, which was needed, the Court ruled, to preserve decorum in the courtroom. A portly juror stooped too abruptly. The Judge signed an order on the County Treasurer for $5 and instructed the bailiff to take the embarrassed juror to a clothier. The trial got under way half an hour later. The $5 will be deducted from the juror's pay.

State Inspector Killed in Crash.

MOBILE, Ala., Nov. 8.—Dr. C. H. Dixon of Mobile, inspector for the State Health Department, was killed today when his auto collided head-on with a truck near Macon. Dr. Dixon was a former Coroner in Monroe County and also of Randolph County. His death was the fourth in the family during the last year. Mrs. Dixon and two daughters having died within that time.

WASHINGTON U. MASS MEETING

Students Assemble in Quadrangle in Interests of Peace.

More than 200 Washington University students attended a short mass meeting on the main quadrangle of the university shortly after noon today in the interests of peace. The demonstration was part of the "Student Mobilization for Peace" movement, sponsored by three national student organizations.

Dr. Stuart A. Queen, head of the department of sociology, and four students spoke. Posters were displayed and circulars, warning against the entry of the United States in another European war, were distributed. The meeting was held under auspices of seven university organizations.

D. C. STEPHENSON GAINS POINT

Evidence to Be Presented of Alleged Trial Irregularities.

By the Associated Press. LAFORTE, Ind., Nov. 8.—D. C. Stephenson, former Indiana grand dragon of the Ku Klux Klan, serving a life sentence for the murder of an Indianapolis girl, gained a point in his legal fight for freedom today when Judge William W. Madge Oberholzer, a State House employee. Stephenson has made 10 previous attempts through court action to obtain a new trial. All were unsuccessful.

FIVE CONVICTED IN WHIPPING

Sentences Suspended; Three Acquitted of Cotton Mill Violence.

By the Associated Press. GAINESVILLE, Ga., Nov. 8.—Three men were acquitted and five others received suspended sentences yesterday for the whipping of John Snead, time service expert at the Chicopee cotton mill. The eight men are former employees of the mill.

The beating of Snead preceded calling of a strike at the mill last August. He testified that a group of men took him from the plant and struck him with a strap, demanding that he leave Chicopee.

T.S. SHEPHERD, ENGINEER, DIES

Drilled Catskill Tunnel for New York's Water Supply.

By the Associated Press. LEBANON, Ind., Nov. 8.—Thomas S. Shepherd, 54 years old, noted engineer, died at his suburban home here yesterday.

One of his achievements was the drilling of a 19-mile, $12,000,000 tunnel through the Catskill Mountains to carry a water supply to New York City. He built a $12,000,000 marble dam and water system for Athens, Greece.

Sets New Corn Husking Record.

By the Associated Press. NEWTOWN, Ind., Nov. 8.—Lawrence Pitzer, State corn husking champion, broke the present national record in the twelfth annual national contest here this afternoon when he shucked 38,842 bushels in 80 minutes. He was the first of the 18 contestants to finish.

TWO HURT IN AUTO COLLISION; SIGNAL LIGHTS TURNED OFF

Police Who Saw Early Morning Crash Say Cars Were Traveling at Fast Rate.

Two drivers are in serious condition at City Hospital with skull injuries following an automobile collision at Jefferson and Gravois avenues at 2:20 a. m. today, a time when the automatic traffic signals are turned off.

Clifford Johnson, 29-year-old mechanic, 3657A Minnesota avenue, who was driving south in Jefferson avenue, also suffered fractured ribs. His wife was riding with friends in another car following him. The second driver was identified as Edwin A. Czajkowski, who is in the shoe business in Collinsville, Ill., under the name E. A. Craft. He was identified by his father, Samuel Czajkowski, 3619 Hartford street. He was driving east in Gravois, and both machines were traveling at a fast rate, according to two policemen, who witnessed the crash.

HEAD OF ILLINOIS DOCTORS ASSAILS SOCIAL SECURITY ACT

Dr. Charles B. Reed Says It Is "Attempt to Regiment Medical Men Under State Control."

The Social Security Act passed at the last session of Congress was attacked as "an attempt to regiment medical men under state control," by Dr. Charles B. Reed of Chicago, president of the Illinois State Medical Association, at the opening meeting of the Southern Illinois Medical Association conference in Belleville yesterday.

He charged the act is "a direct and ill-advised attack on public welfare," and that it "means the science of medicine is to be dragged into the gutter of political robbery at the behest of social theorists."

RECORD NUT CROP FORECAST

107,000 Tons Predicted, Compared With 79,800 Average.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—The Agriculture Department forecasts a record crop of nuts this year. Probably 107,000 tons of walnuts, pecans, almonds and filberts. A decrease in consumption during the last few years was attributed to lowered family incomes. The average annual production for the last five years was 79,800 tons.

RICHMAN BROTHERS
FINE CLOTHES MAKERS SINCE 1879

INCREASED COSTS DO NOT IMPROVE QUALITY

Price alone is neither a reliable clue to quality or a measure of value. Because price, very often, is a pyramid of profits and expenses which have nothing to do with quality.

Many of the charges which raise the price and reduce the value of clothes are completely avoided by Richman Brothers.

Our own shops make the clothes that our stores sell. Therefore we have no wholesale selling expenses. And ownership of stores eliminates the necessity of duplicated profits.

We have no delivery expenses or credit losses to add to the price of our clothes. And nothing is added at the beginning of the season to provide for sale reductions later on.

That is why it is difficult to distinguish between a Richman Brothers overcoat and those that sell at much higher prices, and why the difference in price is a clear cash saving.

TEACHING ARITHMETIC BY STORY-TELLING

Use of Libraries Discussed by Speakers at State Teachers' Meetings.

Speakers at the annual conference of the Missouri Library Association, which met jointly yesterday with the Department of Libraries of the Missouri State Teachers' Association at Jefferson Hotel, stressed the fact that "libraries should be the heart of the school."

Mrs. Gertrude Drury, of the staff of the St. Louis Public Library, was elected president of the association. Other officers chosen were: Paul Howard, of Rolla, and Miss Sara Malony, of St. Joseph, vice-presidents; Miss Mary English, of Sedalia, secretary; and Miss Lucille Brumbaugh, of the State Teachers' College at Maryville, treasurer.

"I am amazed at the large number of books used by children in our schools today," said Claude A. Phillips, professor of education at the University of Missouri and superintendent of the Elementary School, Columbia, at the afternoon session of the three-day conference, which ends today.

Phillips stated that up to the Civil War no books were written for children, and that it was not until the Herbartian influence, which taught interest in place of discipline, that text books attempted to interest school children. "Right now we are interested in finding out what meanings an individual student reveals by watching his vocabulary, his style, his studies," said Phillips, who has been experimenting with his Elementary School by the "learn by doing" method. As an example of the modern text book, Phillips cited a publishing company that teaches arithmetic by story telling.

"We teach sixth grade pupils how to obtain books from any library; we do not force books on them, but we furnish all sorts of books in our library," he said. "With guidance children can be got to read mature books."

Books, activities, and knowledge of the community, Phillips thinks, are the main factors that mature school children in the grades.

Missouri Libraries.

The first comprehensive study of facilities in Missouri libraries, which was recently made a project through the rural sociology department of the University of Missouri, furnished the material of an address by Melvin W. Sneed, of the rural sociology department of the university.

There are over 1,000,000 books out of 403 libraries in Missouri, and 26 counties in Missouri that have no school libraries. Sneed said. The size of libraries increases as does the number of students, but does not increase proportionately, according to the report. In 1934 the average expenditure for library facilities in 300 schools was less than $125 a year. The report also revealed that 45 per cent of the libraries do not have newspapers.

B. Lamar Johnson, librarian of Stephens College, Columbia, spoke on "Joint Action for Educational Efficiency." "The first essential for effective joint action for educational efficiency is that the teacher must be acquainted with material in his school library; he must know the problems of teachers and pupils in his school," he said.

What People Read.

Louis Round Wilson, president of the American Library Association and dean of the graduate school library at the University of Chicago, spoke at a luncheon and at the annual banquet of the association yesterday at the hotel. "Fifty per cent of adults in United States have sixth grade reading ability; 15 per cent read books; 60 per cent read newspapers," he said, to show that the libraries of the United States did not have adequate facilities to give the people the "reading habit." He declared that libraries must have more funds to continue their work of educating and helping the people of the State.

Winthrop Holt Chenery, librarian of Washington University, also spoke at the banquet, at which Ada M. Elliott, president of the association, was toastmistress.

At the luncheon yesterday Lloyd W. King, State superintendent of public schools, greeted the association and said he would do all he could to bring about the State library plan, as outlined Wednesday in a speech by Henry O. Severance, librarian of the University of Missouri.

without relation to revenues." Columbia, with a district Land Bank, Seed Loan headquarters and WPA, PWA, NEC, FIA and FERA State headquarters, is a center of New Deal activity.

Theodore Roosevelt on Presidency. LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 8.—Theodore Roosevelt of New York has written to Ernest M. Pollard of Lincoln, former Republican Congressman, that he is unwilling to announce at this time whether he will be a candidate for the presidency in 1936, Pollard announces. "I think I can best serve in this crisis by devoting my entire attention to the attack and letting the question of nominations take care of itself," Roosevelt wrote Pollard, who had urged him to become a candidate.

COLUMBIA (S. C.) UNIT QUITS U. S. CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Anti-New Deal Proclivities Unpopular in City With Many Federal Agencies.

By the Associated Press.
COLUMBIA, S. C., Nov. 8.—William Lykes, secretary, announced last night that the Columbia Chamber of Commerce had resigned from the Chamber of Commerce of the United States because of its "anti-New Deal proclivities."

Lykes made the announcement when asked what the Columbia Chamber's reply had been to a questionnaire of the National Chamber asking, among other things, whether the Government should "exercise Federal spending power

U. S. BUREAU TO TEST COAL USED IN CITY

Report Expected to Show Types Best for Coking and Smokeless Consumption.

Post-Dispatch Bureau, 201-205 Kellogg Bldg.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 8. — The United States Bureau of Mines has agreed to test Illinois fuels burned in the St. Louis area to determine which is best adapted to coking and smokeless consumption, City Counselor Charles M. Hay of St.

Louis said today.

Hay, Mayor Dickmann and Associate City Counselor Wayman conferred with O. P. Hood, chief of the technical branch, and other officials of the Bureau of Mines last yesterday. The Board of Aldermen in St. Louis provided $7500 for such an investigation and with this sum the Bureau of Mines will be able to test seven or eight different types of coal, Hay said.

Bureau officials made it clear, according to Hay, that they would not give any specific recommendations as to the type of fuel St. Louis should use. They will merely give a technical report on the nature of the coals submitted for testing, showing the kind of coke derived from each and the quantity of gas.

The tests will be made at the bureau's fuel laboratory at Pittsburgh. It is expected that the tests will begin about the first of the year, Hay said. Several months will be required to complete the investigation.

Originally $15,000 was asked of the Board of Aldermen. With this sum the Bureau of Mines would have been able to make a more comprehensive analysis of the St.
Louis smoke and fuel problem. It was said at the bureau. The request was cut to $7500 by the Aldermen.

"The sum appropriated," Hay said, "is not sufficient to permit the Bureau of Mines to go into the matter of economy and policy in fuel consumption. The investigation by the Bureau of Mines is part of our general attack upon the smoke problem."

BIG DISTRIBUTORS TAKE PART IN MILK HEARING

Pevely Man Tells AAA Solicitor Price Paid Farmers Is Too High.

Representatives of large St.
Louis milk distributors who had been silent through two days of a hearing on a proposed milk marketing agreement for the St. Louis area before representatives of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration at Hotel Chase, yesterday took part in the discussion.

J. William Hagemeyer, secretary-treasurer of the Pevely Dairy Co., was asked to bring figures on the cost of milk distribution in St.
Louis to support his contention that the present price to farmers of $2.25 for 100 pounds of milk sold as bottled milk at 10 cents a quart or $1.65, was excessive.

"We haven't spoken before," Hagemeyer said in answer to a question from Harry B. Cook, Assistant AAA Solicitor in charge of the hearing, "because we haven't anything to offer."

Wants Accurate Reports on Use.

Asked if he believed the Federal program for regulation of milk marketing was a good thing, he replied that the investigation on milk according to use made of it, as a basis of payment to the farmer, was not desirable without adequate enforcement of regulations requiring accurate reports on the use to which the milk was put.

Hagemeyer suggested that $1.85 for 100 pounds of Class 1 milk was a fair price and that the present price for Class 3 milk, including all not used as bottled milk and for certain dairy products covered by the Class 2 designation, was an undue burden. Prices of Classes 2 and 3 fluctuate with the Chicago butter market.

Previously, Louis Lange, president of the Lange Milk Co., representing the St. Louis Milk Distributors' Association, an organization of about 25 smaller handlers, had suggested a $1.85 price for Class 1 milk and recommended the elimination of the third class, placing all milk not used as bottled milk in Class 2.

High Cost of Distribution.

The cost of milk distribution in St. Louis was unusually high, Hagemeyer said, because deliverymen worked only six days a week, whereas, in Eastern cities in which there is no union, drivers worked seven days a week before the NRA reduced hours.

He said the reduction in retail milk prices from 12 to 10 cents a quart last Sept. 14 was the result of "competition" and that the expected increase in volume of sales as a result of the lower price had not been realized.

"It seems that just so many people are going to buy fluid milk," he added.

Price reductions in cream and other products, made at the same time the milk price was cut, were restored Nov. 1, but milk remained at 10 cents. The restoration of cream prices was attacked as unjustified by a report of the St.
Louis Consumers' Council read into the record by Dr. Joseph M. Klamon, associate professor of economics and marketing at Washington University, who also made an oral statement yesterday speaking as an individual consumer.

Charge Stricken From Record.

His charges that some farmers had been paid the class 3 price for milk which actually was used for purposes specified for class 2, brought objection from Paul Y.
Vernon, attorney for the St. Louis Dairy Co. and the Highland Dairy Farms Co. It was stricken from the record as hearsay. Arthur Kerkhoff of the Pevely Dairy Co. also challenged Klamon's figures on milk prices.

Dr. J. F. Donnell of Crystal City, Mo., physician, banker, owner of two dairy farms and president of the recently organized Co-operative Milk Producers of Missouri, with 250 members, presented a statement advocating payment to milk producers of 45 per cent of the price of retail milk in St. Louis for all their milk. Under his plan, surplus milk would be withheld from the market by producers.

He objected to payment for class 2 and class 3 milk on a basis of the Chicago butter market, contending that when the price of butter rose to a point where a profit could be made on milk, the use of butter substitutes immediately forced butter prices down, with a consequent drop in milk prices.

AAA THINKS POTATO SUBSIDY IS UNLIKELY WITH HIGH PRICES

Believes Few Farmers Will Seek to Have Plan Put Into Effect

Following Increase.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8. — The Agricultural Adjustment Administration believes that with potato prices shooting upward, few farmers will seek to put the 1935 subsidy plan into operation. Under that program, the AAA would pay growers 25 cents for each 100 pounds of potatoes used as livestock feed or diverted into industrial uses such as the making of starch, potato flour or alcohol.

The plan was formulated to increase prices on this year's crop by removing surpluses. However, in the last 30 days the price of one major commercial variety of potato has more than doubled. The prices of other types also have advanced sharply. Principal reasons given are early freezing weather in large Western producing states and market reaction to preparations for compulsory potato production control next year.

JUDGE RULES AWARD AGAINST MAUDE ADAMS IS EXCESSIVE

Says He Will Set Aside $25,000 Verdict Unless J. D. Williams Accepts $5000.

By the Associated Press.

HUDSON, N. Y., Nov. 8. — Supreme Court Justice Daniel V. Mc-Namee today ruled excessive the $25,000 awarded to John D. Williams, a former stage director and publicity man, in a breach of contract suit against Maude Adams.

Justice McNamee said he would set the verdict aside and order a new trial unless Williams agreed within 10 days to accept $5000 as his damages. Justice McNamee presided at the trial, which was held in New York last month. His ruling was made on a motion of defense counsel to set aside the verdict as excessive.

Williams sued the actress for $200,000. He contended he was to have received a percentage of the income from Miss Adams' revival of "The Merchant of Venice" in 1931. Miss Adams held that under the agreement with Williams he was to have been paid a commission only if she returned to the stage in "The Joyous Adventures of Clementine," her own play.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 8. — Gertrude Lawrence, stage and movie star, was discharged from London Bankrup-cy Court today subject to a judgment of $15,000 ($15,000) which the actress agreed to pay in weekly installments.

Miss Lawrence's attorney told the court: "She has nothing now except her earning power." He submitted a proposal that she pay $50 weekly from the proceeds of her present engagement, with a further agreement to pay 25 per cent of

GIRL ROBBER CONVICTED OF CLEVELAND KILLING

Helen Harmon Found Guilty of Manslaughter—Two Companions, Under Death Sentence.

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 8. — Helen Harmon, 19 years old, was convicted of manslaughter by a jury in the Common Pleas Court last night in the killing of Albert Wesosky April in a $24 butcher shop hold-up.

She is the third person to be convicted in connection with the killing. Her companions, Donald Eberle and John Pleyer, both were found guilty of first degree murder and have been sentenced to die in the electric chair. The possible sentence for manslaughter is one to 15 years' imprisonment. Her attorney filed a motion for a new trial.

The girl, who with her companions admitted a large number of Cleveland and Chicago holdups, was charged with first degree murder in the Wesosky killing as an accessory. During the trial she pleaded not guilty. Her attorney offered a life sentence if she could plead guilty, but she chose to leave her case in the hands of a jury of six men and six women.

Five of the women said they believed the defendant deserved a greater penalty, but compromise with the men on the panel. The said the men argued that the defendant should have another chance because she was so young. The jury deliberated four hours.

Pleyer testified that Eberle forced the girl to accompany them on the butcher shop holdup. A rebuttal witness for the State testified he overheard Eberle say at a beer garden "things are getting too tough for us," and that the young woman replied, "You cannot leave me lik-

GIRL ROBBER CONVICTED OF CLEVELAND KILLING

She is the third person to be convicted in connection with the killing. Her companions, Donald Eberle and John Pleyer, both were found guilty of first degree murder and have been sentenced to die in the electric chair. The possible sentence for manslaughter is one to 20 years imprisonment. Her attorney filed a motion for a new trial.

During the trial she was offered a life sentence if she would plead guilty, but she chose to leave her case in the hands of a jury of six men and six women.

Five of the women said they believed the defendant deserved a greater penalty, but compromised with the men on the panel. They said the men argued that the defendant should have another chance because she was so young. The jury deliberated four hours.

Pleyer testified that Eberle forced the girl to accompany them on the butcher shop holdup. A rebuttal witness for the State testified he overheard Eberle say at a beer garden, "things are getting too tough for us," and that the young woman replied, "You cannot leave me like that. We are all in this racket together. We will stick it out together."

The defendant testified she argued against the butcher shop holdup and received none of its proceeds. Pleyer's testimony included a similar statement. Reciting the details of her life, she said that although unmarried she had a son when she was 16. She learned Eberle was a robber several months after she met him in a Chicago restaurant, she said.

STATE EQUALIZATION BOARD ENDS WORK

Puts Assessment of Phone and Pipe Line Companies Up 10 Pct.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 8.—The State Board of Equalization completed today its tax valuations for that part of the property of public utility companies which is directly assessed by the State, for 1935 taxes, by ordering a flat 10 per cent increase in the assessments of telephone and pipe line companies, on which the board tentatively had agreed a month ago. At the same time the board rescinded a flat increase of 10 per cent for electric light and power companies.

The final valuation fixed for the utilities was $461,926,200, an increase of $58,209 over the valuation for 1934 taxes. These totals do not include real estate and certain other property of the utilities which is valued for taxation by local assessors.

The increase for the telephone companies was from $50,498,790, as recommended by the State Tax Commission, to $55,547,605, an increase of $5,048,815. The State board increased the Tax Commission's recommendation for the pipe line companies $42,811,154, to $47,017,466, several minor adjustments making the increase of $4,206,312 a little less than a flat 10 per cent.

Reductions ordered previously brought the net increase for all utilities property down to $5,458,209.

The board fixed the valuation of the electric light and power companies at $91,153,513, which was the figure recommended by the Tax Commission. The 1934 valuation for these companies was $90,899,650. Other classes of utility property, for which the 1935 valuations already had been fixed, are: Steam railroads, $225,536,316, a decrease of $9,392,363 from last year; street railways, $29,596,063, a decrease of $3,886,877 from last year; bridge companies, $6,377,757, no change from the 1934 valuation; telegraph companies, $6,890,480, a decrease of $198,985.

Valuation of the public utility property completes the work of the State Board of Equalization on equalization of assessments for 1935 taxes.

Earlier this year the board fixed the assessed valuation of real estate for 1935 taxes at $2,539,078,045, personal property at $265,111,958, and privately owned cars on railroads at $2,635,513. These valuations, plus the public utility property, total $3,668,758,716, or a decrease of $3,822,802, from the total for the corresponding classes of property for 1934. The assessment of the merchants' and manufacturers' stocks, still to be reported, usually varies from $150,000,000 to $200,000,000 a year.

CARROLLTON, Mo., Nov. 8.—V. B. Sheldon, Carroll County farm agent for the past 10 years, resigned Tuesday to take a position with the soil conservation service of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. He will be succeeded Dec. 1 by Albert Dyer, Maysville, who was graduated from the University of Missouri in 1934. Sheldon will have charge of the soil conservation demonstration area at Kahoka, Mo.

Boiler Company Dissolved.
The Shreve Avenue Boiler Co., 5319 Shreve avenue, was dissolved as a corporation yesterday by Circuit Judge O'Malley. The assets of the company, formerly the Heine Boiler Works, were sold at foreclosure June 19, 1934, to the Superheater Co. of New York, since which the business has been continued as a unit of that firm.

POLICE CAPTURE NEGRO BUT HE SPRINTS TO FREEDOM

Fugitive Eludes Four Shots and Disappears; Suspected of Stealing Overcoats.

A fast sprinting Negro outdistanced two policemen and escaped their bullets as he fled from the vehicle courtyard at Police Headquarters last night after his arrest as a suspected thief.

Patrolmen Henry Swederska and August Ernst, driving in a scout car at Thirteenth and Market streets at 8 o'clock, noticed the Negro carrying two overcoats. When they halted him, he sprinted to Pine street, where the police car overtook him and he halted.

During the short ride to Police Headquarters the prisoner said he had "picked up" the overcoats. When he got out of the machine in the courtyard he dashed out the driveway and sped across City Hall lawn toward the City Jail. Four shots from the pursuing officers failed to halt the fugitive, who dodged around a corner of the jail and disappeared. The overcoats were held for identification.

SECOND WORKHOUSE TERM ON DRUNKEN DRIVING CHARGE

Truckman Pleads Guilty; Caught After Chase by Police Following Accident.

Albert Polson, 39-year-old truck driver, 4449 Laclede avenue, pleaded guilty of drunken driving when intoxicated before Circuit Judge Harry Russell today and was sentenced to 40 days in the Workhouse.

He was charged with driving his truck into the rear of an automobile at Mississippi and Chouteau avenues on Sept. 30 and leaving the scene. The driver of the automobile told police, who chased Polson several blocks. The truck was stopped when one of the policemen jumped to the running board of the truck and turned off the ignition.

Polson was fined $100 and sentenced to 30 days in the Workhouse on a similar charge in 1927.

MAN TRIES TO GET ADVANCE BY OFFERING FALSE CLAIM

Tells Three Law Firms He Lost Leg in Railroad Accident That Didn't Happen.

A man representing himself as a brakeman for the Louisville & Nashville Railroad, tried a confidence scheme on three St. Louis law firms several days ago by hiring them to provide a personal injury claim and then attempting to borrow money on the strength of the suit, one of the attorneys said today. It developed that the "accident," which the man said occurred July 19 at Arlington, Tenn., and in which he said he lost his left leg, never took place. The man gave a different name to each of the law firms. He said he was from Memphis, Tenn. One of the attorneys said he intended to complain to the Circuit Attorney's office.

2173 PLANT SPECIES LISTED FOR MISSOURI

Botanical Garden Annals Also Discusses Ozarks as Distribution Center.

The Ozark region as a center of plant development and distribution from early times, in relation to the long geologic history of the Ozarks, is discussed in the current number of the annals of the Missouri Botanical Garden.

Entitled "An Annotated Catalogue of the Flowering Plants of Missouri," it is a scientific work of nearly 400 pages and "is the first comprehensive plant compilation of the entire state," according to the October bulletin of the Garden. It lists 2173 species of plants found growing in Missouri, of which 1837 are native and 336 are introduced, and includes the scientific and common name of the species, its classification, nature of the location where it grows, and in what counties found.

Two Authors. The book represents years of work on the part of the two authors, Ernest J. Palmer of Harvard University, and Dr. Julian A. Steyermark, biology instructor at the University City High School, who received his technical training at Washington University and the Garden. Palmer formerly was a resident of Webb City, Mo., where his work on the geology and flora of that region brought him international reputation as a collector. He became a member of the Garden staff and since 1922 has been at Harvard University.

Preceding the index of plants, is a history of botanical collecting in Missouri and a discussion of the flora in relation to climate, elevation, drainage, topography and geology.

"The geological position of the Ozark region on the American continent and its long geologic history both point to the probability of its having been a center of plant development and distribution from early times, and it is extremely likely that some of the Ozarkian-Alleghenian species originated here and were dispersed from this center instead of the migration having been in the opposite direction, and the same may be true of some plants that now range widely to the Southwest," the authors said.

Interesting Local Names. Some interesting local plant names are given, such as "sheep-sour" for sheep sorrel, "pusley" for purslane, and "red haw" for hawthorn. "Old-man's beard and Dutchman's pipe show the whimsical turn of mind, and there is a bit of slightly grim humor in such names as shin oak, beggar's lice, devil's claws, tear blanket, and wait-a-bit," the authors wrote.

In compiling the catalogue, the principal sources drawn on were the collections in the garden's herbarium, the National Herbarium, Arnold Arboretum, earlier publications on Missouri plants, many field trips for collecting, and previous works by the authors, extending in Palmer's case over 35 years.

Species never before listed were found on collecting trips, and additional information was secured on distribution and composition of flora. Plants in other published lists, but not found by the authors, were not included in the catalogue.

Three Divisions. Plant life of the State is naturally divided into three divisions: Ozark region, southeastern lowlands, comprising seven counties around New Madrid County, and the prairie region in the northern part of the State. Each region has distinctive flora, the Ozark section being more complex and varied, the authors found.

TWO MEN HURT IN CAVEIN OF SEWER EXCAVATION

William Wells and Michael Kelley Are Rescued By Three Fellow Workers.

Two laborers were injured when they were caught in the cavein of a sewer excavation in the 4400 block of Papin street yesterday afternoon. The men, who were extricated by three fellow workers, were William Wells, 1713a Allen avenue, who suffered a fractured right leg, and Michael Kelley, 3614 Evans avenue, injuries of the back and leg. Recent rains loosened the earth and caused the cavein, the diggers said.

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD FOR FATHER PATRICK BURKE

Archbishop Glennon Gives Final Blessing for Victim of Auto Accident.

Funeral services for the Rev. Patrick Burke, S. J., pastor of St. Francis Xavier (College) Church, who was killed in an automobile accident, were held this morning from the church. Burial was in the cemetery at St. Stanislaus Seminary, Florissant.

The requiem mass was said by the Rev. Robert Johnston, S. J., president of St. Louis University, and the final blessing was given by Archbishop Glennon. Music was by the Jesuit scholastic choir and girls from St. Francis Xavier Parish School. About 3000 persons attended the services, including Bishop Joseph J. Murphy of British Honduras, Bishop C. H. Winklemann, Mgrs. Spencer, Donnelly and Lyons of St. Louis, and Gilmartin of East St. Louis.

Father Burke, former prefect of discipline and athletic director at St. Louis University, was injured last Monday in an accident near Bowling Green, Mo. He died early Wednesday in a hospital at Louisville, Mo.

ROW IN JACKSONVILLE COUNCIL

Water Superintendent Said to Have Struck Alderman.

JACKSONVILLE, Ill., Nov. 8.—Alderman George Brown, according to city officials, accused Water Superintendent C. Justus Wright at a session of the City Council last night of failing to perform his duties properly. He charged that three fire hydrants had been left open three days, permitting leakage.

Wright denied the accusation, officials said, and as the argument grew more heated, Wright walked around the Council table and struck Brown with a pistol. Several Aldermen separated the two. Mayor Fletcher J. Blackburn adjourned the meeting.

MISSOURI GUIDE TO BE WRITTEN AS WPA PROJECT

State Headquarters Opened in St. Louis With Mrs. Austin Parker Newly Appointed Director.

EACH STATE WILL HAVE ONE VOLUME
Office Here Will Be Used as Editorial Center Which Will Send Material to Washington.

State headquarters for the Missouri section of the Federal Writers' Project, designed to collect and correlate material for an American guide and bibliography of the United States, has been opened in the Civil Courts building.
The project, according to Mrs. Austin Parker, newly appointed State Director, represents the first correlated attempt to tell America to Americans and will afford accurate information concerning the historical, social and economic background of every community.
Europe, she pointed out, has been familiarized to the world through Baedeker, now opportunity is afforded to portray not only the American scene but the traditions of this country in a practical manner.

Volume for Each State.
The guide, in 48 volumes, each volume devoted to a state, and all books of bibliography, will be published at Washington upon the completion of detailed data, an undertaking now in its initial phase.
In order to guarantee authenticity of material, the staff devoted to the Missouri compilation will include archeologists, architects, historians, librarians, research specialists in every field affecting the lives of the people. When occasion requires recognized experts will be employed to submit judgment.
All original material, Mrs. Parker announced, will remain the property of the State, and will be at the disposal of libraries, schools and other institutions. The rural press throughout the State, she said, represents an "invaluable channel" for the assembling of historical and other data, not only through old files but because of intimate community contacts.

Scope of Work.
The Missouri compilation, she announced, will depict not alone the State's traditional background but will contain biographical information about personages of the past and will outline the present economic development of the State.
Information will be made available about many historic and recreation spots, not generally known now even to Missourians, she pointed out. One of the immediate objectives will be "to tell Missouri to Missourians," Mrs. Parker said, amplifying and correlating similar activities conducted by State agencies, such as the Game and Fish Department, Highway Commission, and various civic organizations.

Besides the primary objective of the writers' project, its findings are affording a partial guide to Federal authorities entrusted with the acquiring of tracts, for national parks, where scenic and recreational, and historic factors are to be considered.
Material Already at Hand.
The Missouri undertaking is enhanced through fundamental material already at hand, compiled by Mrs. Parker in 1934 when she conducted a survey assembling traditional folk-lore all over the State under auspices of the Missouri Relief Commission, headed by Wallace Crossley. This material, which has been used in Washington in planning Federal recreational facilities, affords the Missouri project a background not duplicated in other sections of the country and places it in a position to achieve the status of a "model project" for the nationwide undertaking.

The State headquarters here will be used as an editorial center for the material collected from every section of the State. The edited manuscripts then will be forwarded to Washington for inclusion in the Missouri volume of the guide.
Besides the main office, 11 district centers will be established in cities of more than 10,000 population, including a Kansas City office which has been opened. Material submitted from rural sections will be edited at the district offices and sent to the main office here for final approval prior to submission to Washington.

Financed by Federal Funds.
The writers' project is financed entirely through Federal funds. Separate provision has been made for it, not affecting other Federal allocations in the State, representing, in effect, an extra appropriation to carry out the Missouri phase of a national project.
Mrs. Parker, whose previous work throughout the State has enabled her to become intimately acquainted with conditions in every county, emphasized that she expects the co-operation of citizens throughout the State. She regards the project she said "as a practical selling job for the State of Missouri, not only for tourists but for people within the State."

Upon completion of her State-wide survey, Mrs. Parker became District Representative of the Missouri Relief Commission, supervising relief activities in Southeast Missouri with headquarters at Flat River. During the recent tiff strike of Washington County miners she was instrumental in obtaining supplies for the strikers and averting disorder.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 8, 1935
Federal Appointment.
Her appointment as State Director of the Federal Writers' Project was made directly from Washington by Henry J. Alsberg, director of the national project. She formerly relinquished her duties with the relief commission, for which she was the only woman administrator serving in such a capacity, last week.
Civic and professional leaders throughout Southeast Missouri tendered her a farewell luncheon at Ironton attesting to the efficiency of her work in that section and promising co-operation in the Federal writers' project.
Mrs. Parker, who is a widow with two small children, is a native Missourian, lived for a number of years in the South, returning to this State several years ago. During her years in the South she interested herself in the economic and social background of textile centers in North and South Carolina.

Merchant Asks for Credit Extension
Ellihu L. Moorfield, Harrisburg merchant, has filed a voluntary petition under section 74 of the National Bankruptcy Act in Federal Court at East St. Louis. In the petition, Moorfield seeks a composition and extension of time to pay his debts. Liabilities consist of mortgages on a Harrisburg business building. No schedule of liabilities and assets accompanied the petition.

Horrible!
SAYS HOSTESS

Admirable!
SAYS DENTIST

A HOSTESS AND A DENTIST ARGUE ABOUT A LOAF OF BREAD

(But the civilized way to combat "PINK TOOTH BRUSH" is IPANA and MASSAGE)

"IT'S APPALLING," would be the protest of any well-bred woman. "I never saw a girl behave so vaguely and I hope I never shall. And I hope I never see that picture published."

But your dentist would disagree with her—emphatically. "I know why you want to publish this picture and I want it published. I never saw a sounder or more instructive illustration of the healthy way to use teeth and gums. With more real, hard, vigorous chewing like that, there would be fewer gum troubles to worry dentists and to upset patients."

Every dentist knows that the soft, creamy foods we moderns eat do not give our gums the health-creating stimulation they need. And that is why they get sensitive . . . and why, sooner or later, "pink tooth brush" may appear.

"Pink Tooth Brush" is a Call for Help
"Pink tooth brush" is only a simple warning of ailing gums—but it's a warning dangerous to ignore.
Ipana plus massage is the easy, sensible way to come to the aid of flabby, tender gums—a way that's encouraged in modern dental practice. Rub a little extra Ipana into your gums every time you brush your teeth. Massage it in. For Ipana plus massage helps stimulate circulation. It helps gums recover their health. And with healthy gums, you have little to worry about gingivitis, pyorrhea and Vincent's disease.

Start today with Ipana plus massage. And in just a few weeks you'll be able to see a new whiteness to your teeth, feel a new firmness in your gums, find a new brilliance in your smile . . . Rewards so satisfactory that they'll keep you and Ipana friends forever.

IPANA plus massage is the dentist's ablest assistant in the home care of the teeth and gums.

FIVE FROM MISSOURI TO GO TO G. O. P. MEETING IN IOWA

They Will Attend Sessions of Young Republicans' National Committee at Des Moines.

Five members of Young Republican organizations in Missouri will attend a meeting of the Young Republicans' National Committee at Des Moines, Ia., which begins tomorrow and will continue through Monday.

Members of the delegation are R. Forder Buckley of St. Louis, state chairman of the Young Republican organization; Randall R. Kitt, Chillicothe; Wilbur B. Ennis, president of the Kansas City Young Republican Club; Miss Margaret Wyeth of St. Joseph, and Robert Jackson of Hannibal.

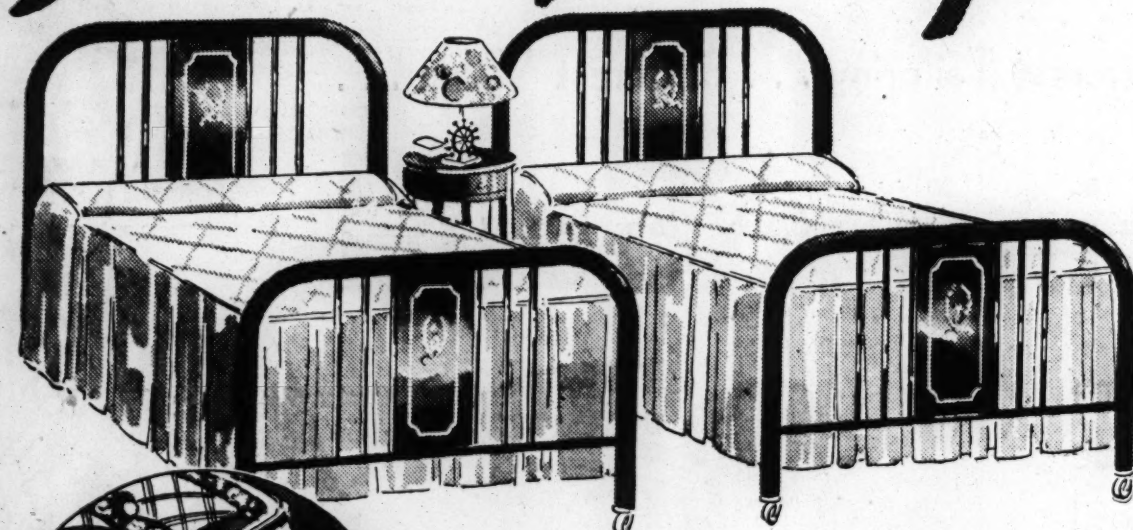

Buckley said the Missouri group would advocate adoption of a platform which will mean "the blending of the enthusiasm, strength and vision of the Young Republicans with the sagacity and experience of those older party leaders who stand for true Republicanism."

BOSTON MUSEUM BUYS WORK OF HANS HOLBEIN, THE YOUNGER

Acquires Restored Painting, of Which Francis Bacon's Benefactor Is Subject.

By the Associated Press.
BOSTON, Nov. 8.—The acquisition of a recently restored painting by Hans Holbein, the younger painter in the Court of King Henry VII of England, by the Museum of Fine Arts, was announced today by Director George Harold Edgell. The picture is that of Sir William Butts, great-uncle and benefactor of Francis Bacon, sixteenth century philosopher. Butts was the son of King Henry's physician. The price paid Mrs. Colville-Hyde, widow of Capt. E. J. Butts, for the painting, was not disclosed, but Holbeins have sold for as much as $150,000.

Edgell, who is also curator of paintings at the Boston Museum, said the picture painted in 1543, the year of Holbein's death, apparently had been overpainted 20 years later in preparation for the visit of Queen Elizabeth to the Butts family estate. The overpainting was done, Edgell said, apparently to bring up to date the portrait of Butts, whom Holbein had painted as a young man. For centuries the painting hung in an obscure corner of the Butts residence, forgotten until an English painter discovered it. X-rays revealed Holbein's portrait beneath the newer paint.

CALHOUN COUNTY APPLE CROP PLACED AT 1,500,000 BUSHEL

2,000,000 Gallons of Cider Also Shipped; Packing Plants Close for Year.

By the Associated Press.
HARDIN, Ill., Nov. 8.—Harvesting of Calhoun County's apple crop is virtually at an end. Almost every apple-packing plant has ceased operations and had begun a final clean-up.

Fruit-growers estimated about 1,500,000 bushels of apples were produced in the county this year, and the cost of production, picking, handling and packing placed in circulation more than a million dollars.

Apple shipments by railroad out of Hardin alone totaled 800 cars while an equal amount was shipped by truck. The bulk of the shipments were consigned to Chicago, Iowa and Indiana but about 480,000 bushels were hauled to St. Louis and placed in cold storage. Besides the apples, more than 2,000,000 gallons of cider were shipped out of the county.

SHIPSTEAD AGAINST PAYING F SEED LOANS THIS YEAR

Minnesota Senator Urges That Notes Be Extended; Says Collectors "Too Insistent."

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Senator Shipstead (Farmer-Laborite), Minnesota, is complaining to farm lending officials against insistence of their field men that farmers pay up feed and seed loans. "If the farmers have to sell their first crop in years to pay back the loans," Shipstead told reporters, "There won't be any feed left for them to go ahead on, and they won't be able to meet mortgage interest and such because the drought compelled them to get rid of their stock. I want to see their notes extended for a year so they can catch up."

Shipstead said officials here had advised him they would not deal unjustly or unreasonably with the farmers but he declared "the men in the field have been insisting on collections anyway."

8 MORE DELINQUENT TAX BILLS SOLD, TOTAL OF 1005 OFFERED

$34 Involved in Day's Transactions; Other Bids to Be Received Tomorrow.

Of the 1005 delinquent tax bills offered for sale today by Willis W. Benson, St. Louis County Collector, only eight were sold, involving $34. Forty-four other bills, amounting to $278, were settled. Those bills on which there were no bids will be offered for sale next year.

The sale will continue tomorrow with 1591 tax bills offered. A total of 16,942 delinquent bills have been advertised for the entire sale, which continues through Nov. 22.

EVELYN HOEY DEATH INQUIRY

Grand Jury Calls Five New Witnesses in Shooting of Actress.

By the Associated Press.
WEST CHESTER, Pa., Nov. 8.—Twenty-nine witnesses, including five not heard by the coroner's jury, have been subpoenaed by the grand jury investigating the death of Evelyn Hoey, musical comedy actress. Miss Hoey was found shot to death Sept. 11 in the farm home of H. H. Rogers Jr., son of the late oil millionaire. The coroner's jury decided she died "at the hands of a person or persons unknown." Several witnesses gave testimony indicating she was alone in the room at the time she was shot.

Among the new witnesses is Edward Thorp Gray of New York. District Attorney Parke said Gray, a friend of Miss Hoey, probably would be questioned about her association with Rogers. Deputy Coroner Harvey G. Cox, the six members of the coroner's jury, and Rogers, and others in the home of the time of the shooting, have been subpoenaed.

PULLETS AVERAGE 246 EGGS

Flock of 51 Birds Set New Mark in Vermont Contest.

BURLINGTON, Vt., Nov. 8.—Blue ribbons emblematic of the Vermont home egg laying championship went to Stanley McIntyre's 51 pullets, the extension service of the University of Vermont announces. McIntyre's flock produced 12,546 eggs during the last year. That means more than a thousand dozen eggs, 246 eggs per bird, the highest individual record for the five years of the contest.

Gang With Sub-Machine Guns Raids Mail Car During Stop at Station Garrettsville.

BYSTANDERS LINED UP ON PLATFORM

Third Republic Steel Payroll to Be Taken Robbers in a Year Included in Loot.

By the Associated Press.
GARRETSVILLE, O., Nov. 8.—A widespread search was under way today for six robbers who seized $46,450 in currency and $12,450 in securities from the mail car of a train at the Erie Railroad station here.

The gang held up about 12 passengers, covering them with sub-machine guns and pistols soon after a Cleveland-Pittsburgh train stopped yesterday afternoon. The mail car crew were ordered to the station platform alongside mail and women bystanders. Pouches containing the money were thrown from the car and carried by the robbers to the gang's automobile. One shot was fired, which grazed the forehead of Orin Workman, mail clerk. The robbers fled toward Ravenna in a small sedan.

The search today, in which police and police took the lead, was centered in the larger Northern Ohio cities, Akron, Cleveland, Warren, Youngstown and Canton. The currency was consigned to the Warren (O.) Second National Bank for use in meeting a payroll of the Republic Steel Corporation. The mail clerks said the robbers knew what they were after, one of them shouting: "Where's that other bag that was put on in Cleveland—the one from the Federal Reserve Bank?" One pouch, containing $5500, was overlooked by the gang.

Cleveland police found the license of the robbers' car was listed to a man who moved four months ago from the address given. An automobile dealer said the car was so old it was not on the city's records. Oct. 24 to a man who paid cash. Twice before in little more than a year there have been raids on the Republic Steel's payroll money. In October, 1934, a gang held up two bank messengers as they were entering a Warren Bank and escaped with $68,000. Two men last April robbed the driver of a mail truck at Warren of $72,000. None of the money obtained in the two previous robberies has been recovered.

Only two members of yesterday's gang took precautions to hide their identity. One who appeared to be the leader wore a mask, Christian said. The other wore smoke glasses.

By James M. Gould.

Playing their eighth game of the season and hopeful of a fifth victory, Coach Muellerleile's St. Louis University Billikens tonight meet North Dakota University's eleven. North Dakota is champion of the North Central Conference and has lost but one decision in the last 16 games, but, in these parts, is rather an unknown quantity so far as caliber of football is concerned. Moreover, the Billikens have scouted the Northern Sioux in several games and pronounced them rugged and fast and altogether worthy opponents.

Tonight the Billikens will try to recapture the splendid form they showed when they held Marquette to a 20-13 score two weeks ago. Also, they will try to entirely forget the not-so-splendid performance they gave against Mississippi last Friday night. If they make good both on the "recapture" and on the "forgetting," North Dakota will be in for a very busy evening, for, at their best, the Billikens are a pretty sweet football team.

Physically, St. Louis is ready. Every man who has a chance to see action is in tip-top shape. Moreover, Bob Shea, who has been out for several weeks, is scheduled as a starter, and this will give Muellerleile his strongest possible backfield, according to most observers.

Rely on a Running Attack.
According to scouts, North Dakota relies more on a running than on a passing game, with Campbell, left half, being the most dangerous runner. A dry field will undoubtedly see the Billikens in passing mood. Their attack through the air has been winning nicely—most of the time—and, with touchdowns nowadays "only one good throw," the St. Louis passers probably won't do much loafing. With Shea and Wood in the lineup, along with Kloepper, it is also certain that the Dakotans will have plenty of opportunities to show their ground defense as well as their ability to break up the Billiken passes.

The St. Louis lineup in its entirety will be the strongest Muellerleile has been able to present this season. Shea's return helps to this condition. Then, a line which includes Cagle and Fitzgerald at ends, Rosini and Vollmer at tackles, Outman and Vollmer at guards, and Krause at center, is a first-class forward wall.

Lou Drone at Quarter.
In the matter of backs, Muellerleile has two or three possible starting combinations all of nearly equal skill and power. For tonight, though, he has chosen the brilliant Lou Drone as his signal-caller with Shea and Wood at the halves and Kloepper at fullback. There is little chance, however, that such backs as Veith, Captain Hudson, Johnny Nunn, Hermann and Kane will not see plenty of service. When he can, Coach Muellerleile likes to use as many of his varsity squad as possible. It is up to North Dakota whether this will become possible tonight.

Practice during the week has been hard for the Billikens. Generally, one scrimmage suffices in preparation for a game, but, this week, Muellerleile ordered two and they were real scrimmages, the starting lineup being the result of the coach's observation in those workouts.

Prediction of the result of the game would be rather difficult inasmuch as so little is known of the class of North Dakota. They have won consistently—yes, they were tied twice—but their opposition has not been as difficult as that encountered by the Billikens. Suffice it to say, then, that the Billikens themselves expect a real fight—and a victory.

A 230-Pound Tackle.
The heaviest man on the Dakota squad is rated one of the best players. He is Louis Chumick, he plays tackle and weighs a mere 230. The Billikens' heavy-weight is Gus Clanciole, also a tackle. But he weighs 200 pounds less than Chumick.

Only one more home game remains on the St. Louis schedule. That is next Friday night when Xavier University of Cincinnati will furnish the opposition. The Billikens play DePaul in Chicago, Nov. 23 and finish their campaign with the Thanksgiving day battle against the Washington Bears at Francis Field.

In their home games, six in all, the Billikens have made nearly twice as many first downs as their opponents and almost three times as much yardage from scrimmage. Only Mississippi exceeded them in both departments.

RETURNING THE COMPLIMENT—First Normandy, Then U-City Intercepts a Pass, One Going for a Touchdown

Mel Ausseker of Normandy gathering in Devor's pass in the first quarter on the Normandy 15-yard line.

M'BRIDE MEETS C. B. C. ELEVEN IN PREP BATTLE

The Preparatory League championship may be decided tonight when McBride High School's football team goes to Christian Brothers' High field for an important and traditional game. Starting time is 8 o'clock.

McBride can assure itself of a tie for the championship if it defeats C. B. C., for it has defeated Western and has St. Louis University High still to play. The Brothers, on the other hand, must win if they wish to stay in the running, for they lost to Western in their only league game.

Western won two games and lost one in playing out its league schedule, while St. Louis University High has been defeated in its only game. McBride, victor in only one game this season, its upset conquest of Western, will be depending on Bob Murphy, its hard-plunging fullback, for the necessary scoring punch, while opposed to him will be the opposite type of back, a shifty runner, Tommy Shields.

PROFESSIONAL BETTING ODDS FAVOR BILLIKENS AND BEARS AS WINNERS

According to the football odds offered by Brass McDonald, both the Billikens and Bears should win their week-end games from North Dakota and Drake, respectively. St. Louis is quoted at 1 to 2 and Dakota at 6 to 5, while the Bears are held prohibitively at 1 to 10 with Drake, a 5-to-1 shot.

Odds on other important games are as follows: Minnesota, 1 to 4; Iowa, 2 to 1; Northwestern, 3 to 1; Notre Dame, 1 to 6; Michigan, 1 to 2; Illinois, 6 to 5; Kansas, 8 to 5; Nebraska, —; University of Washington, 6 to 5; California, 1 to 2; Marquette, 7 to 5; Michigan State, 2 to 5; Carnegie Tech, 7 to 5; Holy Cross, 2 to 5; St. Mary's, 3 to 5; Fordham, even; Oklahoma, even; Missouri, 1 to 4; Navy, even; Penn., 3 to 5.

LETOURNER, REBOLI LEAD IN BIKE RACE

By the Associated Press.
CLEVELAND, Nov. 8.—Alfred Letourner and his partner, Tino Rebol, resisted all efforts to capture their lead in the six-day bike whirl at Public Hall today as nine teams entered the race today.

Eddie Testa and George Dempsey hung on one lap behind. Gerard Debaets and Bobby Thomas were three laps behind the leaders. The race ends at 11 o'clock tonight.

The McNamara-Horan team withdrew last night and Mickey Rodak retired from the race today. Rodak's partner, Charles Ritter, was given four hours in which to secure a new partner.

Bears Can Tie Tulsa For Valley Lead With Victory Over Bulldogs

With the announcement from Coach Jimmy Conzelman that his team would "shoot the works," the Washington University Bears today were pronounced ready for the Missouri Valley Conference game with the Drake Bulldogs at Francis Field tomorrow afternoon. Unless plans are changed just before game time, the Bears will use all their weapons of offense, not restricting plays either to the air or to the ground. Drake, on the other hand, is expected to rely on passes to a greater extent.

According to his announced probable lineup, Brungard will start at left end for the Bears. It would not surprise, however, if, before tomorrow, Ray Hobbs was given preference for that flanking position. Hobbs, out of the Creighton game because of injuries, is about ready to return and his kicking ability will come in handy. Whether he starts, however, still is a question. Coach Conzelman also decided to start Co-captain Chick Droke at the right-half post. Otherwise, the Bears will open hostilities with the same battle-front which began the Creighton game a week ago.

Weight figures give Washington a slight advantage. The Bears' line will average 4.5 pounds more, the backs 5.5 pounds more and the team 4.7 pounds more.

Bears' Second Valley Game.
Tomorrow's game is another of those "got-to-win" contests. It is the second Valley battle for the Bears and a victory is needed to make them all even with Tulsa for the conference lead. Tulsa owns divisions over Washburn and the Oklahoma Aggies and has but one more to play—a game with Drake. Tomorrow the Tulsans engage Creighton in a non-conference meeting. So, if the Bears can win from Drake and, on Nov. 23, defeat the somewhat weak Oklahoma Aggies, Conzelman's team will be sure of at least a tie for the title assuming that Tulsa is able to win from Drake.

The Bears are not going into this der the chaperonage of Coach Vee Green this morning and will work out at Francis Field this afternoon.

Drake runs to coaches from Illinois University. Head Coach Green played center under Zupke at Champaign in 1921, 1922 and 1934, while his assistant, Jack Beynon, last year was rated as one of the best-ever Illinois quarterbacks.

With Tulsa playing Centenary, the Oklahoma Aggies meeting Duquesne, Grinnell opposing Iowa State and Washburn having an open date, the Drake-Washington affair is the only conference game of the day. Drake's two most feared backs are My Uhl, former Minnesota star, who is an excellent passer and as good a kicker, and Chuck Orbaugh, who weighs only 151 pounds but is every pound a football player. The Bears have been coached for hours this week on defense against Drake passes and Uhl, who throws most of them, will be watched with special care. He has been the chief Bulldog threat all season and is second-high conference scorer with 15 points scored on two touchdowns and three extra points.

But the general feeling at Washington is that Joe Bukant can and will match Uhl at passing and that Ray Hobbs, when he is in the game, will kick as well. So, if Droke and Hudgens can hold Orbaugh even in running plays, as they certainly figure to, and Zboyovski can catch passes as he did against Creighton, there really doesn't seem much for the Bears to worry about.

McBride "B" Eleven Wins.
Offense was superior to defense yesterday and McBride's was better than South Side Catholic High's, so the "B" football team of the former school defeated the "B" squad of the latter, 32-13, yesterday afternoon at Sherman Park. Saffa and Grassizna tallied for the victors in the first period, running 55 and 65 yards for touchdowns, while Saffa added one in the second quarter. Miller counted two touchdowns for the latter, 32-13, yesterday afternoon at Sherman Park. M'NAB STRESSES POSITION PLAY IN SOCCER TALK

By Dent McSkimming.

Amateur soccer in St. Louis (and professional, too) was dissected and its ills diagnosed at a meeting of the St. Louis Olympic soccer squad at Sherman Park Community Center last night. About 50 players listened to advice from three coaches and were particularly interested in the suggestions of Alec McNab, coach and captain of the St. Louis Shamrocks. The Olympic squad has been in training for several weeks under the direction of John "King" Finnegan, John Scully, Bill Lehman and Charley LaBarge. It will engage in intercity games which lead to the selection of the U. S. team.

"In the three years that I have been in St. Louis, I have been impressed with the lack of variety in your soccer," McNab told the players. "I haven't seen many Municipal League games but those that I did see convinced me that you boys need a lot of coaching in fundamentals. And I believe that you can build up great players and great teams here if you will go about your training in the right way." The veteran player, a product of Scottish League football, then went on to outline a course of training such as is standard in European countries, including gymnastics, sprinting, as well as ball practice.

McNab deplored the tendency of St. Louis teams to confine their practice to kicking the ball. He placed the blame for this wrong method of soccer training on team managers. He finished up his talk by going through the 11 positions on a team, giving the players his idea of how each player should conduct himself on the field. Finnegan and Lehman also gave the players advice in style of play. The squad will practice next Saturday afternoon and will meet again for an evening session next week. St. Louis' last Olympic squad reached the final of the national competition, losing to a picked Eastern team made up of players selected from half a dozen cities. The coaches believe the present squad has even better possibilities.

90 AND 40-YARD RUNS BY U. CITY BACKS DEFEAT NORMANDY, 13-6

By Reno Hahn.

University City's Indians held the Indian sign over Normandy High School's football team yesterday and aided by an intercepted pass for one touchdown and a 90-yard run back of a kick off for another, gained a 13-6 victory yesterday afternoon at University City's field. About 500 spectators watched the battle of undefeated teams that was decided in the second quarter when all the scoring occurred.

The first period was a punting duel, with the Indians backing the Vikings into their own territory. Leo Shakopsky's punt that bounced down the side line, covering 71 yards from the line of scrimmage, the ball finally stopping on the five-yard line. The Indians threatened twice after that, once being stopped by a fumble on the 11-yard line, and a second time by an intercepted pass on the 15-yard stripe.

Starting the second period, Leo Shakopsky intercepted Mel Ausseker's pass on Normandy's 40-yard line and raced over the goal line for a touchdown. Eugene Blades attempted place kick was wide.

Expertly Placed Punt.
Mel Ausseker's well-placed punt that rolled out of bounds on the Indian's new-year line helped Normandy to its touchdown. Following that kick, Shakopsky punted to his 40-yard line, Schumacher returning to the 25. Maurice Loeffel and Mel Ausseker gained six yards on three plays, and on the next Ausseker passed to Loeffel for nine yards and a first down. In three plays, Ausseker plunged over for Normandy's only score. Ausseker's attempted place kick was blocked.

On the following kick off, Louis Kaufman received the ball on his 10-yard line, started down the center of the field, changed direction and cut down the side line, Shakopsky clearing a way for him to go through the last of Normandy's tacklers. The whistle blew ending the half as Kaufman was making his touchdown. Blades converted the extra point on a place kick.

Stout U. C. Line Holds.
Normandy drove down to University City's nine-yard line after receiving the kick off in the third period, but couldn't gain a yard in four plays at that point. Normandy did not get past mid field after that advance, while University City twice drove to Normandy's 20-yard line. It was the first defeat for Normandy in eight games, while it was the fifth consecutive victory for the Indians.

The triumph kept University City's record clear against Normandy, as the Indians have never lost to the Vikings.

OHIO STATE ANNOUNCES FOOTBALL SCHEDULE FOR NEXT THREE YEARS

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 8.—Ohio State gazed far into the future today, announcing its football schedule for the next three seasons.

Only four open dates, one for 1936, one for 1937 and two in 1938, are on the slate.

Here are the schedules:
1936—Oct. 3, open; Oct. 10, Pittsburgh; Oct. 17, at Northwestern; Oct. 24, Indiana; Oct. 31, at Notre Dame; Nov. 7, Chicago; Nov. 14, at Illinois; Nov. 21, Michigan; 1937—Oct. 2, Purdue; Oct. 9, at Southern California; Oct. 16, at Utah; Oct. 23, Northwestern; Oct. 30, at Chicago; Nov. 6, Indiana; Nov. 13, Illinois; Nov. 20, Michigan; 1938—Oct. 1, open; Oct. 8, Southern California; Oct. 15, at Northwestern; Oct. 22, Purdue; Oct. 29, open; Nov. 5, Chicago; Nov. 12, at Illinois; Nov. 19, Michigan.

Williams, Ohio Star, Scores a Point a Minute

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 8.—Joe Williams, brilliant Ohio State back, has compiled so far this season, scoring 54 points in 54 minutes of action. The high mark came when he rang up four touchdowns against Drake in 17 minutes. Possibly as a reward for this feat Coach Francis Schmidt thinks he may let Joe start this week's game with Chicago.

WILLIE HOPPE IS BRILLIANT IN VICTORY OVER ART THURNBLAD

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—Augie Kieckhefer, Chicago southpaw, chalked up his second victory in the world championship three-cushion billiard tournament today, defeating his Chicago rival, Arthur Thurnblad, 50 to 47, in 59 innings. Kieckhefer had high runs of five in the twenty-fifth and fifty-third innings.

After Jay Bozeman, youthful player of Vallejo, Cal., smothered the veteran Tiff Denton of Kansas City, last night, the first round was completed with the favorites surviving. Playing flashy billiards, Bozeman defeated the Missouri school master, 50 to 35 in 44 innings. Willie Hoppe, the one-time bow wizar' of the cue, joined the first round winners, by playing brilliantly to defeat Arthur Thurnblad of Chicago, 50 to 41, in 44 innings.

Augie Kieckhefer of Chicago, 10 times holder of the championship, and Walker Cochran of San Francisco, present holder of the 16.2 ball game championship, were the other first round winners. Kieckhefer, scoring 14 points in the last three innings, came from behind to overhaul Allen Hall of St. Louis, 50 to 47, while Cochran conquered Otto Reisel, 50 to 42 in 49 innings. Layton and Reisel met in the early evening game, at 8 p. m., with Hall and Bozeman playing in the final.

SOCCER PROTECTIVE BODY TO OPERATE
The insurance feature of the St. Louis Soccer Players' Protective Association will go into force at Sunday's games. It was announced today by Syd Goddard, secretary. Membership this season will cost $1.25 instead of one dollar, as in the past, the reason for the rise being a deficit in the association treasury. Funds used in defraying the doctor bills of players injured during the playing of games are raised through this individual membership fee and from receipts at special games. One such game will be played in the spring, immediately following the close of the regular season and prior to the opening of the Municipal Soccer League elimination series. The organization is a non-profit making body, officials serving without remuneration. Lack of funds had threatened the future of the organization but officials decided to continue in hope of a better response.

Membership applications will be accepted up to Sunday noon by all members of the board of governors, or through Secretary Syd Goddard, at 4146 W. Lee avenue, or Andy Fredrick, 3311 North Market street.

SIROIS AND SCHROLL TO WRESTLE, NOV. 18

The third match booked for the dedicatory wrestling program at the Municipal Auditorium's Convention Hall on Nov. 18, will bring together a French-Canadian, Walter Sirois, of Montreal, and Frank Schroll, of St. Francis, in a contest limited to 30 minutes. It was announced today by Promoter Max Bauman for the Clifton Heights Legion Post No. 222.

Two other bouts previously announced include the main event of the evening, featuring the brilliant La Junta, Colo., and Fred Peters of Holt, Mo., in a finish encounter; and a time limit preliminary between "Bad Boy" Brown of Havertown, Pa., and Ivan Rasputin, a Russian.

PLAN TO LOWER ELIGIBILITY AGE OF HIGH SCHOOL ATHLETES FAILS

A proposal to change the eligibility age limit for Missouri High School athletes from 21 years of age to 20 was defeated, this morning, at the annual meeting of the Missouri State High School Athletic Association at the Statler Hotel. A two-thirds majority was required for passing the proposed amendment, but it received only half of the ballots cast, so that high school athletes in this state can still compete until they are 21 years old.

An amendment to the by-laws, changing the code of rules to be followed in all contests was carried. The new by-law reads: "Rule books and interpretations in all sports shall be those recommended by the National Federation of State High School Athletic Association." Formerly, the by-law did not specify what rule books were to be used and interpretations of rules were those used by the Big Six Conference.

Under the old by-law, Kansas City and St. Louis high school leagues were using collegiate rules in preference to those of the Federation; but under the amendment, they must use the Federation code. The change will not affect the current football season, but will apply next year.

The principal difference between the collegiate and Federation rules is that the forward passer, under collegiate rules, must remain five yards behind the line of scrimmage, while under Federation rules, he can pass from anywhere behind line of scrimmage.

Short discussions were presented by M. C. Cunningham, Desloge, on the state basketball tournament; by George A. Riley, Rogersville, on track rules; by H. R. Dietrich, Maryville, on football rules, and by Carl Burris, Clayton, on rating officials.

BERNER TO DO KICKING FOR ILLINOIS ELEVEN

By the Associated Press. CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Nov. 8.—The punting assignment fell to Jack Berner, utility line-man, yesterday as the University of Illinois football squad went through its paces preparatory to the Michigan game tomorrow.

Little hope is left that Les Lindberg, ace kicker, will be able to get into the fray and Ken Nelson, second choice for the punting duties, is definitely out. Berner will replace Arvo Anttila at left tackle.

ILLINOIS RUNNERS MEET IRISH TEAM TOMORROW

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Nov. 8.—Coach Don Seaton last night announced plans to popularize cross country runs at University of Illinois. The Illinois harriers, undefeated in four meets this season, will meet Notre Dame here tomorrow.

Seaton announced that the race would be run near the campus, with the start and finish in front of the chemistry building, and that a loud speaker system—worked out with the co-operation of the signal corps of the university R. O. T. C.—would be used to follow the progress of the runners.

Wayne and Blaine Rideout, twin brothers of Tuscola, have finished every race this season arm in arm—and in first place.

M'KINLEY SEEKS FOURTH LEAGUE VICTORY IN GAME WITH SOLDAN

By Harold Tuthill.

The pace-setting McKinley team will try for its fourth straight victory in the City High School League in the last game of tomorrow's tripleheader at the Public Schools Stadium, Beaumont, as yet undefeated in the league, will oppose Cleveland in the morning game at 10 o'clock and Roosevelt will battle Central in the first afternoon contest at 1 o'clock.

Although it is expected that McKinley will win, there is every reason to suppose that Soldan will give the Goldbugs a tough battle. Soldan showed enough stuff to score against Roosevelt, although losing, 20 to 12, and the West Side team played Beaumont, to a 6-to-6 tie. Soldan's only victory was at Blewett's expense, 13 to 0, a team which bowed to McKinley, 20 to 0. Soldan has had a week of rest in which to prepare for the McKinley team, but then the Goldbugs had rather an easy time of it against Blewett last week, for after Bill Hawkins scored 20 points in the first quarter, Coach Otto Rost sent in most of his second team to carry on against Blewett.

Best Game in Morning. Probably the best battle of the day will be that between Cleveland and Beaumont in the morning. Cleveland was given a stiff assignment when it had to meet Tilghman High of Paducah, Ky., McKinley and Roosevelt in successive weeks. Apparently the Carondelet eleven found itself last week against Central, because it scored 25 points, while holding the opposition scoreless.

It was stated at the beginning of the season that Beaumont would be the dark horse of the circuit, and the Blue Jackets proved that when they won from Roosevelt, 6 to 0, last week, the first time they have accomplished that since Yeatman became Beaumont eight years ago. Moreover, in the Roosevelt game, Coach Burns Franklin found a capable running mate for Bud Schwenk in Victor Thelling, who crashed through for the lone touchdown. This pair may go places against Cleveland.

Rough Riders Still in Race. Roosevelt cannot be counted out of the race because it lost one game, so the Rough Riders will fight for that old mathematical chance. Anything can happen if the Riders run over Central, since McKinley is next on Roosevelt's schedule, and after that McKinley will have to face Beaumont. Last year the race ended in a triple tie for the title between Roosevelt, McKinley and Cleveland, and it is not unlikely that two schools will tie this year.

Central, while it has displayed a great deal of courage this season, lacks offensive power to do much scoring against Roosevelt. The Red and Black eleven has counted only 21 points in seven games, which is not a very good showing. In four of the games Central was held scoreless.

Hawkins Leads Scorers. When Bill Hawkins of McKinley scored all 20 points against Blewett, he took over the lead in the individual scoring race. Hawkins now leads Schwenk of Beaumont by five points, 31 to 26. The complete list of scorers follows:

Player	Points	Team
Hawkins, McKinley	31	McKinley
Schwenk, Beaumont	26	Beaumont
Rhanks, McKinley	21	McKinley
Seldel, Roosevelt	18	Roosevelt
Fiedler, Cleveland	13	Cleveland
Thelling, Beaumont	12	Beaumont

Note—Central won on a safety from Blewett, 2-0.

BLEWETT TENNIS TEAM DEFEATS SOLDAN HIGH; BEAUMONT SQUAD WINS

Blewett High School's tennis team smothered Soldan's hopes for a chance at the Public High School tennis championship yesterday when it won three of four matches from Soldan to drop it into fourth place in the standings. Blewett went into third place by its victory.

Roosevelt still holds the lead with 16 victories and no defeats, with Beaumont in second place with 14 triumphs and two defeats.

Beaumont meets Central this morning at 8:30 o'clock on the Reservoir Park courts. Soldan plays Cleveland, starting at 11 o'clock; and Blewett and McKinley clash at 12:30 o'clock. Roosevelt draws a bye.

Yesterday's results:

Jimmy Johnson, Soldan, defeated Sam Schwartz, Blewett, 6-3, 6-0; Edward Schuler, Blewett, defeated Elmer Price, Soldan, 6-0, 6-0; Dwight Laster, Blewett, defeated Thomas Munn, Soldan, 2-6, 14-12, 6-4; Kurt Schaefer and Elmer Koch, Blewett, defeated Ellis Lipetz and Ely Katten, Soldan, 6-3, 3-6, 6-2.

Eugene Lindemann, Beaumont, defeated Lyman Abernathy, McKinley, 6-1, 6-1; George Finley, Beaumont, defeated Edward Wolken, McKinley, 6-3, 6-4; James Bradley, Beaumont, defeated Robert Kennedy, McKinley, 6-4, 6-3; George Berger and Bud Blatner, defeated Edward Walton and Kenneth Lesman, McKinley, 6-4, 6-0.

Martin Holds Record. Pepper Martin holds the high batting mark for a full seven-game world series a mark of .500 in the 1931 series.

Racing Notes

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Willis Sharpe Kilmer has named his stout-hearted juvenile, Ned Reigh, for the Endurance Handicap at the Bowie meeting Nov. 23. He believes Ned Reigh is one of the best of the season's two-year-olds, despite his failure to win in recent races.

Sonny Workman, who has ridden Ned Reigh when he was right, has said he considered the horse the equal of Red Rain, Wright, who rode the colt in the Futurity, is of the same opinion.

Jockey Silvio Coucci, the Bronx whirlwind, has lost some of his riding prestige in recent days. He has failed to bring in a winner in the last three days at Pimlico, although he was handed first money on Ballbroux when the stewards disqualified Scotch Bun on Wednesday.

Traynor Says He Will Be Pirate Regular in 1936

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 8.—MANAGER PIE TRAYNOR of the Pittsburgh Pirates isn't benching himself, he promises to be back on the hot corner next season.

Traynor came to town for week's visit to discuss prospects with President William Benswanger and announced himself in excellent health.

The veteran Buccaneer wasn't able to play third base part of last season. He said, however, that a slight muscle bound condition in his throwing arm should be fixed up in a few weeks.

MUNY BASKET LEAGUE ENTRY FEE REDUCED

The entry fee for teams in the Men's Municipal Basketball League this season will be $35 a team instead of $45, it was announced last night at the City Recreation Department. Officials have made the reduction following a study of the budget requirements of the sport and have come to the conclusion the needs of officials, balls and other incidentals can be handled adequately at a $10 saving on the entry fee.

Applications and entry fees are now being received in Room 330, Municipal Courts Building, with the closing of the enrollment schedule for 5 p. m. of Wednesday, Nov. 12.

Teams already having paid the $45 entry fee, of course, will receive a $10 refund. The schedule will be begun in the first week of December.

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—Fred "Duke" Slater, former University of Iowa football star, was appointed assistant corporation counsel for the City of Chicago yesterday by Corporation Counsel Barnett Hodes.

U. S. COAL BOARD NAMES OPERATORS AS ADVISERS

Committee of 23 Appointed to Give Information on Markets to Commission.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Creation of an Advisory Committee of operators to advise the Coal Commission was announced yesterday. C. E. Smith, commission member, said the 23-man committee would advise the commission on markets, prices and the correlation of various phases of the bituminous industry. The Advisory Committee has been summoned to meet in Washington next Tuesday.
In most instances the operator named to the committee is considered an expert on markets, Smith said. The committee was chosen from lists submitted by the operators.

Saying the purpose was "to avoid possible claims that the filing of information by coal producers with the district boards might lead to the disclosure of confidential information," the commission announced it had ordered that such filing be deferred until "proper rules for safeguarding such information" have been put into effect.
The advisers include J. R. Henderson of Chicago, E. F. Stevens of St. Louis, alternate.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 8.—Oakland, Cal., was chosen yesterday as the meeting place for the 1936 convention of the American Dental Association, at an executive session of its House of Delegates here today. St. Louis and Milwaukee also bid for the convention.

BANK CASHIER PLEADS GUILTY OF THEFT OF BONDS

P. W. Neff, Moweaqua, Ill., Mailed Newspaper Scraps and Kept $6000 in Securities.

FATHER MAKES GOOD THE LOSS

Head of Depository Urging Probation, Asked if He Bases Punishment on Ability to Repay.

Paul W. Neff, cashier of the closed Moweaqua State Bank at Moweaqua, Ill., pleaded guilty yesterday before Federal Judge Wham at East St. Louis of using the mails to defraud. He made a plea for probation, presenting eight character witnesses. Judge Wham continued hearings on the case till Nov. 26.

In a written confession read to the court, Neff, who is 31 years old, stated that knowing he would be without a job when he completed liquidation of the assets of the bank, which closed last July, and owing $1500 on notes, he conceived a scheme for making some "easy money."

Accordingly, the confession said, intending to appropriate $6000 in Liberty bonds, he placed sheets of an old newspaper in an envelope, which he sealed and addressed to a Chicago bank. In another envelope he placed the bonds, and with L. P. Drew, a director of the Moweaqua bank, as a witness, he sealed the envelope and addressed it, too, to the Chicago bank. Both Drew and Neff initialed the back.

Mailed Newspaper Clippings.
Neff went to the postoffice and registered and mailed the envelope containing the newspapers, keeping the one with the bonds. When officials at the Chicago bank received the envelope, they notified Neff by phone, who told them he had sent the bonds. Neff then reported the loss to the insurance company, filing a claim and an affidavit stating the bonds were lost. Postal authorities traced the letter and found it had not been tampered with. The back of the envelope did not bear the initials of Drew and Neff, as did the other, and when the authorities confronted Neff with the discrepancy, he confessed.

Neff's father, Eugene, a farmer, made good the loss to the bank. Disposition of the bonds was not disclosed.
David Hill, president of the Moweaqua State Bank, appearing as a character witness for Neff, said that despite Neff's dereliction he still held him in the highest esteem, and that if probation was granted he would allow Neff to continue liquidation of the bank's assets. This, he said, was agreeable to the board of directors. A recent audit showed Neff's books were in order. Hill said he never sought to learn about the disposition of the bonds, but considered the matter settled when restitution was made.

Comment by Judge.
When Judge Wham asked whether he thought he ought to determine the character of the transaction, inasmuch as some other employee might be involved, Hill replied that "as long as the money was paid back, I believe Neff should be placed on probation."
"Suppose Neff's father had no money to make good the loss to the bank," asked Judge Wham, "would you then say that Neff should not be punished?" Hill replied that under that circumstance he would favor prosecution.

"Then you evidently believe that punishment should be determined by ability to repay," Judge Wham commented.

Earl Griswold, president of the State Bank of Cerro Gordo, a neighboring town, testified he never had found Neff guilty of a dishonest act or word, and that Neff was a reputable church member and treasurer of a Sunday school class.

Commenting on punishment of wrongdoers, Judge Wham asked: "Do you think punishing one banker for his derelictions would have any influence in keeping others in line? If he is caught and makes restitution, is that sufficient?"

Griswold's only answer was: "I think no good would be done by punishing Neff."
Other character witnesses, including two pastors of Moweaqua churches, testified that Neff had the best of reputations and that their communities would approve placing Neff on probation.

Nat Goldstein Improving.
The condition of Nat Goldstein, former Circuit Clerk, was said today to be improved at Missouri Baptist Hospital, where he underwent an operation yesterday for removal of a goiter.

$20,000 SUIT FILED AGAINST PASTOR OF TRUTH CENTER

The Rev. E. C. Hartmann Charged With Libel and False Arrest by Member of Congregation.

Suit for $20,000 damages, alleging false arrest and libel, were filed yesterday against the Rev. Emil C. Hartmann, pastor of the St. Louis Truth Center, Inc., 4030 Lindell boulevard, by T. Orval Smith, member of the executive committee of the organization.

Smith alleged that he was arrested and "detained for 20 minutes" on Sunday, Aug. 11, at the instance of the Rev. Mr. Hartmann, whose place as leader of the congregation he took, at the minister's request, when the latter was on vacation last summer. The alleged libel, Smith charged, was published in a bulletin by the minister and circulated among members of the congregation. The Rev. Mr. Hartmann declined to comment.

FRIEND OF CONVICTED ROBBER
REPORTS HE WAS KIDNAPED

Alleged Abduction Follows Victim's Appearance in Court Where Three Were Found Guilty.

By the Associated Press.
LOS ANGELES, Nov. 8.—Fred Anderson, 38 years old, who was once questioned in the Monte Carlo gambling ship robbery case, appeared at the Wilmington police station today and reported he had been held several hours by kidnapers.

Anderson said he was driving early today shortly after leaving a Federal courtroom when two men stopped his machine, slugged him and placed him in their auto. Lars Holden, who was riding with Anderson, said the men told him to go to the San Pedro police station. Anderson said his abductors searched him several hours later and then released him.

OXFORD DEBATORS NOV. 19

Washington U. Choose Two to Oppose Them.

Chester Hunt, graduate student, and William Keedy, senior in the law school, have been selected to represent Washington University in the debate with representatives of Oxford University at Graham Memorial Chapel Nov. 19.

The subject of the debate is: "Resolved that in the opinion of this house the judiciary should have no power to override the decisions of the executive and the legislature." The Oxford team will be composed of A. W. J. Greenwood and Richard Kay-Shuttleworth.

WOMAN ELECTED PROSECUTOR
OVER MAN ON JOB 32 YEARS

Dorothy Stroth, 30, Pike County, Pa., Will Give Birth to 'Another Chance.'

By the Associated Press.
MILFORD, Pa., Nov. 8.—Dorothy Stroth, as a candidate for District Attorney in Pike County, pledged she would handle the job herself, and the voters accepted her in place of the man who had served continuously for 32 years.

"It was said I was too young and that I was a woman," Miss Stroth commented today. "I'm older than Mr. Bull was when he was first elected."

George R. Bull, present district attorney, was the lone Democratic candidate turned down for a Pike County office in this week's election.

Miss Stroth is a Republican and next year will be the only woman district attorney in the State. She is slightly blonde, and says she is 30. "I don't believe in prosecuting anyone unless they have been unfortunately gotten into trouble and would make a good citizen if given another chance," she said. "With the hardened criminal, I intend to deal to the full extent of the law."

She also said she wanted to keep away from the idea of reform. "One of the arguments was that I was going to clean up the county. I'm going to do my duty, but I'm not going to start out and look for trouble. There's been a condition that hasn't been very healthy—undesirable, I'd say. There have been some stills discovered, and there were gangsters."

She said it was the "consensus of opinion" that some gangsters from large cities have been making Pike County their hideout. Her estimate of the number of criminal cases originating in the county is about 15 a year. Although Pike's area is four times that of Philadelphia, its population is only about 8000.

THINKS HE SAW LOST
APPEAL BOND BURNED

Co-Signer Testifies William Scheer, a Principal, Destroyed Bond Paper.

Harry H. Repple, co-signer of a $14,000 appeal bond which disappeared from the Circuit Clerk's office, testified in a deposition yesterday that he saw what "looked like" the bond burned last Feb. 4 in a back room of the tavern of William H. Scheer, 3900 Park avenue. William Scheer, with his brother, Herman, is charged with receiving stolen property in connection with disappearance of the paper.

The Scheers were principals on the bond, which they gave three years ago in appealing a $6800 judgment against them in favor of John J. Benthum, in a suit growing out of a business deal. The deposition hearing yesterday, called by the Scheer brothers, was held in the office of C. Lew Gallant, Special Commissioner. Repple is a State's witness in the stolen property case, which is set for trial in the December term of court.

The bond was burned by William Scheer, Repple testified, with himself and William F. Pickert, another signer, standing by watching. "I went to the saloon with Pickert and he introduced me to Scheer," Repple continued. "We went in the back room and the door was locked. Scheer opened a safe, took out a paper and showed me my signature on it. Then he burned it."

Says Paper Was Folded. "Was that paper the bond in question?" asked Stenwall Jackson Walton, attorney for the Scheer brothers.

"Well, it looked like it and Scheer told me it was," said Repple. "But he folded the paper so I could not read the other part. I knew it was bond paper, though."

"As a matter of fact," queried Walton, "didn't you take that bond there and didn't you tell Scheer that he and his brother could have the collateral they had put up with you for the bond if they would pay you $100?"

"Positively not," said Repple. "That $100 was coming to me as part of my original fee for signing the bond." He admitted under further questioning, however, that he had made no previous effort to collect the $100, although more than two years had elapsed since he signed the bond.

The collateral which Walton referred to was two deeds of trust worth $10,000 and a quantity of Grand National Bank stock which had been deposited by the Scheer brothers with Pickert and Repple as security on the bond.

Receipt Also Burned. Repple testified that several weeks after the bond was burned he went with Pickert to Herman Scheer's home, 6818 Natural Bridge road, Pine Lawn, where Pickert, in the presence of Herman Scheer and Repple, burned a receipt given by the bondsmen for the collateral. It was burned in a spittoon, "just like the bond," Repple testified.

Walton questioned Repple closely about his acquaintanceship with employees of the Circuit Clerk's office, but Repple denied having any friends in the office. The Scheer brothers have been seeking to serve a subpoena on a former Deputy Circuit Clerk. In a recent deposition, Circuit Clerk H. Sam Priest denied the discharge of the clerk was connected with the missing bond matter.

MEDICAL SERVICE BUREAU
CHARTER REPORT ADVERSE

Attorney Informs Court Intent Is Not "Exclusively Benevolent"; Petition to Be Revised.

A report was filed today with Circuit Judge Bader by Joseph B. Catanzaro, an attorney appointed by the Court to investigate the petition of the newly formed Medical Service Bureau of St. Louis for a pro forma decree of incorporation as a benevolent organization, recommended that the petition be denied.

Catanzaro stated that he had talked to officers of the bureau and examined its by-laws and pamphlets and that he believes it to be a business organization and "not exclusively benevolent." He said it planned to collect bills for doctors on the installment plan and that it would deduct 10 per cent from the bills for operating costs and the establishment of a sinking fund.

The report stated that the bureau would plan installment payments of doctors' bills for small wage earners and persons of limited incomes, but that no provision for indigent patients were found.

Ray F. McCarthy, executive director of the bureau, said the petition to incorporate as a benevolent organization would be withdrawn before court action would be taken on it and that application would be made to incorporate as a small non-profit business organization.

Soldiers Hammer Bomb; One Killed By the Associated Press.
LIMA, Peru, Nov. 8.—A private was killed and a sergeant seriously injured last night when a bomb exploded when they pounded it with a hammer in the barracks here. The bomb had been lying around for a long time, and the soldiers thought it wasn't loaded. The private was holding the bomb on an anvil at the sergeant's order while the latter swung the hammer.

RAIL RATE OVERCHARGE NOT PREFERRED CLAIM

Federal Appeals Court Rules in Suits in Court 19 Years.

Claims against the old St. Louis, Iron Mountain & Southern Railroad, now a part of the Missouri Pacific lines, for alleged overcharges on intrastate shipments from 1905 to 1913 were found to be general and not preferred claims, in a decision handed down here yesterday by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

The decision of the Federal Appeals Court, which climaxed 19 years of litigation, sustained the decision of Federal Judge Faris in 1913, as well as the report of a special master in the case, who held that the claims should be allowed as general claims.

The alleged overcharges occurred during a period when a Federal injunction was in force against the State Maximum Freight Act, enacted in 1905, which made substantial reductions in freight rates at that time. This injunction was dissolved by the United States Supreme Court in 1914, following which many claims, aggregating about $2,000,000 were brought against the railroad.

The Court's ruling yesterday was on a $4000 claim brought by the Berthold & Jennings Lumber Co., selected as a typical claimant. The ruling, however, affects all other claims.

Dissent On One Point. The opinion of the Federal Appeals Court, handed down yesterday, was written by Judge William B. Gardner and concurred in by Judge A. S. Van Valkenburgh.

Judge Kimbrough Stone, third member of the court, dissented on one issue of the case, which was whether the funds available for payment of claims should be regarded as trust funds. The majority opinion held that they were not trust funds.

The claims, if finally allowed and if no appeal to the United States Supreme Court is taken by the appellants, would be paid on a pro rata basis from the sale of un-mortgaged assets of the old company, the St. Louis, Iron Mountain and Southern road. It is not known how much could be realized on the claims, after the involved financial proceedings through which the road has passed in recent years.

Decision by Judge Faris. The decision of Judge Faris in April, 1913, held that the shippers' claims should have been presented to the special master appointed in 1913. Instead, suits were filed in Federal Court. Judge Faris cited court decisions to show that, when a special master is appointed to hear claims, the claims not filed within six months of his appointment become general claims, a point on which the Appeals Court agreed.

The Missouri Pacific has sought in the past to settle the claims by issuance of preferred stock, which the holders of claims refused to accept in payment.

WHOLESALE PRICE LEVELS MAINTAINED SINCE NRA UPSET

Some Classes of Goods Have Gone Up, Notably Textiles, Hides and Leather Products.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Bureau of Labor Statistics figures on the wholesale price index since the Supreme Court upset the NRA codes last May, indicate that price levels have been maintained on industrial products.

Some price groups have moved upward since spring. An outstanding change was an increase of 5.8 per cent in textiles from the 1935 low point, recorded early in April.

Hides and leather products, for the week ended Nov. 2, were up 11 per cent since April. Small gains also were registered by fuel, metals and building materials.

All commodities other than farm products and foods, covering a large cross-section of industrial products, averaged 78.4 per cent of the 1926 wholesale price level compared with the 1935 low of 77.2 recorded April 6, a gain of 1.6 per cent.

Illinois Sales Tax Collections. SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Nov. 8.—Illinois sales tax collections totaled $5,153,781 in October, the third month under the 3 per cent rate. One-third of the tax went for unemployment relief.

WILL IMPAIR NATION'S CREDIT.
Dr. Isador Loeb, in Speech at Kansas City, Opposes General Sales Tax.

By the Associated Press.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 8.—Continued national budget deficits will impair the national credit, declared Dr. Isador Loeb, dean of the School of Business and Public Administration of Washington University, St. Louis.

Dr. Loeb spoke today before the Southwestern divisional meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

"While emergency expenditures during the depression may be justified deficits and the increase of the national debt," he said, "the latter have reached such proportions that a continuation of this policy will impair national credit. Taxation are high and probably will be higher. Neither political party will abandon certain features of the New Deal program which involve large expenditures for social, governmental costs, Federal, state and local, has been upward and the will probably continue."

Dr. Loeb opposed a general sales tax as "cumulative and regressive in operation." He said a reduction of personal exemptions and higher rates in lower brackets of the income tax would furnish a better method of broadening the tax base. Excise taxes on special commodities, he said, "while not desirable are preferable to a general sales tax."

$25,000 DEFAULT JUDGMENT
IN BREACH OF PROMISE SUIT
Award Made to Widow, 65, Who Bought $100,000 From Brother-in-Law.

A default judgment of $25,000 was awarded by Circuit Judge Sartorius today to Mrs. Harriett Stephens, 65-year-old widow, in her $100,000 breach of promise suit against her brother-in-law, William T. Stephens, 63, of 3812 Eastern avenue.

The case had been under advisement since Oct. 18, when the court heard the case without a jury, the defendant failing to appear.

Mrs. Stephens, who resides at 4533 Kensington avenue, testified at the hearing that Stephens, brother of her husband, James, who died in 1923, proposed marriage five years ago and persuaded her to give up a well-to-do suit. Last March, after five postponements of the wedding, he married another woman, she testified.

After learning of his marriage, she testified, she lost 25 pounds weight in three months through worry. Other witnesses said the Stephens was a man of means, that he formerly owned a livery stable and had an income of $12 a day from investments. Stephens, in answer, denied he ever set a date to marry Mrs. Stephens.

MUSIC TEACHERS HOLD GROUP CONFERENCES

To Close State Convention Tonight With Election and Dinner.

The Missouri Music Teachers' Association continued its thirty-third convention today with a series of joint meetings with the music section of the Missouri State Teachers' Association. The convention will end tonight after election of officers and the annual dinner at Hotel Statler.

The morning session, at which voice and compositions were discussed, was held at Hotel Statler. The afternoon meeting was held at Webster Groves High School. Principal speakers in the morning were Frederic B. Stiven, president of the Music Teachers' National Association, and Dr. Mabelle Glenn, supervisor of music in the Kansas City public schools. Among the speakers were Leo C. Miller of St. Louis, a soprano, sang several selections.

The afternoon session was devoted chiefly to musical entertainment and demonstrations interspersed with short talks on technical subjects. Among the speakers were Leo C. Miller of St. Louis, president of the association, Clarence J. Best, Dr. Walter Swisher and H. P. Study, president of the Missouri State Teachers' Association. Music was offered by the Webster Groves Glee Club and a string trio.

Piano technique was the principal subject at the first session yesterday. Ernst Krohn of St. Louis traced the theory of rotary motion from the time it was announced in the late nineteenth century. He said that, without using the technique, which is attained by an even and flexible employment of the arm muscles, it would be impossible to play through some of the longer works for the piano without dropping from fatigue.

John Thompson of Kansas City told the delegates that interpretation could be taught. That, he said, must be left up to the pupil's intuition.

The musical program consumed most of yesterday's sessions. Gottfried Galston played several compositions of Bach on the piano and the Drury College string quartette played chamber music. The highlight of the entertainment was a recital of four new compositions of Powell Weaver, composer and pianist, by Kansas City, by Gladys Havens, a contralto, who has appeared as soloist with the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra. Weaver played her accompaniment.

Edgar C. Taylor will deliver the principal address at the dinner this evening. Other speakers will be Vladimir Golschmann, conductor of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, and Miss Lucille Barnes. The St. Louis Capella Choir will sing. More than 200 delegates have attended the meetings.

TWO MODEL LAUNDRY CO.
TRUCKS BOMBED, SET AFIRE

Men in Sedan Throw Phosphorus Missiles in Machines in East
St. Louis.

Two trucks belonging to the Model Laundry Co., 919-931 St. Clair avenue, East St. Louis, were set on fire with phosphorus bombs yesterday by men in a sedan who threw the bombs in the trucks while the drivers were in homes making deliveries.

One truck was parked in front of 1613 Belmont avenue, East St. Louis, and the other at Forty-first street and Caseyville avenue, when the bombing took place. Joseph E. Hartman, president of the company, said he could give no reason for the bombing. He said his drivers did not belong to a union.

One truck was damaged $135 and the other about $100. Hartman could not estimate the damage to the laundry, which was insured. The trucks were not insured.

TWO MODEL LAUNDRY CO.

Men in Sedan Throw Phosphorus
Missiles in Machines in East
St. Louis.

Two trucks belonging to the Model Laundry Co., 919-931 St. Clair avenue, East St. Louis, were set on fire with phosphorus bombs yesterday by men in a sedan who threw the bombs in the trucks while the drivers were in homes making deliveries.

One truck was parked in front of 1613 Belmont avenue, East St. Louis, and the other at Forty-first street and Caseyville avenue, when the bombing took place. Joseph E. Hartman, president of the company, said he could give no reason for the bombing. He said his drivers did not belong to a union.

One truck was damaged $135 and the other about $100. Hartman could not estimate the damage to the laundry, which was insured. The trucks were not insured.

Chicago Elevated-Bus Transfers.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—The Illinois Commerce Commission yesterday ordered a system of transfers put into use between the elevated lines and buses operated by the Chicago Motor Coach Co. The commission now is hearing evidence on the question of ordering transfers between buses and street cars. Elevated and street car transfers went into use recently.

MORE OR LESS ABOUT MARKETS AND MENUS

Nuts Are in Season and Some Exotic Fruits Put in Appearance.

Nuts are in the markets, pecans, almonds, brazil and English walnuts, a fresh crop with plump kernels. And that isn't all, peanuts are here, and chestnuts for stuffing that Thanksgiving turkey.

Brussels sprouts are plentiful now and tomatoes are quite reasonable. Fresh peas and lettuce are both higher than they were a few weeks ago. New potatoes can be had if you are unhappy without them and the family insists on new parsley potatoes. Old potatoes, red and yellow sweet potatoes are plentiful.

Water Cress Available. Water cress, like peas and string beans, is available practically all winter. Mixed with endive, it makes a particularly iron-rich salad. Fresh mushrooms are in the market, too, good sized caps that may be stuffed if you like them so, or cooked in the oven under those trick glass dishes known as "cloches."

All the root plants are here in abundance and include white and yellow turnips, beets, carrots and salsify or oyster plant which is cooked like other root plants and served buttered, baked or creamed. Red cabbage may be served sweet-sour, the vinegar keeping that very nice red color and the vegetable.

Exotic Pomegranates. Fruits are plentiful with the more exotic pink pomegranates and large Japanese persimmons available. Oranges will be found in two sizes, the small which are grand for juice and the medium if you like to slice them or serve them "on the hoof," as it were.

For Sunday's dinner we recommend roast duck in case there are hunters in your family who have been rather fortunate. Wild ducks should never be overcooked, at least that what connoisseurs say. Twenty minutes in a roasting oven is supposed to suffice but to our way of thinking the time is a bit too short. We would recommend at least 35 or 40 minutes. Wild rice goes especially well with game of any sort. It is cooked just as the white kind is cooked.

Complete Sandwich Meal. Since Sunday evening is a most auspicious time for open house and casual visitors, we recommend the toasted tomato and bacon sandwich with cheese sauce which is delicious and a real meal.

The corn toast for Monday's luncheon is corn combined with a thick cream sauce and served on toast. The Swiss steak for the evening meal should allow enough leftover to serve as hash baked in individual cups for the next day's luncheon.

You may notice the frequent use of cheese in the menu for the week. This is our way of taking off our hat to National Cheese week, which is from the eleventh to the sixteenth; orchids, as the well-known columnist says, though scallions are more in our line without his meaning attached.

THESE CHEESE RECIPES ARE GOOD ALL YEAR ROUND

With National Cheese week scheduled for next week we are passing on some cheese recipes which are good during the entire year.

Fruit-Cheese-Rice Patties.

Three cups salted boiled rice

Two bananas

Butter (for bananas)

Salt

Two tablespoons butter (for cheese sauce)

Two tablespoons flour

One-quarter teaspoon salt.

One cup milk

Three-quarters cup grated or diced cheese.

Make eight oblong patties of the boiled rice about 4 inches by 3 inches by 1/2 inch. Place in shallow buttered baking pan. Cut bananas into quarters by cutting once lengthwise and once crosswise. Place a quarter of banana on each rice patty, cut side down. Spread bananas with butter and sprinkle lightly with salt. Bake in a moderately hot oven (375 degrees F.) about 10 to 15 minutes or until banana is baked.

Make a cheese sauce by melting the butter and adding flour mixed with salt. Stir until well blended. Add milk gradually while stirring constantly. Boil two minutes. Add cheese and cook until cheese is melted. Pour over hot baked banana and rice and garnish with paprika. Serve very hot. Serves eight.

APPLE SAUCE PIE

Twenty-two graham crackers, eight tablespoons melted butter, apple sauce, whipped cream. Roll crackers fine with rolling pin and mix with melted butter. Line an unbuttered pie plate with one-half of cracker mixture, fill with tart apple sauce and cover with remaining half portion of cracker mixture. Bake 30 minutes in oven. Serve with whipped cream.

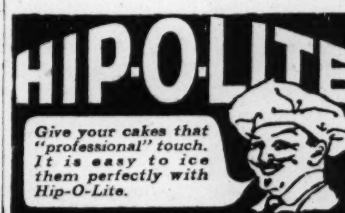

Orange-Onion Salad.

On a bed of shredded lettuce place three orange slices. Center these with an orange onion sandwich made of 2 1/2-inch orange slices put together with a thin slice of Bermuda onion in the center. Garnish with pimiento and serve with French dressing. Serves one.

Stuffed Baked Potato.

A stuffed baked potato is not new certainly, but adding diced cooked vegetables to the stuffing will be new. Diced carrots and freshly cooked green peas mixed with mashed baked potato and stuffed into the shells for a final heating and browning will add a touch to any dinner. You can use other combinations for other occasions.

Stale cake makes a good cottage pudding. Cut away all frosting from the cake. Arrange in slices on individual plates and pour hot lemon sauce over it. Top with a bit of jelly.

WHAT'S HAPPENED TO SHORTENING PRICES?

DEAR ME... most cooking fat prices have gone up and UP... haven't they?

Yes, but Crisco hasn't... look at ITS price today

I've started to use healthful Crisco for ALL my baking and frying.

SOMETHING'S been happening to shortening prices! Ask your dealer about it. Ask him the prices of Crisco—and other cooking fats.

You'll find that recently most shortenings have gone way, way up. But that's not true of Crisco.

Today Crisco, the finest of all shortenings, probably doesn't cost any more than ordinary cooking fats. In fact—if you buy Crisco in the big three-pound can—it may even cost you less.

When you use Crisco—the healthful all-purpose shortening, your family can enjoy your cooking at its best—light flaky pies, crisp fried foods, feathery cakes. For Crisco is made only of the purest vegetable oils—creamed and creamed into pure, sweet, fluffy shortening.

Buy a big 3-lb. can of Crisco today!

POPCORN POPS UP IN THESE NOVEL COOKING

We've used popcorn as a garnish for cream soups and now it pops as a cookie ingredient. A slow oven for baking these macaroons is instantly recommended unless you want a cookie that spreads in all directions.

Pop Corn Macaroons.
One egg white, beaten.
Four tablespoons sugar.
Two teaspoons butter.
One-fourth teaspoon salt.
One-fourth teaspoon vanilla.
Three-fourths cup of chopped popcorn.

Popcorn. One-fourth cup chopped almonds. Beat the egg white, add the sugar gradually then the butter, salt and vanilla, beating all the while. In the popped corn and drop from spoon into a well buttered cookie sheet. Sprinkle with the almonds and bake in a slow oven (300 degrees) for about 15 minutes or until delicately browned.

Maple Cup Custard.
A change for those fond of custard: Five well-beaten eggs, one cup maple syrup, and three cups rich milk. Pour into buttered cups and stand cups in a pan of hot water in the oven. Bake slowly until firm. Chill well before serving.

RECIPES FOR NEXT WEEK

Peppermint Stick Mousse.
One-third lb. peppermint stick candy.

One-half cup milk.
One-half teaspoon gelatine.
Two teaspoons cold water.
Two cups heavy cream.
Pinch of salt.

Put candy in a bowl and then dissolve in the milk. Soak gelatine in the cold water and dissolve over hot water. When cold add it to the cream with the salt and whip until stiff. Do not over-beat. Fold in the candy mixture and turn into the freezing tray of a refrigerator. Freeze until stiff.

Tomato-Bacon Sandwiches.
Remove crusts from bread. Slice one-half inch thick. Butter each slice and place a thick slice of tomato in center. Broil under low flame until tomato is tender and edges of bread are toasted. Place on serving dish, pour cheese sauce over tomato and garnish with slices of crisp, broiled bacon.

Cheese Sauce.
One-half pound American cheese.
One cup irradiated evaporated milk.
Scald milk over boiling water.
Add cheese that has been cut into small pieces. Continue cooking until cheese is just melted, about five minutes, stirring constantly. Yield:
Six servings.

Cheese Molds.
Two eggs.
One cup cooked rice.
One cup grated cheese.
One-half cup tomato juice.
One-half teaspoon salt.
One-eighth teaspoon pepper.
One-half cup evaporated milk.
Beat eggs well and add the other ingredients. If tomato juice is used, mix it with the rice before combining with the other mixture to avoid curdling. Pour into buttered custard cups, place in pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 30 minutes.

Butterhorns.
Two cakes compressed yeast.
One cup lukewarm water.
Three-quarters cup sugar.
One-half cup shortening.
Three eggs.
One teaspoon salt.
Five cups flour.
Crumb yeast cakes and dissolve in two tablespoons lukewarm water. Mix remaining water, sugar, and shortening and heat until shortening and sugar are melted. Cool to lukewarm, add yeast, and mix well. Add beaten eggs, salt, and flour and knead until elastic. Put in a greased bowl, cover and let stand until double in bulk—about 2 hours. Knead again until free from large gas bubbles. Divide the dough into thirds and roll out on slightly floured board to one-half inch thickness, keeping the dough round.
Cut into six pie-shaped wedges.
Brush tops with melted butter, shape into horns, rolling from the broad to the narrow edge. Arrange on a greased pan two inches apart.
Cover and let rise until double in bulk. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees) about 15 minutes. Serve hot or cold.

Baked Oysters With Cheese.
Butter a deep baking dish and fill almost to the top with alternate layers of oysters and grated cheese, sprinkled with salt, pepper and a very little celery salt.
Pour in a little of the oyster liquor and cover the top with thick slices of peeled tomatoes, covered with grated cheese. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) three-quarters to one hour. Canned tomatoes, well drained and sprinkled with cheese, may be used instead of the fresh tomatoes.

The oysters may be left on the opened half-shells and sprinkled with grated cheese, horseradish, salt, pepper and few buttered crumbs. Arrange the shells in a shallow pan and bake in a very hot oven (450 degrees), 20 minutes.
Or they may be broiled under, but not too near, the gas flame 10 to 15 minutes. Cover tops with bread crumbs.

CREAM PUFFS

One-half cup butter
One cup water
One and a quarter cups flour
Five eggs.
Put butter and water in saucepan and bring to boiling point. Add flour and mix well. Cook two minutes, stirring constantly. Cool. Add eggs, one at a time, beating after each egg is added. Beat five minutes. Drop by teaspoons on a greased pan one inch apart. Flat-ten with back of spoon into circles.

leaving center a little thicker, and sprinkle with split almonds. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) 20 to 25 minutes. Cool. Make a slit with a sharp pointed knife near the bottom of the puffs and fill with whipped cream, flavored and sweetened to taste, or with chocolate or vanilla custard filling. Sprinkle tops generously with powdered sugar.

The Soup Bone.

From the marrow of the bone we get fat, some protein, and some iron. A little calcium will dissolve from the inner part of the bone, and some of the bone tissue will be converted into gelatin. The meat on the bone will give up fat and some minerals and vitamin G, but will keep most of its protein values. Ordinarily we count on meat stock for the meat flavor, using its protein and fat and minerals as far as they go but depending for food value more upon the foods added to the soup. Vegetables of all kinds, rice, barley, spaghetti and noodles can be added to give a thicker soup.

Winter Greens Important Among Food Items

Kale, Broccoli, Brussels Sprouts and the Staple, Spinach, Shipped in During Winter.

Some of the vegetable crops are valuable for their roots or underground parts, some for their flowers and seeds. But those we prize for their leaves and stems are of chief concern just now, with frosts coming on and many a garden out of business for the coming months. We have come to depend upon the greens almost as much as upon what we call the staples. No day is complete without green vegetables of some kind on the table if the family is to be well fed.

Greens are the green leaves we cook for table use—especially spinach, mustard, dandelions, turnip tops or beet tops. Others of the cabbage family (besides mustard and turnip tops) also belong in this list, among them collards, kale and brussels sprouts. There is broccoli, of which we eat the stems, leaves and flowers, in fact, everything but the main stems and roots. Cabbage, cauliflower and asparagus, though we eat the leaves of one, the flower "curd" of another and the shoots or spears of the third, do not quite classify as greens, though we do use them as "green" vegetables.

Spinach a Best Seller. Spinach, however, is the best seller of all the greens, not counting cabbage. When all the home-grown greens are gone, there still is a steady market supply of spinach from Texas and Eastern Maryland and Virginia, where it is grown to meet the winter demand. Some of that time spinach is growing also in South Carolina and along the warm coasts of Washington State. The market gardeners gather and pack it in bushel baskets with crushed ice among the leaves and ship it in refrigerator-cars to all parts of the country all through the winter. Something like 70,000 to 80,000 acres of spinach are planted in this country for market and commercial canning, besides the home garden spinach.

Canned spinach can be used in nearly all the same ways the fresh leaves are used, and it has most of the same food values. Kale and collards also are grown for shipment, but most localities grow their own supply of these hardy greens. Collards are a standby in the South, and are sometimes shipped to city markets in the North also. Both are members of the cabbage family, kale with beautiful curly dark green leaves thickly bunched, and collards with broad, cabbage-like leaves and a rosette of tender bleached leaves at the top of the stalk.

Brussels sprouts, which are the small heads that grow in the axils of the leaves on a stalk of a kind of cabbage, are on the market in the fall and early winter, and sometimes later on as well. Broccoli, Italian sprouting broccoli, another member of the cabbage family, is becoming more and more popular on American markets and at the same time is becoming cheaper. Young stalks, with the flowers still in the making, are the tender ones, and the, should be fresh and green when you buy them.

Other greens, to be good, should not show flower or seed stems, but only fresh green leaves and stalks. Serve "Greens" Daily. It is a good thing, say the nutritionists, to have "a dish of greens" every day. All of the green leafy vegetables are important protective foods, because they are rich in minerals, particularly iron and calcium, and in vitamins, especially vitamins A, B and C—with vitamin C also. If the greens are not cooked too long or in too much water. The greens also furnish useful "roughage."

Cook greens uncovered in little or no water except what clings to them after washing, and cook them only until they are wilted. Season with salt pork or bacon or other fat, or with lemon juice or vinegar. Or brown a little onion in meat drippings and add to the greens.

Spinach in served this way, or it is creamed, or used in a cream-of-spinach soup. And it makes a delicious soufflé. For a spinach soufflé mix the spinach, chopped fine, with white sauce, fold this into the beaten whites of eggs, with or without bread crumbs, and bake in a slow oven. A still more substantial spinach dish is a mold or timbale, made of chopped spinach in white sauce mixed with beaten eggs, and baked slowly, like a custard.

Panned Collards. Such greens as kale or collards are good panned with milk. Wash the leaves thoroughly, drain, and cut in small pieces. For each quart of greens allow two tablespoons of butter or other fat, and melt this in a frying pan. Add the greens, cover to keep in the steam, and cook slowly for 15 or 20 minutes. Sift a teaspoon of flour over the greens, mix well, pour in half a cup of milk or cream, and stir until thickened. Season with salt and pepper and your panned greens are ready to serve.

Buttered Brussels Sprouts. Brussels sprouts, commonly served simply with melted butter, are also good when combined with boiled chestnuts. Before cooking the brussels sprouts, drop them into cold water for about 10 or 15 minutes. Cook them in lightly salted boiling water in an uncovered pan for about 20 minutes, or until tender. Combine with the cooked chestnuts, and season with browned butter.

Chocolate Rice Pudding. Put four cups of milk in double boiler. When scalded add one-half cup washed rice, five tablespoons sugar, one tablespoon butter, three tablespoons grated chocolate and one-third teaspoon salt. Cook two hours. Just before taking up, add one teaspoon vanilla. Serve hot with whipped cream.

QUICK SOUPS FOR LUNCHEON SHOULD NOT BE OVERLOOKED Quick soups for luncheon when you've had an unusually busy morning and the children are due home are not to be overlooked. There is one that calls for cooked fish, leftovers, if you have them. Cream of Salmon Soup. One cup salmon. Two and one-half cups water. One slice onion. One small bay leaf. One and one-half cups milk. One tablespoon butter. Two tablespoons flour. One and one-half teaspoons salt. One-half teaspoon pepper. One-eighth teaspoon mace. Flake the salmon and put it in a saucepan with the water, onion, and bay leaf and simmer for 15 minutes. Remove the bay leaf.

Melt the butter in a sauce pan, blend in the flour, add milk and seasonings and bring to the boiling point. Combine the mixture, cook for 5 minutes and serve hot with crackers. This amount serves three. SAUSAGE SCRAMBLE 12 pork sausages. Four eggs. One-fourth cup milk. One-half teaspoon salt. One-eighth teaspoon pepper. Toast. Cut sausages in small pieces and brown in a frying pan. Pour off part of the natural juice and add eggs which have been slightly beaten and mixed with milk, salt and pepper. Cook over low flame, stirring lightly, until egg is set and creamy in consistency. Serve on hot buttered toast. Serves six.

CHOCOLATE DROP COOKIES ARE VERY EASY TO MAKE Your cookie jar raiders will certainly enjoy these drop cakes. They are so simple to make that you can keep a good supply of them on hand without going to any special trouble. Chocolate Drops. One cup brown sugar. One-half cup melted butter. One egg. One teaspoon vanilla. One-half cup evaporated milk. One and one-half cups flour. One teaspoon soda. Four tablespoons cocoa. One-half cup raisins. One-half cup chopped salted pecans. Blend sugar and butter. Add beaten egg and vanilla. Alternately add milk and dry ingredients sifted together. Fold in raisins and nuts.

Drop by spoonful on an oiled cookie sheet. When done frost with a plain butter icing and sprinkle with coconut. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 10 minutes. This amount makes 20 cookies. MEXICAN STUFFED PEPPERS Combine 24 fine rolled crackers, one-half cup flaked cheese, one small onion minced, one-quarter cup chopped nut meats, three tablespoons tomato paste, one tablespoon chili powder and one-half cup water or stock. Mix and season with salt and pepper. Cut slices from tops of six green peppers, remove seeds and stuff with above mixture. Place peppers close together in baking dish and pour one-third cup cooking oil over all. Bake, covered, in a moderately hot oven (400 degrees) about one-half hour. Uncover and brown. Six portions.

CASSEROLE OF RICE Two small onions, finely chopped. Two cups grated cheese. Two cups well cooked rice. Two tablespoons butter. One tablespoon flour. One-fourth cup bread crumbs. Salt to taste. Butter a casserole and put rice, cheese and onion in it in layers. Pour over a sauce as follows: Melt one tablespoon butter with one tablespoon of flour; when well blended, add one cupful of warm milk gradually, stirring constantly to keep smooth. Season to taste with salt and let it boil three or four minutes. After sauce is poured over other ingredients, cover the top with bread crumbs and dot with remaining tablespoonful of butter. Bake in rather quick oven until nicely brown and serve hot.

STEW'S FIRST COUSIN
MAKES TASTY DISH

Fricassee Holds a Lure for Those Who Cook and Those Who Eat.

A fricassee and a stew are first cousins in the family of cooked meats, but because there is a certain distinction of name, a certain difference of foreign flavors in the word "fricassee." It holds more lure for those who cook and those who eat.

Obviously we would have to go back to the French chefs to get methods for preparing the original fricassee. But we have some good local recipes as well with favorite meat combinations.

Like Stew.
Let us note first how a stew and fricassee are alike. Both dishes are made from small pieces of meat, veal, chicken, lamb or a combination of meats. Both are cooked done in a broth or gravy over a very slow fire.

The main difference lies in the amount of gravy which is allowed to remain at the end of the cooking process. A stew should be finished with lots of good, medium thick gravy, in which to cook the whole carrots or onions or the noodles. A fricassee should have only a small amount of gravy at the end of the slow cooking process, just enough to serve a spoonful to each meat serving.

It's a nice idea to prepare and serve the fricassee in one of these attractive low oven pans of chromium or copper with lids which fit tightly. A frying pan with a tight cover will do the trick also, as will a casserole.

Simple Method of Cooking.
The actual cooking is simplicity itself. Just choose any cut of a mild flavored meat like breast of veal, shoulder of lamb, or a chicken which has outlived the "fryer" stage. Cut the meat in small or serving size pieces and roll it thoroughly in flour then give it a delicate brown in a small amount of hot butter or lard. Now we're ready to add the gravy.

Milk or cream, slightly soured cream, or simply water seasoned well with appropriate seasonings are the usual types of gravy. If you've used lots of flour in browning the meat you'll not need any more, for it will cook out into the gravy and thicken it sufficiently.

Cook Slowly.
After the gravy is added, the meat should be cooked very slowly indeed with the lid firmly in place. The oven is a good place to finish the cooking if it happens to be in use for other baking. The simmer burner on the gas stove is another ideal place to let this slow cooking process bring out the good flavors of the gravy and develop the moist tenderness of the meat itself.

The seasoning of the gravy is most important. For a brown fricassee with water gravy it is important to have some well-blended vegetable flavors. A bay leaf, a couple of cloves, a carrot or onion cut fine and browned with the meat add excellent flavors. For the mild flavored meats, try more intangible flavors. A very little ginger with the salt and pepper in a fricassee of veal with sour cream is worth trying, as is a bit of cinnamon in the milk gravy of a chicken fricassee.

Fricassee Veal and Ham.
One-half pound smoked ham.
Two pounds veal breast or shoulder.

Two onions.
One-half cup celery.
Four potatoes.
One tablespoon Worcestershire sauce.
One-half teaspoon salt.
Brown the floured veal and ham which has been cut into pieces. Remove the meat and toss the vegetables about in the browned fat until partly seared. Arrange in a casserole or a heavy pan, add seasonings, one cup water, cover closely and cook in a slow oven (250 degrees) for two hours. If the cast aluminum or iron kettle is used the process may be carried out on the direct fire by turning it as low as possible.

HOT DRINKS FOR COLD DAYS MAKE A PAIR THAT IS PERFECT

HOT drinks and cold days pair off perfectly. For that new turn in hot chocolate try something like this.

Honey Chocolate.
Two tablespoons cocoa.
One-half teaspoon salt.
Three tablespoons honey
Three cups scalded milk.
Blend together the cocoa, salt and honey. Add to the scalded milk and cook slowly for five minutes. Serve hot with a topping of whipped cream on each cup on a marshmallow.

Fricassee Chicken.
Older fowl can be successfully prepared by fricasseeing or "smothering." Cut the fowl into pieces, roll in seasoned flour and brown in butter or neutral lard. Place in a casserole and add one cup of sweet cream or thin white sauce and a pinch of cinnamon. Cover and allow to bake slowly at 300 degrees for two hours. The meat will be very tender and moist.

SALAD DRESSING

One-third cup finely cut ripe olives.
One teaspoon minced onion.
One-fourth cup heavy cream.
Four tablespoons mayonnaise.
Three tablespoons vinegar.
Four tablespoons catsup.
One-third teaspoon salt.
One-fourth teaspoon Worcestershire sauce.
One teaspoon paprika.
Four hard-cooked eggs, forced through sieve.
One cup shredded, crisp lettuce.
Combine cream and mayonnaise; add vinegar slowly, beating continuously. Add catsup, salt, Worcestershire sauce, paprika, olives, onion and sieved eggs, and blend thoroughly. Add lettuce just before serving. Serve with calavo quarter.

New-Style Baked Beans.
Put a can of beans in a casserole; season to taste with dry mustard, salt, pepper and a little minced onion if desired. Pour a cup of dark syrup over top and bake in a very slow oven until well-mixed and heated through.

SERVE A DESSERT THAT EMBODIES NATURAL SWEET

If your family likes honey—and what family doesn't—give them a dessert that embodies this natural sweetener.

Honey Ice Cream.
One quart fresh pasteurized milk.

One cup heavy cream.
One cup strained honey.
Two junket tablets.
One tablespoon cold water.
One teaspoon lemon flavoring.
Few drops of yellow food coloring.
Dissolve the junket tablet in cold water. Add honey. Then add lemon flavoring and coloring to cream and milk, stirring well to dissolve. Warm milk to lukewarm and not hot. Remove from stove. Add dissolved junket tablets, stir a few seconds to mix well, then pour at once into freezer can. Let stand in warm room until firm (about 10 minutes). Then cool. Pack in ice and salt and freeze.

DOMESTIC CHEESE ON PARADE NEXT WEEK

Appears in Many Dishes Beside the Usual Sandwich and Seasoning.

Next week has been set aside as National Cheese week, when American-made cheeses are on parade. If you know only one or two kinds of cheese it will pay you to investigate the many other varieties that are now on the market.

Practically all cheeses known in America, so one need no longer go to France for Roquefort and Camembert or to Switzerland for Swiss cheese. For that matter, American cheese manufacturers have been turning out excellent domestic cheeses.

Cheese a Main Dish. Most of us think of cheese in terms either of seasonings or sandwiches. It is really too good to limit the repertoire of cheese to these two roles in food. Cheese, being a protein, is really a main dish and our fondness and souffles and "rabbits" will vouch for this.

The Welsh Rabbit, which some people take as a joke, is a work, is a most palatable dish that does have Welsh ancestry. It seems when William the Conqueror made his first trip into Wales he was guest of honor in the home of a native chieftain. Whether game was scarce or just what the noble was one doesn't know, but the host served melted cheese on toast bread in place of the game in the game course. William dubbed the dish, so the saying goes, "Welsh Rabbit," and the name has stuck until this day except when the addition of eggs makes it a Scotch Woodcock or an English "monkey."

Improves Flavors of Food. The combination of cheese and macaroni or cheese and noodles is a splendid one, since the dish is both palatable and highly nourishing and what is very important these days, inexpensive. Dishes that need additional proteins usually benefit where cheese is used. If you've never passed grated cheese with soups, try it some time. You have a real surprise in store for you in the way of a new zest for soup. French onion soup without cheese sprinkled toast rounds is like any soup without salt from the French standpoint.

Corn bread, one of our oldest American traditions, has an added tang when made with cheese. Dietetically the combination is good since the protein in cheese balances with the carbohydrate of the corn. Rolls, biscuits and breads are often saved from monotony by the addition of cheese.

Cheese Fondue. Five eggs.
One and one-quarter cups milk.
One and three-quarters cups soft bread crumbs.
Three-quarters teaspoon salt.
One-eighth teaspoon dry mustard.

Beat egg yolks, add milk, crumbs, seasonings and food coloring. Beat in stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into buttered individual casseroles, place them in a pan of water, and bake in a moderate oven, 325 degrees, until firm.

Cheese Spoon Bread. Add one cup white corn meal to two cups boiling water and stir until thick (about five minutes). Beat two eggs, add to one cup milk and mix with corn meal. Add two teaspoons salt and two tablespoons melted butter. Pour into a baking dish and top with very thick slices of American cheese. Bake in hot oven 450 degrees for about 30 minutes. Spoon bread should be served, as its name suggests, in a semi-solid state, by "spooning" it from the baking dish.

Cheese Corn Meal. Sift together one cup wheat flour, one-half cup corn meal, four tablespoons sugar, three teaspoons baking powder and one-half teaspoon salt. Add one cup grated American cheese, two eggs well beaten, and one-half cup milk. Last, add four tablespoons melted shortening. Fill muffin tins half full and bake in a hot oven 400 degrees for about 15 minutes.

Special Rabbit. Three tablespoons butter.
One-half cup flour.
Three cups milk.
One-half teaspoon salt.
One-eighth teaspoon pepper.
Dash of cayenne.
One-eighth teaspoon dry mustard.
Three-quarter teaspoon Worcestershire sauce.
One-half pound American cheese.
Toast.
Sliced tomatoes.
Broiled bacon.

Make a cream sauce with the butter, flour, milk and seasonings. Cook in a double boiler until thickened and smooth. Add the crumbled cheese and stir occasionally until cheese is melted. Serve on fresh toast, garnished with sliced tomatoes and broiled bacon.

Brown Sugar Pudding. Boil one cup of brown sugar and two cups water in a saucepan 10 minutes. Add two tablespoons butter and turn into a greased one and one-half quart baking dish. Combine one-half cup granulated sugar, one cup sifted flour, two teaspoons baking powder, one-half cup water and one-half cup seedless raisins, into a batter and pour over the hot syrup. Do not stir. Bake 25 minutes in hot oven (400 degrees). Serve hot or cold. Serves six.

THIS AMUSING DISH OF ENGLISH ORIGIN ANSWERS TO MANY NAMES

HERE is another of those amusing dishes of English origin. The Scotch call it "Wood Cock" and here we call it "Rabbit."

Put together in the upper part of a chafing dish or double boiler one cup top milk, half a cup of grated bread crumbs, two cups of grated cheese, half a teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon paprika, one-fourth teaspoon mustard, and one teaspoon of Worcestershire sauce.
Cook over hot water stirring constantly. When the whole is a light creamy mass add two beaten eggs. Cook a moment to set the eggs and serve on toast slices or crisp crackers.

STUFFED PORK CHOPS

Four thick pork chops (cut for stuffing)
One and a half cups cooked rice
Salt and pepper
Two chopped pimientos
Wipe chops, stuff with chopped pimiento and rice. Place in hot skillet and brown on both sides. Cover and reduce heat. Cook slowly one hour.

FROZEN FRUIT SALAD DOES DOUBLE DUTY AT DINNER

Combining a salad and dessert course is no trick at all. While there is always the fruit salad which does double duty a frozen salad always dresses up the family dinner.

Frozen Orange Salad.
One cup heavy cream beaten stiff
One-third cup mayonnaise
One cup sugar
Two bananas
Two tablespoons lemon juice
One and one-half cups orange pieces, drained
One cup dates, peaches, pineapple and maraschino cherries
Combine the cream, mayonnaise and sugar. Cover the banana pieces with the lemon juice to prevent discoloration. Combine all the ingredients. Pour into the freezing tray of refrigerator and let it remain until it is firm and not until the fruit pieces become icy and hard. Cut in slices and serve on crisp lettuce leaves with additional mayonnaise.

Cheese Macaroni. Boil until tender (but not soft) two cups broken macaroni in three quarts boiling water, salted with 1 1/2 tablespoons salt. Blend two packages American cheese with two tablespoons flour and one-half teaspoon salt; add cream until smooth; pour one cup hot milk slowly over this mixture, stir until smooth; bring to boil. Four hot mixture over macaroni in baking dish, mix lightly with fork. Top with cheese. Bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees) to a delicate brown. Sprinkle center with a bit of paprika, garnish with parsley.

YOU KNOW JOE WASN'T ALWAYS THE HEALTHY BOY HE IS TODAY. USED TO BE A NERVE PROBLEM. DIDN'T GAIN WEIGHT. SCARED OF HIS SHADOW. AND HIS SYSTEM WAS ALWAYS OUT OF ORDER.

THAT'S WHY THE CEREAL CHOSEN FOR THE DIONNE QUINTS IS QUAKER OATS!

Mothers! On the Dionne Quints the world has showered its model methods of raising children. QUAKER OATS was selected as the cereal for these precious babies even before their first birthday! Consider that recommendation for your children and serve Quaker Oats daily. It is rich in Vitamin B, the vitamin Doctors say combats CONSTIPATION, POOR APPETITE and NERVOUSNESS—for both children and grown-ups, who lack that vitamin in the diet. QUAKER is flaked from the cream of the oat crop. Flavorful. Surprisingly good. For about 1/2c per dish, it supplies amazing material for growth, muscle and food-energy. The only oatmeal with Sunshine Vitamin D also. Order from your grocer. Either 2 1/2 minute quick-cooking, or regular Quaker and Mother's oats are the same.

LOWLY TURNIP SOARS TO NEW HEIGHTS

Veteran Among Vegetables May Also Be Used to Furnish a "Green" Dish.

The lowly turnip is fast coming into its own. This should be good news for budgeteers who are often put to it to find inexpensive vegetables to balance the family pocket book.

Besides, this year's turnip crop is a large one and a use must be found for these fruits of the fields.

The turnip is one of the veteran among vegetables. Pliny, whose fame as a correspondent is known to all Latin scholars, boasts of a turnip weighing 40 pounds which he found on his own farm, gentleman farmer, of course.

Use Turnip Tops for Greens. Southern and Creole cooks have long known the virtues of turnip greens, cooked with pork or, for thrifty housewives do, cook the tops with the globes and thus provide two vegetables, one of them being the important green vegetable.

Turnips figure in fresh vegetable salads along with carrots. If you own a set of fancy cutter gadgets, use them to turn out fancy shapes which will make eating this salad a real pleasure. Or you may prefer to grate raw turnip over the top of any salad, now that we seem to be talking of salads.

We don't wonder that families rebelled at the mere thought of being served boiled turnips blanketed with an indefinite whitish sauce which was supposed to pass for cream sauce. A little grated cheese added to the cream sauce would make even the lackadaisical turnip sit up and take notice, to say nothing of the family.

Rutabaga is a Turnip. While we are speaking of turnips we must not neglect that near relative, the yellow turnip, or rutabaga. This, too, is an excellent winter vegetable which may be served in all the ways the white turnips are served. The yellow turnip is supposedly higher in food value than yellow color indicates the presence

Veteran Among Vegetables May Also Be Used to Furnish a "Green" Dish.

The lowly turnip is fast coming into its own. This should be good news for budgeteers who are often put to it to find inexpensive vegetables to balance the family pocketbook. Besides, this year's turnip crop is a large one and a use must be found for these fruits of the fields.

Turnips figure in fresh vegetable salads along with carrots. If you own a set of fancy cutter gadgets, use them to turn out fancy shapes which will make eating this salad a real pleasure. Or you may prefer to grate raw turnip over the top of any salad, now that we seem to be talking of salads.

A little grated cheese added to the cream sauce would make even the lackadaisical turnip sit up and take notice, to say nothing of the family.

Rutabaga Is a Turnip. While we are speaking of turnips we must not neglect that near relative, the yellow turnip, or rutabaga. This, too, is an excellent winter vegetable which may be served in all the ways the white turnips are served. The yellow turnip is supposedly higher in food value. The yellow color indicates the presence of protective vitamins which are so important when city smoke begins to rob us of our sunshine.

Here are some recipes for tasty dishes:

Glazed Turnips. Six turnips of uniform size. One tablespoon sugar. One cup water. Two tablespoons butter. Seasoning to taste. Remove tops and stems from turnips and peel. Put the butter in a skillet to melt, then set in the turnips. Sprinkle with sugar, and water and seasonings. Cover and cook over a slow fire for about an hour. When tender add a tablespoon of flour which has been blended with some water. Put in the oven and cook for an additional half hour. These turnips may be used as a garnish to a meat platter. A tablespoon may be used in place of a skillet and the entire process may take place in the oven instead of on the top.

Turnips Croquettes. One and one-half cups boiled mashed turnips.

Two egg yolks, slightly beaten. Salt and pepper to taste. Drain the turnips well by wringing in a cheese cloth. Season with salt and pepper, add egg yolks, shape into small croquettes and fry in deep fat heated to 390 degrees, or fat that is hot enough to turn a cube of bread golden brown in 40 seconds. Drain on soft paper.

The crisp texture of the turnip adds much to raw vegetable salads. Combine with carrots, apples, cabbage, nuts and celery. Cut in cubes or grate on a coarse grater. Green Bean and Turnip Salad. One cup diced green beans. One cup of grated carrot. Two grated turnips. One tablespoon grated onion. Mix lightly with a fork, add salt, paprika and French dressing. Serve on crisp lettuce leaf. This makes four large or six medium sized salads.

Fried Turnips. Six turnips. Two or three tablespoons butter. Salt and pepper to taste. Boil the turnips until tender. Drain in a colander. Put the butter in a frying pan and when it is hot add the turnips. Season with salt and pepper and fry, turning frequently until they are brown. These turnips are excellent with roast duck.

Holiday Relish. Five pounds onions. Two dozen large green peppers. Two dozen large red peppers. Four tablespoons salt. Two cups brown sugar. Four cups vinegar. Two small red peppers (hot). Three quarts boiling water. Peel onions. Remove seeds from large peppers. Use the sweet variety. Put through coarse knife

ONION FINDS PLACE IN MANY DISHES

From Soup to Seasoning This Versatile Vegetable Appears at Least Once a Day.

Onions are plentiful this year, the yellow or Bermuda, the sharper red onion and the white or silver skin, used for seasoning.

The onion therapy has been looked upon more or less as a seasoning. Of course, seasoning in food is important but why limit the scope of this vegetable? Onions are rich in iron and vitamins, in fact some nations look upon onions as a kind of health insurance. Soldiers in the good old days ate them to increase courage and we often have heard of home remedies for colds that include this pungent vegetable. However, we aren't taking it upon ourselves to recommend any of these cures.

Onions Are Versatile. Onions are indeed versatile. First of all they may be used as a basis for soup, the kind that causes the epicurean Frenchman to swoon at the mere thought. Then there is the vegetable dish possibility. Boil and cream them, stuff them and bake them, use them in souffles. Salads, the vegetable kind, are greatly improved by the addition of thin slices.

We all know French fried potatoes. French fried onions, thinly sliced, dipped in thin batter and fried in deep fat, are an addition to any meal. Onions may be French fried without the batter if a crispier finished product is desired.

Creole Onions. Twelve small white onions. One tablespoon butter. One tablespoon flour. One cup milk or cream. Salt and pepper to taste. Throw onions in their skins into cold water and then peel them. Put them into a saucepan of boiling water, add a teaspoon of salt and let them cook for about 40 minutes, or until they can be pierced with a fork. Drain. Make a cream sauce by melting the butter, adding the flour and stirring in the milk or cream, stirring all the while until well blended. Season and pour over the onions. Baked Onions. Twelve large Spanish onions.

of food chopper. Cover mixture with boiling water and heat to the boiling point. Drain through cloth bag until mixture no longer drips. To the mixture add salt, sugar, vinegar and small red peppers. Boil 20 minutes. Remove red peppers. Put into hot, sterilized jars and seal with paraffin when cool. Makes seven pints.

Onion Canapés. Two medium-sized onions. Three hard-boiled eggs. One-eighth teaspoon salt. One and one-half ounce can canviar. Three tablespoons lemon juice. Twelve toast rounds. Slice onions very thin and soak in ice water while preparing the spread. Chop eggs finely and mix with salt, caviar and lemon juice. Spread on onion slice which have been drained on a towel. Put on toast rounds. Garnish with a bit of pimiento or a few grains of paprika if desired. Makes 12 canapés.

Onion Soup. Four tablespoons butter. Two and one-fourth cups thinly sliced onions. Six cups beef broth. One teaspoon salt. One-eighth teaspoon pepper. Few grains cayenne. Three dry rolls, toasted. Three-fourths cup grated Parmesan cheese.

Melt butter in saucepan. Add onions and cook eight minutes, or until yellow. Add broth, salt, pepper and cayenne. Cook slowly 20 minutes, or until onions are tender. Do not cover. To serve, place half a toasted roll in each of six soup plates. Top each roll with two tablespoons cheese. Fill plate with soup and serve at once. Serves six.

Beef broth may be made by dissolving six bouillon cubes in six cups boiling water. The Creole cooks of New Orleans have their own pet ways of preparing onions. Hags are two ways of serving them up to your family in good Creole style.

Creole Onions. Twelve small white onions. One tablespoon butter. One tablespoon flour. One cup milk or cream. Salt and pepper to taste. Throw onions in their skins into cold water and then peel them. Put them into a saucepan of boiling water, add a teaspoon of salt and let them cook for about 40 minutes, or until they can be pierced with a fork. Drain. Make a cream sauce by melting the butter, adding the flour and stirring in the milk or cream, stirring all the while until well blended. Season and pour over the onions. Baked Onions. Twelve large Spanish onions.

Salt and pepper to taste. Trim onions, but do not peel. Put into a kettle of boiling water and let them cook rapidly for one hour. Drain and arrange in a baking pan and let them bake for one hour. Remove, peel and place in a vegetable dish and serve with melted butter or with a drawn butter sauce.

Steak Dinner. Broil the steak on one side, then turn it and cook it on the other, just one turning. Leave the door of the gas broiling oven open during the cooking, which permits inspection of meat frequently with ease. When the steak is cooked, spread either very thin slices of American cheese or crumbles of Roquefort cheese over the hot meat, return to the broiling oven just long enough to let the cheese melt—no longer than three minutes.

While the steak is broiling, fry potatoes and onions. To every four or five potatoes cut in small cubes add one onion, sliced and separated into rings; this combination he cooks quickly in hot fat 1½ inches deep in a heavy skillet.

For Soup. Don't throw away the water in which you cook vegetables. Part of the nourishment of the vegetables is in this water. Save it to use in soups and sauces.

SURPRISE BREAD ADDS COLOR TO CHILDREN'S PARTY

This bread brings a surprise to any children's party when used for sandwiches. The varied colors of the candies used will intrigue the little guests and add a touch of color to the party table.

Gum Drop Bread. One-fourth cup sugar. One egg well beaten. One cup milk. Two cups flour. Two teaspoons baking powder. One teaspoon salt. Two tablespoons melted shortening.

One-half cup small colored gum drops, diced. One-fourth cup raisins. One-fourth cup chopped nut meats.

Sift together the flour, salt and baking powder. Add melted shortening and well beaten egg to the milk. Combine a little at a time with the dry ingredients and mix until smooth. Dredge the raisins, nuts and gumdrops with flour and add to the batter. Pour into a greased bread pan and let rise for about 20 minutes. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for about 45 minutes.

AND THE AMAZING DISCOVERY THAT SET HER FREE

DISCOVERED! HOW TO MAKE A "NO-SCRUB" SOAP SAFE AND MILD

An Utterly New Soap Discovery By the Makers of Gentle Ivory that Cost $1,000,000 to Perfect

YES—wash clothes 4 to 5 shades whiter without touching washboard or boiler! Do it this new way—this safe way! For here, at last, is a "no-scrub, no-boil" laundry soap that's really safe! So safe and mild that, by comparison, other "no-scrub" soaps seem harsh, hard on colors, unfit for hands!

Developed by the makers of gentle Ivory, Oxydol combines speed and safety in a way no single soap has ever done before. A patented process which makes mild, gentle soap much faster acting... a formula which makes it 4 to 5 times whiter washing.

Just 15 minutes' soaking to a tubful of clothes, and white clothes come so white it will amaze you! Yet Oxydol is so safe and mild that every washable color comes out sparkling, brilliant, fresh! Even sheerest cotton prints, soaked through 100 consecutive washings in Oxydol, show no perceptible sign of fading.

Oxydol is economical, too. One package often gives twice the suds—does twice the work—lasts twice as long as old-fashioned bars, flakes, or chips.

No wonder women everywhere are switching to this marvelous new laundry soap—and discarding washboards forever!

Try Under Money-Back Guarantee Get Oxydol from your dealer tomorrow. Unless it lives up to every claim, take the partly used package back to your dealer and get your money refunded in full. Procter & Gamble.

TESTED AND APPROVED BY GOOD HOUSEKEEPING INSTITUTE

Saves Work, Saves Clothes For Mrs. Barnes "With the big washing I have to do every week, I'd be simply exhausted without the help of Oxydol. The amount of work it actually saves me is really wonderful. And I can truthfully say that not even my sheerest cotton print dresses have ever been harmed in the slightest by washing in Oxydol." Mrs. C. W. Barnes, Wichita, Kan.

CHINESE MELET

Two tablespoons butter.
One and one-half tablespoons flour.
One-half cup milk.
Three-quarters teaspoon salt.
One-quarter teaspoon paprika.
One-quarter teaspoon dry mustard.
One-half pound cheese.
Two cups cooked rice.

Three eggs.
Make a sauce with the butter, flour, milk and seasonings. Remove from fire when thickened and smooth, add the sliced cheese. Stir frequently until cheese is melted. Add rice and beaten egg yolks; mix well. Fold in beaten egg whites. Pour into a shallow buttered baking dish; bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, until firm in the center, about 50 minutes.

FISH SALAD ROSEATE

One pound boiled or steamed fish
One hard-boiled egg
One small cucumber
Mayonnaise or cream dressing
Two tablespoons ketchup.
One tomato
Two lemons
Marinate the flaked fish and place in the refrigerator to cool. Color the dressing with ketchup and mix a portion of it with the flaked fish. Lay the mixture on a flat dish, spread with lettuce or water cress. Spread the remainder of the roseate dressing over the fish. Surround it with alternating rows of sliced egg, cucumber and tomato. Serve with quartered lemons.

FRUIT AND MEAT A TASTY COMBINATION

Pork Sausages and Broiled Peaches Make a Splendid Main Dish.

New ideas in food are always at a premium, and here is one that should make you very enthusiastic. Combine your favorite fruit with favored meat. Fruit and meat combinations for the main course no longer meet with surprised eyebrows lifting, since pork roast and apple sauce and ham paired off with pineapple in a really tasty way. The newest combination is pork sausages with broiled peach halves.

Pork sausage is coming into the top of its season right now, with its flavorful aroma, its juicy tenderness. You can purchase it in bulk, of course, to be made up into any size patties you like, but most people prefer the neat little-pig links which come about 12 or 16 to the pound, or the newer rectangular patties which come packaged so carefully. Those come about 12 to the pound and have the advantage of having no casing.

You can buy pork sausages now with or without sage seasoning. If you were brought up in a part of the country where sage is highly popular you'll want plenty of sage in your sausage, but if not, you'll like the milder, more delicate flavor of the sageless variety.

For frying, start them in a cold frying pan, fry them slowly and pour the fat off as it accumulates. Broiling is a really superior method and easiest of all. Put the sausages on the broiler rack along with the peaches and broil them all together.

One of the best parts of a sausage dish for dinner is the speed with which it can be prepared. Twelve to 15 minutes is all it takes to finish a platter of sausages and peaches. To complete this meal of perfect flavors, try a casserole of sweet potato puff and a crisp fall vegetable salad.

Other Combinations.
There are some other perfectly delicious fruit and meat combinations you'll want to try after you've tried the sausages and peaches. Serve a ham loaf with pear halves filled with mayonnaise and baked. Or wrap a strip of bacon around fat red plums and broil them quickly. Then there are fried bananas, simply rolled in flour and browned in the sausage fat to be served with sausages, lamb chops or on a mixed grill.

Broiled Pork Sausages With Peaches.
One pound pork sausages, links or patties.
One large can peach halves.
Two tablespoons butter, parsley.
Prick the casing of each sausage with a fork. Place links on the rack of the broiler. On the same broiler place drained halves of canned peaches, cup side up. Place a little of the butter in each peach cavity. Set the broiler rack four inches under a moderately high broiler flame and let the meat and fruit broil for 10-12 minutes. Turn the sausages once to secure an even brown. Peaches are removed when the edges are browned. Serve sausages heaped on a hot platter, surrounded by the broiled peaches and garnished with parsley. If a broiler is not available, place sausages in a cold frying pan and cook slowly for 15 minutes, pouring off the fat as it accumulates. Serves 5-6.

Sweet Potato Puff.
Four cups mashed sweet potatoes or one can sweet potatoes.
Two eggs.
One-half cup evaporated milk.
Three-fourths teaspoon salt.
One-fourth teaspoon pepper.
Four tablespoons butter.
Three to four marshmallows.
Scrub potatoes and boil until tender in water to cover. Peel and mash or put through potato ricer. If canned potatoes are used, set opened can into hot water for 15 minutes to warm contents and facilitate mashing. Place in top of double boiler and cook over boiling water for 30 minutes. Chill. Serve cold with whipped cream. Serves six.

Modern Steamed Pudding.
Two eggs.
One-half cup condensed milk.
One-half cup bread crumbs.
One teaspoon baking powder.
One-half pound chopped, pitted dates (one cup).
One-fourth cup chopped nut meats.
Blend together well beaten eggs, condensed milk, bread crumbs, baking powder, finely cut dates and chopped nut meats. Place in top of double boiler and cook over boiling water for 30 minutes. Chill. Serve cold with whipped cream. Serves six.

NEW FLAVORS FOR COOKIES HIGHLY RECOMMENDED

Surprises should not be limited to parties. Food surprises are even better, and new flavors are positively the "tops."

Ginger Rice Cookies.
One cup cooked rice.
One and one-quarter teaspoons baking powder.
One-quarter teaspoon salt.
One-half teaspoon cinnamon.
One-quarter cup butter.
One cup brown sugar firmly packed.
Two eggs.
One and one-quarter cups flour.
One tablespoon preserved ginger syrup.

One-quarter cup preserved or candied ginger, chopped fine.
And one-half cup walnut meats chopped.
Sift flour, measure, and sift again with baking powder, salt and cinnamon. Cream butter, add sugar gradually, and cream well. Add eggs one at a time, beating well after each addition. Add rice, syrup, preserved ginger, walnuts, and then flour. Mix until well blended. Drop by teaspoonsful on lightly greased baking sheet, and bake in moderate oven (375 degrees) 12 to 15 minutes, or until done. Makes about four dozen small cookies.

CHERRY CREAM PIE

Three-quarters cup sugar.
One-eighth teaspoon salt.
Four tablespoons cornstarch.
Two egg yolks, well beaten.
Three tablespoons butter.
Three-quarters cup cherry juice, strained from one can sour pitted cherries.
Two cups sour red, pitted cherries.
One and one-quarter cups milk.
Mix the sugar, salt and cornstarch. Add milk and cherry juice.
Cook in a double boiler, stirring constantly until mixture is thick.
Cover and steam 15 minutes. Add the cherries, egg yolks and butter.

Cool and pour into baked pie shell.
Cover with meringue made of two egg whites and four tablespoons sugar. Bake in a slow oven until meringue is nicely browned, or for 15 minutes. If a white filling with red cherries is desired, omit cherry juice and use two cups milk.

Date Cup.

Mix up two cups of dates and cut in small pieces and add to a cup of coarsely chopped walnut meats and a tablespoon of lemon juice.
Pile in sherbet glasses and let stand in the refrigerator until very cold.
At serving time, whip a cup of heavy cream, add a little powdered sugar and flavoring, and use to top the date mixture.

RICE CRANBERRY PARFAIT

One cup boiled rice
One tablespoon gelatin
Two tablespoons cold water
One tablespoon boiling water
Four tablespoons lemon juice
One quart cranberries
Two cups sugar.
Soak gelatin in cold water. Cook cranberries, then put through a strainer. Add the gelatin to the hot cranberry mixture. Add the lemon juice and freeze until mushy consistency. Open quickly and fold in lightly chilled, cooked rice. Return to the icebox or close the freezer for half an hour before serving. An excellent accompaniment for roast chicken or turkey.

Protein Rich Legumes Among Cheapest Vegetables

All Varieties of Peas and Beans Have Considerable Fat and Minerals and Are Always Available.

In most of the world where plant life grows at all, there are beans and peas of some kind, legumes, the botanists call them. Their seed are food for man and beast, the plants themselves, food for stock and fertilizers for the soil. Fine varieties in the garden furnish choice green vegetables for the table. We grow vast fields of them for drying and for canning.

Rich in Proteins.
No other kind of vegetable is rich in so many different food values as are beans and peas. They count as a building food, an energy food, and to a considerable extent as a protective food also. The bean contains more protein than any other kind of vegetable, and more fat. They are rich in such important minerals as calcium, phosphorus and iron, and the green ones are rich in vitamins. Dried beans are staple foods in almost every part of the globe except the polar regions.
They keep so long; they can be stored so compactly; and they can be transported so easily, that they are among the cheapest of vegetables all the year.

Fresh beans and green peas, however, are also on the market in our cities all the year. Florida ships snap beans and limas by hundreds of car loads, and California supplies green peas in quantity for winter markets. Something like 191,000 acres of snap beans, 37,000 acres of lima beans, and more than 350,000 acres of green peas were planted last year for market fresh and for manufacture—canning, freezing, etc.

Snap beans require particular care in shipping, because they are subject to "spotting" and to several diseases which spread with the beans like seed together and are packed while wet. Much of this is avoided, however, say the plant pathologists, by proper care in choosing the seed and in growing, picking, grading, and handling the beans before they are shipped. They are packed dry, but must be kept cool. Green peas are shipped in the pods, packed with crushed ice and stored in refrigerator cars.
Lima beans also are shipped in the pods, though they are often shelled for retail market. Like snap beans, limas must be packed dry and kept cool.

Large Portion Canned.
Much of the crop of snap beans, limas and green peas is canned, especially in the eastern and northern States. Wisconsin is the great bean and pea canning State, and puts up nearly half the quantity canned in the United States. Maryland, Utah, and New York, also, are big producers.

As for dried beans, enormous quantities of these come from California and Michigan. The next State in production is Idaho, with half a dozen other States contributing large quantities. The United States as a whole produced more than 10 million hundred-pound bags of dried beans out of the reported world total of 36 million last year.
This does not include the quantities of dried black-eyed peas, which are dried peas with the skins removed so that the halves fall apart.

Freezing New Process.
Besides the canning and drying, about 8 or 7 million pounds of green peas were frozen for market last year. The peas, fresh from the vines, are shelled, frozen at once, and kept frozen until cooked for the table. Frozen peas are especially convenient for restaurant use because, in such quantities, they can be delivered to the kitchen direct from refrigerators in cold storage houses. As they must be kept at temperatures below freezing, and as this calls for special refrigerat-ing equipment in retail stores, frozen peas and other frozen vegetables and fruits are not as yet on sale everywhere. But the number of retail dealers who carry them is rapidly growing and housewives find them in many markets. Buy the peas the day you use them, and keep them in the refrigerator until you cook them. Frozen peas do not need to be cooked as long as fresh peas. Season them as you would fresh peas from the garden, and you will find they taste practically the same.

Soybeans are best known for table purposes as mature dried beans, used in the same ways other dried beans are used, though some varieties require a longer time to cook.
The millions of acres of soybeans planted for hay and other farm or industrial purposes make dried soybeans available for the farm family table in many sections of the country now and through the winter. In cities you can buy them at seed stores and food specialty shops.

Soybeans Green Vegetable.
Young soybeans, it is well to remember for next season make an excellent green vegetable, especially the Dunfield among the field varieties, and such garden varieties as the Habito, Easy Cook and Rokusem. Usually they are green in color, about the size of an ordinary shelled bean and oval in shape, but some varieties are flat and more like a small lima bean.
They grow two or three in a pod,
and the pod is broad and flat, rough on the surface, and also tough. Parboiled green soybeans three to five minutes in the pod, and they will shell more easily.

Directions for making Aunt Jemima Pancakes

1. Mix milk or water with equal amounts of Aunt Jemima Pancake Flour. In a twinkling batter is ready.
2. Have griddle or skillet just hot enough. To test, put a drop of water on griddle. If it goes right up in a puff of steam, griddle is too hot. If it bounces around a second before evaporating, griddle is hot enough.
3. Grease griddle very lightly. Don't pour grease on. Spread it thinly with pad.
4. Pour batter into griddle. Let each side bake until a golden brown.

One order to your grocer brings everything for this marvelous low-cost meal. Complete with printed easy directions. Wonderfully quick to make with the special pancake blend that guarantees far more fluffiness.

AUNT JEMIMA and her pancakes were the talk of the Old South. And today these light, fluffy, soul-satisfying pancakes are still the favorites.

It's easy for you to get them light and well-done because Aunt Jemima's special pancake blend guarantees far more fluffiness than ordinary bread or biscuit flour. For Aunt Jemima's contains only about half the amount of gluten of ordinary flour. And gluten is the taffy-like substance in flour that resists heat and slows up the baking process.
That's why, with about half the gluten of ordinary flour, Aunt Jemima's pancakes come out so perfectly done, so tender, fluffy and light in the few short minutes pancakes are on the fire.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Public utility issues came into investment favor today on the court decree against the holding company bill, but their advance failed to stem a lively selling movement in rail issues which left the bond list irregular at the close.

General securities were

PUPPETS DEMONSTRATE BAD EFFECTS OF LIQUOR

Staggering Little Figures Used by W. C. T. U. Speaker at Teachers' Convention.

Little wire figures dressed in top hats and evening clothes, manipulated by Miss Bertha Rachel Palmer of the National W. C. T. U., made their bows yesterday at the Missouri State Teachers' Association convention, posing as "horrible examples" of the effects of alcohol on the human system.

The puppets were shown in progressive stages of vicarious drunkenness. They staggered when Miss Palmer wanted to demonstrate the effect of three-tenths of 1 per cent of alcohol in the blood. At four tenths, they draped themselves around lamp posts, and at six tenths they were quite dead.

Miss Palmer told the 100 teachers gathered at this round table session on methods of teaching children the deleterious effects of alcohol, laboratory methods such as the one she demonstrated appealed to the imagination of children, and aroused their interest more than dull lectures.

She had other demonstrations, among them two rows of bottles, one containing alcohol, and one pure water. The bottles containing alcohol dried up substances such as meat, bread and sugar, and hardened them. One observant child who had witnessed that demonstration, Miss Palmer said, had remarked: "So that's why people are so thirsty after they drink whisky."

She had a chart showing the figure of a man, divided in half. One half showed the beneficial effects of alcohol used externally, and in the manufacture of "everything from a baby's rattle to embalming fluid." The other half was designed to show the detrimental effect of alcohol on human tissues when taken internally.

Miss Palmer urged the teachers to warn children against healthful claims for beer, or catchy words in liquor advertising such as "smooth, mellow, aged and pure."

Dr. G. W. Diemer, president of the Kansas City Teachers' College, in the discussion which followed pointed out that Missouri is one of the 46 states where laws requiring the teaching of harmful effects of alcohol are still on the books, although not generally followed. He said teachers should "stick to the facts as revealed by science, and not act as propaganda agents for any group."

The Rev. G. Bryant Drake of Springfield said he had noted the attitude of boredom assumed by students during lectures on alcohol, and welcomed the suggestion that a laboratory rather than a lecture method be used. Instruction was not enough, he added, as many know the harmful effect of alcohol, but continue to drink. It was agreed that an appeal to the emotions was necessary to make the instruction effective.

The Rev. Mr. Drake also raised the question of whether teachers have a right to tell children that the use of alcoholic drinks is wrong, as it might promote disrespect for parents, if they drink.

That was a problem to which no one ventured a wholly satisfactory solution. Miss Palmer suggested the teachers might point out to the children that their parents did not have the advantage of the same education which the children enjoyed.

Second Death in Sikeston Fire.

SIKESTON, Mo., Nov. 8.—Mrs. Alice Bartlett, 66 years of age, died last night from burns suffered Tuesday when the home of Mrs. W. L. Stacy was destroyed by fire. Mrs. Stacy, who was carried unconscious from the building, died Wednesday. Mrs. Bartlett, who lived at the Stacy home, ran back to recover a small amount of money.

CLIPPER PLANE LEAVES MIAMI ON WAY TO SAN FRANCISCO

First Stop at Acapulco, on West Coast of Mexico; 12 Passengers Aboard.

By the Associated Press.
MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 8.—The China Clipper, huge flying boat, took off under clear skies at 6:11 a. m. today for Acapulco, Mexico, on its way to San Francisco to inaugurate trans-Pacific service to the Orient.

The craft carried 3800 gallons of gasoline. Aboard were a six-man crew and six passengers. Capt. Edwin C. Musick, skipper of the 25-ton transport plane and ranking pilot for Pan-American Airways, the owners, plotted a course over the Gulf of Mexico to Puerto Mexico, thence overland to Acapulco, on the west coast of Mexico.

Built by the Glenn L. Martin company in Baltimore, the Clipper was flown here Oct. 27 for training and engineering flights.

Passengers are John C. Leslie, engineer for Pan-American's Pacific division; P. D. Doran, motor engineer; L. C. McCarthy, builders' engineer; William Burke Miller and Harold See of the National Broadcasting Co., and Arthur E. Curtis of Pan-American.

EDWARDSVILLE MAN FOUND SHOT TO DEATH AT HOME

Charles Agles, 66, Had Started to Kill Wife, Wife Says; Shooting Accident, Deputy Coroner Thinks.

Charles Agles, 66 years old, a retired bricklayer, was found shot to death today on the back porch of his home, 206 Garden street, Edwarsville. He had a shotgun wound beneath the heart.

He was found by his wife, Mrs. Margaret Agles. The shotgun was beside him.

Mrs. Agles told police that her husband had been planning to kill rats in his garage, and while he was in the kitchen she heard the weapon fired. She said she called to her husband to be careful, and she received no reply, but heard him step to the back porch. About five minutes later, she said, she heard a second shot and found him dead on the porch.

She said the weapon belonged to her son, but had not been used in hunting as the trigger frequently failed to remain locked. Deputy Coroner Charles W. Marks said the shooting was accidental.

WPA REJECTS MISSOURI PLEA TO FINANCE PENSION OFFICE

Wants to Avoid Duplicating Work of Force Preparing Index of 1930 Census.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—The Works Progress Administration announced today that Missouri's application for an allotment to finance administrative expenses of its old-age pension system had been disapproved by Harry L. Hopkins. Hopkins, who yesterday said he did not recall his decision on the application, rejected the request on the ground that activities would duplicate those of the workers preparing an alphabetical index of the 1930 census. This, financed by a WPA allotment to the Census Bureau, is under way.

Missouri's Presidential Nominee.

By the Associated Press.
SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Nov. 8.—James D. Salts, often a candidate for President, who announced his candidacy recently on a "repeal the depression" platform, nominated himself at a convention of his all-state Republican-Jefferson party here this week. "The Honorable Salts," as he prefers to be known, called the session to order with 300 delegates present, nominated himself, announced his platform and adjourned in 15 minutes. Empowered to pick his own running mate, he said after the session he had about decided on Henry Ford, the automobile manufacturer.

Drop in Illinois Infant Death Rate.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Nov. 8.—The death rate for infants fell to a record low of 47 per 1000 births for the first nine months of the year, Dr. Frank J. Jirka, State Health Director, reported today. The birth rate, 137 per 1000 population, was the highest since 1932. Births totaled 81,608 for the first nine months, 1972 ahead of last year. The general death rate, 10.7 per 1000 population, compared with 11.1 in 1934, was one of the lowest on record for the period. A total of 63,721 deaths were reported as against 65,771 in that period last

She placed second in the Aerol Trophy race at the national air races at Los Angeles in 1933, and third in the women's free-for-all at the international air races at Chicago in 1933.

SPAIN TO COVER ARID PART OF COUNTRY WITH TREES

Effort to Be Made to Replace Forests Devastated Through Centuries in Fourth of Area.

MADRID, Nov. 8.—A determined effort to convert millions of acres of desolate mountainsides into flourishing forests is being made by the Spanish Government.

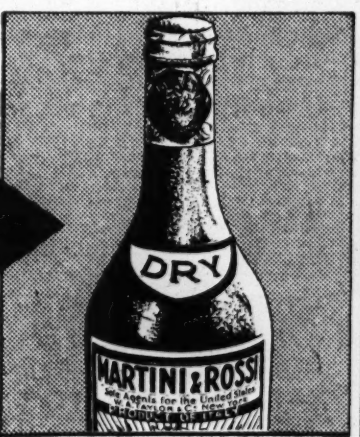

Centuries of devastating wars and heedless cutting of trees have left one-fourth of Spain's area barren and sterile. To bring back some of Spain's ancient forest heritage, the Government has appropriated 100,000,000 pesetas (about $13,000,000), to be spent over a period of 10 years to reforest thousands of acres of national preserves and to aid private owners to reforest their own lands. It is hoped that reforestation will help change Spain's climate to the extent of increasing rainfall in the sun-baked areas affected and of conserving the rain that does fall to enrich the land.

As conditions now are there are vast areas where rain comes but rarely. When it does come, drains off rapidly without being able to sink into the baked earth. With forests, this rain would find more receptive soil and would be conserved for the surrounding land. The seriousness of Spain's aridity, blamed in great part on the destruction of her forests, can be seen in comparative population figures with other European countries of similar area. Germany with an area of 186,647 square miles has a population of 63,118,000, while Spain with an area of 194,783 square miles has a population of 28,719,900.

TEACHERS' GROUP HEARS ACADEMIC FREEDOM DEBATE

"No Right to Give Students
Our Own Prejudices," U. S. Commissioner
Studebaker Says.

OTHERS PRESENT DIFFERENT VIEW

Expression of Instructor Attitude Necessary in Social Studies, Dean
Irion Contends.

Academic freedom means the right to teach with complete freedom, not the right to advocate personal belief, as some critics have construed the term, John W. Studebaker, United States Commissioner of Education, told members of the Missouri State Teachers' Association this morning. "We have no right to give students our own prejudices," he said.

Studebaker presided at a panel discussion by seven speakers of the duties of teachers' professional organizations, in the third general session of the Missouri State Teachers' Association, held at the Convention Hall of Municipal Auditorium. The convention will end at noon tomorrow.

Other Members' Views.
Dean Theodore Irion of the School of Education, University of Missouri, and Dr. Caroline L. Zachry of the Progressive Education Association, other members of the panel, answered Studebaker's question by the statement that social studies cannot be taught without the expression of the teacher's attitude.

Studebaker said a strong national organization of teachers could cure freedom of instruction, safeguarding schools from the forces of censorship which are similar to the "oppressive schemes of foreign dictators." "We must have free access to all social proposals that we may understand them and make our choice," he said.

The audience, which filled the lower floor of the hall, showed applause it favored a strong organization for enabling members of the profession to control education and expressed antipathy for the proposal that the teachers become a part of the labor union movement.

Dr. Stoddard Applauded.
The statement by Dr. A. J. Stoddard, president of the Department of Superintendence, National Education Association, that he objected to the teachers turning to labor or anyone else for help in solving problems, was applauded loudly.

Any teacher will be free to teach the truth when he is backed by a vigorous organization of all his colleagues, Dean Irion said. William E. Goslin, superintendent of Webster Groves schools, suggested the profession select the students who enroll for teacher training.

Dr. William J. Bogan, superintendent of Chicago schools, and Prof. Charles A. Lee, Washington University, also took part in the panel discussion. Other speakers on the morning program were Mrs. Warren L. Mabrey, president of the Missouri Congress of Parents and Teachers, and S. D. Shankland, executive secretary, Department of Superintendence, National Education Association.

Afternoon Meetings.
This afternoon separate meetings of the 30 school departments, or courses of instruction, were held in various hotels and schoolrooms. Dr. G. B. O'Brien, chairman of DePaul University, will address a general meeting at the Convention Hall tonight on "Culture and the Preservation of Democracy."

A special concert for the teachers was given by the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra last night in Convention Hall.

Products of school handicraft and art departments are on exhibit in the Exposition Hall of the Auditorium, along with displays by commercial firms. The Roosevelt High School band played yesterday afternoon for the entertainment of visitors to the exhibition.

Lewis Corey Speaks.
In the future, education will dominate and determine social trends rather than be regulated by society as is the case today, it was predicted yesterday by Lewis Corey, economist and author, who spoke at a divisional meeting on colleges and universities in Assembly Hall No. 1 of the auditorium.

The speaker said he expected to see a continuation of the universal sea of education, ultimately resulting in compulsory high school and college education. Present trends have been in that direction, he stated, although today economic conditions have somewhat retarded the fulfillment of educational expansion.

"In another form of social and economic order, in which production will not be limited and a surplus will be available, this surplus may be used to enlarge the educational system."

TWO AVENUES OF APPEAL FROM DECISION DECLARING HOLDING FIRM ACT INVALID

One Is Through Action of Bondholders, Other
By Move to Enforce Registration—District Judge Bases Ruling on Four Points.

By the Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 8.—The entire Federal utilities holding company law was declared unconstitutional in United States District Court here yesterday in a suit to which the Government was not a party.

The only way, apparently in which the Government can get a decision from the Supreme Court on this case is to file suit through the Securities Commission when any holding company resists registration under the law.

Meanwhile, the company that acted for the bond holders in the suit decided here yesterday by District Judge William C. Coleman, has instructed its counsel to file an appeal.

The Government intervened in this case only as a friend of the Court.
Holding the measure invalid on four main grounds, Judge Coleman said Congress "flagrantly" exceeded its lawful power in passing the law. The act itself, he said, was "grossly arbitrary, unreasonable and capricious."

He instructed the American States Public Service Co., therefore, to treat the act as "invalid and of no effect."

Plans for Appeal.
Trustees of the company had contended that compliance with the act would make their reorganization plans impossible of completion.
They asked for instructions and sought an opinion as to the constitutionality of the law.

Burco, Inc., a Delaware company formed to protect rights of bondholders of the American States company, was the defendant.
Ralph P. Buell, attorney for Burco, Inc., said in New York he had instructed Hayward Hamilton, of Baltimore, associate counsel, to prepare an appeal. That appeal will go to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals. A further appeal would send it to the Supreme Court.

In a 96-page opinion, Judge Coleman asserted the act "aims to regulate virtually everything that such (utilities) companies do, intrastate as well as interstate."

Replies to Collusion Charge.
"If the Constitution be construed to permit what the Public Utilities Act aims to accomplish," he continued, "then Federal authority would embrace practically all the activities of the people, and the authority of the state over their domestic concerns would exist only by sufferance of the Federal Government."

Part of the decision was devoted to criticism of Government charges of collusion between the trustees, Burco, Inc. and Fred Lautenbach, of Baltimore, stockholder in the public service company.
Lautenbach was brought into the case when the trustees asked John W. Davis, Democratic candidate for the presidency in 1924, to be counsel in the case. He appeared as Lautenbach's lawyer.

Attorneys for the Securities and Exchange Commission, intervening as "friends of the court," charged collusion existed in that an attempt was being made to obtain a ruling on the act's constitutionality.
Judge Coleman termed the collusion "not only baseless but unworthy of any representative of any branch of our Government."

Invalid on Four Points.
Judge Coleman's decision comprised 96 typewritten pages. In a written brief read to attorneys, he gave four reasons for holding it unconstitutional. They were:
A.—That Congress "flagrantly" exceeded its lawful power under the commerce clause of the Constitution in that the provisions of the act are, neither by their expression of language nor by any reasonable implication, capable of being restricted to the regulation of public holding companies and their subsidiaries or affiliates when engaged in interstate commerce or in transactions that directly affect or burden interstate commerce; that the act
"aims to regulate virtually everything that such companies do, intrastate as well as interstate; that "if the Constitution be construed to permit what the Public Utilities Act aims to accomplish, then Federal authority would embrace practically all the activities of the people and the authority of the states over their domestic concerns would exist only by sufferance of the Federal Government."

Arbitrary Postal Regulations.
"B.—Congress . . . has exceeded its lawful authority under the postal power . . . in that the act arbitrarily and unreasonably denies complete, the use of the mails to all persons and corporations embraced within the act with respect to all their activities, as a penalty for non-compliance and a means of compelling compliance with the act's requirements, regardless of whether any particular use of the mails or any particular thing mailed, is, in fact, of such character as reasonably to warrant exclusion. That is, the exclusion bears no relation necessarily to the use itself, but to the user of the mails."

"C.—Congress . . . violated the requirements of due process of law under the fifth amendment to the Constitution in that many of the act's provisions are grossly arbitrary, unreasonable and capricious, because of the penalties which they impose."

"D.—The invalid provisions of the act, in spite of its separability clause, are so multifarious and so intimately and repeatedly interwoven throughout the act as to render them incapable of separation from each other parts of the act, if any, as otherwise, might be valid. The court cannot rewrite the statute and give it an effect altogether different from that unnecessarily provided by its provisions viewed as a whole. . . . If dissection is attempted, scarcely a clause survives save, perhaps, the 'repeal'."

BRITISH POLICY ON GOLD BONDS ISSUED IN U. S.

Court Sustains Government's Contention They Should Be Paid on De-valued Dollar Basis.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 8.—The British Government's contention that its obligations under bonds containing a gold clause, and launched in the United States in 1917, should be discharged in accordance with the present United States dollar basis was upheld by the court today.

Justice Branson in the King's Bench Division dismissed a petition brought by the International Trustees for the protection of bondholders of the Aktiengesellschaft, a company incorporated under the laws of Liechtenstein.

The applicant was the holder of a bond dated Feb. 1, 1917. It was styled a 20-year, 5 1/2 per cent coupon gold bond issued by the British Government and containing a promise to pay in New York in gold coin of the United States of the standard weight and fineness existing Feb. 1, 1917, or in London in sterling at a fixed rate of $4.86 1/2 per 1 pound.

The applicant sought a declaration that, on its true construction, the principle and interest should be paid in currency equivalent to their gold value, instead of on a "dollar for dollar" basis.

He said that at the beginning of 1935 the Soviet foreign indebtedness was only 139,000,000 rubles, compared with 1,400,000,000 in 1931,
and promises that by the end of 1935 it will be reduced to 100,000-
000 or 120,000,000 rubles.

He says 270,000,000 rubles in gold and other precious metals have been attracted to the Government from within the country during the four-year operation of the "Torgsin" stores.

These stores—which accept only precious metals and foreign currency in payment for choice clothing, groceries and other necessities—have practically served their purpose, Rosengoltz says, and will soon restrict their operations to dealings on the basis of money remittances from abroad.

He says the favorable trade balance of the U. S. S. R. at the end of 1935 probably will total 12,000,000 rubles. Last year the favorable balance was 186,000,000, and in 1931 there was an unfavorable balance of 293,000,000.

The commissar also points out that Russia has increased its gold output to the extent that it is now led only by South Africa.

U. S. FORMALLY ACCEPTS BID TO NAVAL PARLEY

Italy Has Not Replied Yet, but Is Expected to Do So.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Nov. 8.—The Foreign Office announced today that the United States had formally accepted an invitation to attend the International Naval Conference Dec.
5.

Italy is the only one of the five big countries concerned which has not replied. The British Government has received acceptances from France and Japan also.

The preliminary technical conferences between British and Italian naval experts, which occupied the last few days, have been finished and the Italian experts are returning to Rome.

Authoritative sources said they thought an Italian acceptance of the invitation to the general conference would be forthcoming after the experts reach Rome and report to their Governments.

The conference is required under the Washington naval treaty of 1922, which expires Dec. 31, 1936.

SOVIET RUSSIA REPORTS BIG CUT IN FOREIGN DEBT

Official Announces That Reduction Has Been Made to One-Fourteenth of 1931 Figure.

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, Nov. 8.—The Commis-sar of Foreign Trade, A. Rosengoltz, announces reduction in the country's foreign indebtedness to about one-fourteenth of that of four years ago. He declares in a public statement that countries which want to trade with Russia from now on will have to meet Soviet terms as to credit arrangements.

Countries in which the Soviet refusal to pay debts of the Czarist Government brought opposition to proposals for loans to the U. S. S. R., Rosengoltz says, are gradually swinging to acceptance of the Soviet viewpoint. The United States was one of the countries which refused a direct loan to Russia.

"Capitalist countries interested in the Soviet market and development of economic relations with the U. S. S. R. have begun to realize it is necessary to grant us long-term financial credits or loans," Rosengoltz declares.

He says that at the beginning of 1935 the Soviet foreign indebtedness was only 139,000,000 rubles,
compared with 1,400,000,000 in 1931,
and promises that by the end of 1935 it will be reduced to 100,000-
000 or 120,000,000 rubles.

been attracted to the Government

rency in payment for choice clothing, groceries and other necessities—

tances from abroad.

HITLER DISSOLVES ALL STEEL HELMET UNITS

Says Army Is Now Reconstituted and There Is No Longer Need for Stahlhelm.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Nov. 8.—Reichsfuehrer
Adolf Hitler dissolved Germany's Steel Helmet organization completely today in a letter to Franz Seldte, leader of the veterans' body.

The reason for the dissolution, Hitler said in his letter, was that "with the first call of recruits to the colors Nov. 7, the army is now reconstituted and continuation of the Stahlhelm (Steel Helmets) is no longer necessary."

Hitler thanked the Stahlhelm for "past services in upholding the traditions of the army" and ordered for members the facilities for entering Nazi organizations.

Seldte replied that the Stahlhelm was content in regarding its mission as finished and said the organization furlled its banners in loyalty to the Reichsfuehrer.

The Stahlhelm, once a big factor in German affairs, has been said by Nazis to be an organization of reactionism and conservatism, and not completely Nazi. In the drive last summer against Jews, "political" Catholics and other "dissidents," the Steel Helmet members were called "state enemies."

Differences between the Steel Helmet men and the Hitler Brown Shirts came to a head in June, 1933, and since then the association had lost greatly in membership and in importance. Once numbering about 1,500,000 men, it lost its strength with the dissolution of various unitary groups and the Reich until little more than the name remained.

The Stahlhelm, overshadowed by the Brown Shirts, had consented to give up all semblance of military training, such as setting-up exercises, and urged its members to quarrel their ranks and join the Storm Troops. The Storm Troops even helped force the Stahlhelm to give up its separate identity and become "the National Socialist German Veterans' League."

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight for the rights of all people, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare; never be satisfied with merely printing news; always, be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Arthur Brisbane on Preparedness.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

MR. BRISBANE suggests that the United States might secure peace by building up such a strong fighting machine that other nations would fear to attack. I wonder if he really considered the logic of the illustration which he offered in support of his view? Mr. Brisbane's statement was: "Nobody ever twined John L. Sullivan's nose, and nobody ever inflicted that indignity on the present Joe Louis, for good reasons."

I should like to point out that there are many people who have never had their noses twined, due, no doubt, to the fact that they keep their noses out of other people's business. I believe that we could find more individuals who protect their proboscises by keeping them where nature intended than who protect themselves by physical strength. If our nation is to protect itself by following methods used by individual citizens, why not choose the method which has proved successful in most cases?

John L. Sullivan, if we are to believe some of the biographical sketches, became so proud of his physical power that he went around with the proverbial chip on his shoulder, daring anyone to knock it off. He was thus drawn into many fights which would never have fallen to the lot of a weaker individual. I fear that the same fate might befall a nation which followed Mr. Brisbane's suggestion and devoted its time and energy to making other nations afraid. I have noticed that the person who is ready and willing to fight is the one who has to do the most fighting. If we carry Mr. Brisbane's reasoning to a logical conclusion, we may predict a similar fate for the nation which concentrates on fighting ability.

I cannot share Mr. Brisbane's confidence that a superb fighting machine will keep this country out of war. It may be true that no one has licked Joe Louis, but many have tried to do so. His fighting ability draws him into scrap, rather than prevents them. Many fighters are now in training trying to develop their fists to the point where they will feel qualified to engage in combat with the mighty Brown Bomber. Likewise, when a great nation begins to build up its navy and army, the other great nations of the world start to do the same. To follow Mr. Brisbane's suggestion would merely perpetuate a great armament race in which no one nation could perpetuate its lead.

If we continue to stay in our own back yard, there will be no need for turning Uncle Sam into a prize fighter. After all, he is still punch-drunk from his last bout, in which he failed to collect any share of the winnings, even though he won the decision.

WOOD RIVER, ILL. PACIFIST.

Benefits of the AAA.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
In answer to the letter of M. H. Pemberton, Oct. 28, I wish to state that the period following the founding of the AAA is the only time in years that the farmer has been able to realize any money on his investment; the only time, in fact, that he has had any organization that has been of help to him.

Only a few years back, the tiller of the soil received 30 and 35 cents for his wheat and 17 and 21 cents for his corn. If he had a fine hog that would top the market, he could get 2 or 3 cents a pound for it. Just how could he pay his taxes and honest debts? How could he buy the machinery that he so badly needed? Let us thank God that we have a leader like Roosevelt, who with his administration, has founded a system whereby the widow and her six children can be fed and clothed during the long winter months without waiting for the greens to come in the spring. Let us support the present administration, with the AAA and all the other alphabet set-ups. Has anyone anything better to offer us? Has anyone ever done as much? RALPH H. GALENER.

Delta, Mo.

Ancient History—and Modern.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

HANCING upon a copy of the Post-Dispatch dated Oct. 23, 1901, I noticed therein the following editorial:

"The suffocating condition of the atmosphere in St. Louis on Monday was proof of the fact that the work of smoke abatement is very slow. Fortunately we do not suffer from the effects of our smoke cloud at its worst."

"But in ordinary states of the weather the casual observer can satisfy himself that much more vigorous efforts must be made by the smoke inspectors. If St. Louis is to be relieved of the smoke nuisance. At almost any hour of the day, thick volumes of black smoke may be seen pouring out of the chimneys of factories and large buildings in the downtown district. The plants are supposed to be firing up at such times, but there are so many of them that the nuisance is continuous. Of what use is smoke inspection if it cannot abate the smoke at one time of day as well as another?"

"There must be no favoritism in enforcing the smoke abatement law. Only by faithful, conscientious and persistent work can the law be made effective and the city relieved of this long-standing nuisance."

AN INDUSTRIALIST SPEAKS.

There is no doubt in my mind that the solution of the unemployment problem in the United States lies in spreading employment among more workers without decreasing their buying power through reduced wages. By wages, I refer to the amount in a man's pay envelope—not the hourly rate.

It is not a mere theorist speaking, but a hard-headed industrialist—W. K. Kellogg, cereal manufacturer. He gives his conclusion in announcing a 12.5 per cent average increase in the wages of male workers in his plants. The six-hour day, established five years ago, is continued. Woman employees, it is explained, received an increase two years ago, so that their pay today for six hours is equal to that previously paid for eight hours. The minimum wage guaranteed to men becomes $27 for a 36-hour week, with the opportunity to earn more through bonuses. The new scale is described as the highest in the company's history.

So much for the figures. They are interesting in themselves, but not so much so as the philosophy on which they are based. It is stated in the two sentences at the top of this article.

At the root of our troubles is unemployment. Unemployment means a reduced purchasing power for the products of industry. Unemployment must be attacked by spreading work. But the mere spreading of work, through the shortening of the individual's hours of labor, is of no avail. If the purchasing power that is essential to prosperity—to well-grounded and widely diffused prosperity, and not merely a feverish show of it here and there—if that sort of purchasing power is to be attained, the work available in industry must be divided without a cutting of wages. As Mr. Kellogg says, the important thing is not the hourly rate, but the amount actually in the pay envelope.

These are the views to which this large employer has come, as he states, from his own experience. He has been convinced by this experience and by the "failure of other methods" that the shorter work day, without pay cuts, is "the only permanent and workable solution of the unemployment problem."

What of the practical effect, on the employer, of the shorter work day without reduction of pay? Mr. Kellogg answers:

"We have found that with the shorter working day, the efficiency and morale of our employees is so increased, the accident and sickness rates are so improved and the unit of cost of production is so lowered, that we can afford to pay as much for six hours' work as we formerly paid for eight. The company is more than satisfied with the results."

He puts the problem squarely up to industry: We are going to have to come to something like this. . . . We shall never solve the unemployment problem by "made work," by the dole, appeals to patriotism and other methods that have been tried and found wanting. Nor would it do any good to divide up the available jobs without maintaining the total purchasing power.

We do not see how these conclusions can be successfully disputed. What it all comes down to is this—and the Post-Dispatch boiled it down to the same proposition in its article, "The Country's Plight," four years ago: There can be no restoration of purchasing power, hence no real and lasting recovery, till the workers in industry receive a larger share of the profits of industry. In this connection, we have drawn before on a sentence by Justice Brandeis, spoken prior to his going on the Supreme bench, and we draw on it again: "Instead of amending the Constitution, I would amend men's economic and social ideals." Is it too much to expect that this will come about? There can be, at times, only despair; but now and then comes a hopeful sign. Such is the statement that we have been quoting.

It may be said that it proceeds only from the self-interest of the employer. What if it does? It becomes the more significant on that account. For it is the enlightened self-interest of industry to which we must look, primarily, for a cure of the evils that beset industry. Not to the Government, but to industry. We shall be on our way out of the depression when industry sees that its own welfare, for the long pull, is bound up with the welfare of the whole people, and acts upon that realization.

To say this is not to say that industry should be expected to work a revolution overnight. As Mr. Kellogg observes, there are some plants in which a shortening of the hours would not now be practicable; that fact, as we have pointed out, is one of the prime considerations which should keep Congress from placing industry in the straitjacket of a 30-hour-a-week law. Nor do we mean to say that work-spreading, without reduction of pay, even if carried out to the fullest practicable extent, would wholly solve the unemployment problem. We should still have with us the tremendously difficult problem created by the increasing use of machinery and the resultant constant increase in the product of the individual worker. Harry Hopkins, head of the Works Progress Administration, writes in a recent article in Collier's: "If we were to have a full recovery today, a vast number would still be lacking jobs due to technological unemployment. We know now that 2,500,000 were walking the streets in 1923, at the time when prosperity was assumed to have reached its peak, and experts figure that the number would total between five and six million today. I am frankly of the opinion that the state will always have to help out in various ways from now on, creating employment."

No, the millennium is not in sight. But if Mr. Kellogg is right—and who can doubt that he is?—the way is open for industry, without the sacrifice of fair profits, to work a substantial improvement. And by so much as the unemployment problem is solved, the taxes required for relief—taxes which constitute a heavy charge on industry—will be reduced, and the purchasing power of the people will be enlarged.

is enough fun to warrant getting there as soon after supper as possible.

Let the lawyers and the people in Washington figure out all this talk about the Constitution. If the League of Nations wants to boycott Italy, why, that's the League's lookout. A barn dance is scheduled for Macon Saturday night and cars from Walnut and Sue City, Anabel and down Puzzle Creek will be there.

KENTUCKY IS HEARD FROM.

Those who read in the election returns from New York, New Jersey, Ohio and Pennsylvania a definite indication that the country has turned against the New Deal must revise their calculations in the light of results from Kentucky. A. B. Chandler, Democratic candidate for Governor, won a smashing victory over his Republican opponent, King Swope.

It is argued by the New York Herald Tribune that the Kentucky result may be discounted because Judge Swope did not make a frontal attack upon the whole Roosevelt administration, staking "his hopes on a split within the Democratic party." Nevertheless, that split, involving the complete defection from the Chandler camp of the present Governor, Ruby Laffoon, and his friends, undoubtedly gave many votes to Swope. And if Swope pussyfooted, Chandler was clearly billed as a New Deal candidate.

But, as we have said before, groping around among a few scattered election returns for a clear indication of national sentiment upon the Roosevelt administration is unscientific. It is what the logicians describe as empiric reasoning. Local issues, factional fights, etc., further obscured the purport of Tuesday's elections. The medicine men of both parties will make broth according to their lights, but the attitude of the country remains to be determined.

THE FURY THAT WAS SUNDAY.

The passing of "Billy" Sunday, evangelist, marks dramatically the passing of a dramatic era in American evangelism. It was an era that waned as his powers waned, not because of his diminishing vigor, but partly as a reaction from his fury at the height of his vigor. This reaction was hastened by the antics of a host of feeble imitators. He and they batted upon the craving of the crowd for the flailing of a victim. In the case of crowds assembled to listen to evangelists of the Sunday type, it may be thought of as a compensatory craving deriving from the long-gone time when it was thumbs down in the Coliseum at Rome. It existed, of course, before Rome was, for it was primitive. It survives to this day.

Sunday had a sure instinct for stirring the sadism of the crowd. He was a flailer extraordinary. He lashed the devil and sinners and preachers and church members with consummate impartiality. His audiences, composed mostly of church members, liked it. They liked even the things that Sunday said about the church members, for, of course, he did not mean those present. He meant other church members, and it was all gospel to them, what he said about those other church members. Those present clapped their hands, and when he called upon them to "hit the sawdust trail," they hit it hard. They wanted to shake the hand of the man who could stand up there and say a lot of things that they had always wanted to say themselves.

It may be granted that Sunday said a good many things that needed to be said, and that in the saying he influenced thousands to choose a better way of living—even the way of the gentle Carpenter, who was not heard in the fury of the blast, but whose still, small voice spoke words of compassion and benediction.

SURPRISE IN THE ANTI-NOISE CAMPAIGN.

New York City gets a pleasant surprise in scanning its motor accident records for last month. There were 751 fewer accidents than in October, 1934, a reduction of 22.5 per cent, and 791, or 20.4 per cent, fewer injuries. While a police safety campaign was going on at the same time, city authorities attribute the improvement chiefly to the anti-noise drive, which got under way in earnest in October. Certainly the showing is much better than other cities have made with police safety campaigns alone.

Just why the issuance of warnings and summonses to noise-makers, and the lessening of metropolitan clamor, should have this effect on the accident rate is an engaging matter for speculation. By some observers, it is ascribed to reduction of the nervous tension, produced by excessive noise, that sets the stage for mishaps. A better guess would be that many drivers are using their brakes where formerly they relied on their horns.

NAZI VIEW OF LABOR.

When Dr. Robert Ley took over leadership of the German Labor Front, which supplanted the trades unions of pre-Nazi days, he echoed the Fuehrer's promises of bettering conditions for the worker. Two years ago, he wrote that in 1934 "we shall not only get rid of unemployment but, in addition, raise the level and the standard of living of the German worker." Those pledges have fallen short of fulfillment, but at least the German masses might have supposed that Dr. Ley was trying to improve their economic position had he not set forth a totally different goal in a recent address. Speaking to the miners of Neunkirchen, he gave the Nazi concept of labor's position as follows:

"The main issue with the workman is not his ridiculous wage pennies but the dignity of his position; and ultimately wage questions will settle themselves if the worker respects himself. In the last resort, the mine worker cannot be paid with money at all; what he receives is only a petty remuneration for his unremitting labor. It is therefore all the more ridiculous for people to begin to haggle about such little things."

This is a noble attitude, but can Dr. Ley induce German grocers to accept the customer's dignity and self-respect in lieu of marks and pennings for the necessities of life?

A REQUEST FROM TAFT.

The recent visit of Mrs. William Howard Taft to the marble home of the United States Supreme Court is a reminder of the important part which her late husband, as Chief Justice, played in arranging for the building's construction. A new home for the Supreme Court was Mr. Taft's idea, and his presence on the bench brought it to reality. But his interest in the new building did not stop with that. When President Hoover wanted to place the structure in the Mall, the late Chief Justice held out for its location on Capitol Hill. He won his point.

William Howard Taft took a fine ability and a rare grace to the deliberations of the Supreme Court. It is not too much to say that he bequeathed to the high tribunal its beautiful home.

JOBS OR DOLE?

The President Hires

Success of many Government undertakings depends on naming competent men to Federal bodies; President's task in choosing is complicated by political pressure and that of financial interests; appointments to date appraised as "a number of successes and a few failures"; public opinion urged to back choice of able officials.

From the New Republic.

AN increasingly important and difficult task before President Roosevelt is one in which he has thus far achieved a number of successes and a few failures. It is the task of naming Government administrative commissions and boards with competent appointees. These are the agencies that will cause some of the highest legislative achievements of his term of office to live or die, redound to his credit or his discredit, serve the purposes of reform or betray them.

The threat to those purposes is bound to increase in strength as the national election draws nearer; for it is in this period that the pressure on the President will increase to fill vacancies with mere politicians, with lame-duck Congressmen, or even with some Congressmen still in the House but fearing defeat and anxious to arrange for themselves a comfortable salary and an assured place in public life for a number of years to come.

Politicians do not present the sole danger. In filling some of the most important vacancies, there will also be strong pressure from Wall Street interests. This is notably true in the case of the new Federal Reserve Board created at the last session of Congress—a body that will begin to function early next year. Large financial interests are naturally concerned about the membership of the new board, and would like to have a hand in guiding the processes of appointment to it. The reorganized agency will be endowed with more than its predecessor's substantial powers over the banking system. The creation of the new agency is part of a long-needed program to free the system from the domination of the small financial clique in New York. The Government has not had adequate control of the banking system or of credit or of money.

Now, if the new board does its duty, men responsible to the President and Congress, and thus to the representatives of the people at large, may take into the domain of public control and public exercise functions some of the vast power that a few men, responsible only to themselves and a handful of followers, have heretofore enjoyed and exercised in private. It is to be expected that they will expend every effort to obtain Reserve Board members they like, or, failing to do so, they may prefer a board of indifferent quality, likely to be susceptible to the persuasion of powerful banking names.

A similar problem may be presented in the next session of Congress, if it passes a bill urged by Joseph B. Eastman, Co-ordinator of Transportation, to reorganize the Interstate Commerce Commission. This body is unequipped to master their seeming intricate and sympathetic with the point of view of the masters of our railroads.

President Roosevelt, of course, inherited most of the commissioners and commissions now active in Washington. These do not offer so satisfactory a test of his inclinations and performance as the several new boards in whose creation he had a devoted part. In making appointments to such bodies, he has generally sought at least a majority of competent board and commission members, and in these has been successful (except in a few cases) as one can expect in a world that does not place where a President can find it enough ability to operate the governmental machinery.

His appointments to the two successive Labor Boards were the result of an effort to establish able agencies. The same is true of a majority of the new Social Security Board, and of his selections for the Tennessee Valley Authority.

In the financial field, he was called upon to man the newly established Securities and Exchange Commission. Here he avoided the two chief perils. He did not appoint lame-ducks or politicians. He did not choose from Wall Street, except in the case of one commissioner who was a comparative newcomer in the stock market and could hardly be deemed the choice of the financial powers. Even this selection, while eyed askance by many who supported the President's policy of regulating high finance, is said by some observers to have turned out rather well, when measured by other appointments that seemed more in keeping with the policy of the new legislation.

The President's record with the older commissions appears to be one of frequent efforts to get good men, but somewhat spotty results. Some of his more recent selections were undoubtedly of fine quality. Caskie of Alabama, Eastman's aid in railroad study and regulation, is regarded as a satisfactory appointee to the Interstate Commerce Commission. Freer of Ohio, another of Eastman's staff, known among career men as one of their able colleagues, was a good choice for the Federal Trade Commission. These appointments were made in the midst of vigorous competition by ex-Congressmen.

On the other hand, some appointments to older boards have not been of corresponding measure. The reappointment of March to the Federal Trade Commission surprised many people; yet the President acted on the urging of one of the liberal Senators. In the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, presided over by Jesse H. Jones of Texas, a man who does not sufficiently share the President's underlying purpose in financial matters, recent appointments have also fallen short of the mark.

In the course of the next congressional session and of an election year, the long-term effect of selections for large administrative posts is likely to be obscured, as was the case also in the heat of the session recently completed. Informed and appreciative public opinion can therefore be especially useful at this time: useful, first, in supporting the President's recognition of the fact that without the right men to administer legislative reforms, new laws may be in vain and their failure may promote reaction; useful, second, in supporting, against political and Wall Street pressures, the President's preference for able administrators rather than great names, and for commissioners who see the danger of high finance, rather than those subject or likely to become subject to its influence.

That Four Billion Dollars

From the New York World-Telegram.

IN preparing its budget for next year, the Roosevelt administration might well seek reasons for the apparent transformation of the four-billion-dollar war relief fund from a political asset to a political liability.

There were only a few feeble dissents when the President announced his current spending program as a supreme effort to provide self-respecting jobs for the millions of unemployed then on relief rolls, jobs on projects that would add to the permanent wealth of the nation and make it easier for future generations to pay the debts passed on to them.

Likewise, there is still general approval of expenditures on the CCC organization, for it not only is keeping a half-million young men off the street corners, but it is planting new trees, reducing forest fire losses, checking erosion, reclaiming submarginal waste land. All of these improvements add to the national wealth. They conserve and build for the future the resources of lumber and land and water.

Even spending hundreds of millions lavishly for new highways is not generally criticized. Perhaps it is not criticized as much as it should be, for many of the new highways are not needed, and the cost of maintaining them will be a perpetual burden. But there is so much else to criticize—so many other projects less valuable.

We refer to such projects as repairing sidewalks, turning over pavement bricks, painting municipal buildings—undertakings into which the Federal Government never should have ventured, which add not to the national wealth, which anticipate and substitute for future and more orderly spending by the municipalities and local units that have unloaded their responsibility on Uncle Sam. This waste and inefficiency was perhaps inevitable.

It probably is humanly impossible to provide useful employment for 3,500,000 persons, most of whom are untrained, and many of whom are unequipped for any kind of work. And certainly it has been demonstrated that it is impossible for the Government, without long and careful advance planning, to develop an organization capable of judiciously spending as much as four billion dollars in one year.

But we did not plan for this year. And apparently we have not planned for next.

POOR SHOWING.

From the Baltimore Evening Sun.

MESSRS. HAROLD ICKES and Harry Hopkins undertook to swap shots with Gen. Hugh Johnson the other day. Their efforts were as follows:

Ickes: "The trouble with the General seems to be that since he was knocked out of the NRA saddle, he has been suffering from mental saddle sores."

Hopkins: "The General's verdict that FWA is a flop is, of course, a lot of nonsense, as we are using the NRA saddle, and he is for Roosevelt but against the New Deal, well, that sounds cock-eyed, too."

Omitting all consideration of the merits of the point at issue and considering these utterances solely as dialectic, the verdict is bound to be that they are not so hot. Ickes' name-calling, for example, looks very much like a plain steal from the "ants in his pants" statement of the Son of Thunder himself. As for Hopkins' calling a man like Boanerges cock-eyed, it is like criticizing Attila the Hun for being unmannerly. It all goes to show that when it comes to name-calling, the General is in a class with Long—certainly since the passing of Huey Long—and anyone who enters into a name-calling contest with him is a foolish fellow who is licked from the start.

The DAILY
MERRY

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.
AZI Germany has just sold the United States Government an important consignment of steel.

As a result, the New Deal may have more grief on its hands than time from both organized labor and the steel barons, who for the first time in years have found an issue on which they stand united.

The steel is for the construction of a PWA bridge at Morehead City, N. C. In accordance with the law, the Public Works Administration asked for bids on this bridge and also on the Triborough Bridge in New York City. When the bids were opened, a German firm traded his lower than any American firm.

American steel plants immediately protested, charging unfair competition. They submitted data showing that the Nazis were subsidizing the Hitler Government and that they shipped the steel to the United States as ballast.

The PWA replied that under the law, it was helpless. The law allowed only a 15 per cent differential between domestic and foreign bids, and the Nazi bid was 22 per cent under the lowest American offer.

The steel companies countered that the Treasury, in some cases, had allowed a 25 per cent differential.

The PWA threw responsibility on Comptroller-General McCarl.

The steel barons and labor representatives then took the fight directly to the White House, where Secretary Marvin McIntyre promised to investigate. That was the last heard from him.

Three days later the Nazi firm was awarded the Morehead contract. The contract for the New York Triborough Bridge was held up. Apparently the fear of repercussions from New York's Catholic and Jewish population is being considered.

Meanwhile the angered steel companies and laborites are planning to fight the issue publicly. When the Nazi steel reaches Morehead the propose taking photographs and distributing them throughout the country.

No Light Verse.

A CHUNKY little man, with a manner of a bantam rooster, popped in at the "Writer's Projects" office of the WPA one morning, and dropped a suitcase on the floor.

He mopped his brow, breathed deeply, and announced: "I am a 20-pound poet!"

"What do you mean?" queried Reed Harris, executive editor.

"I am a 20-pound poet," he repeated. "There it is!" He pointed to his suitcase. "I have written 20 pounds of poetry and want the Government to publish it."

General John

"I Think Our Salvat (Roosevelt) "But His Not Serve Him Well."

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.
I HAVE been bitterly assailed for having served as part of this administration, and then criticizing it. I protest loyalty to the President and it is said: "How can you be loyal to the President and criticize his administration?"

It is also said: "It is camouflaging to criticize the President's advisers. It is the President who is to be blamed. It is insincere not to go straight after him."

I can see the force of these suggestions only from a purely political point of view, and I am not a politician. The proof that I have a political motive is that I have criticized the President's enemies much harder than I have criticized him. The result is to make public political adversaries.

For what I have said I am exiled from the administration circle, as I knew I would be when I said I and I have augured into no new political circle.

I never asked this administration for anything political, except one. I withdrew that request. I gave it service with all I had to give and with full knowledge that was suicidal service. I gave whenever I was asked to give it. I never got anything from this administration but kicks in the slats. I owe it nothing.

From an experience in government which is at least unique, I think I can intelligently comment on government. I am making my living as a commentator. If I pressed something less or different from my beliefs and observations, I would be a fraud as a commentator.

As to the President, as I have said over and over again, I think he stands as the only possible leader of effective liberal thought.

Educator Says Schools Should Demonstrate 'High Attributes of Labor.'

Two young men and a housewife explained how they had been benefited by vocational training at a divisional meeting of vocation teachers yesterday afternoon at Bishop Tuttle Memorial, 1216 Locust street. C. L. Wetzel, head of the Missouri Vocational Association, presided.

Mrs. Ella Martin told how adult homemaking education courses at the evening high schools meet needs of housewives by teaching them how to cope with problems of child development, foods, home furnishings and the like. Last year, she said, 95 classes in 40 centers attracted 4000 students. A class in mental hygiene has resulted in an enthusiastic response.

Two Youths Tell of Aid.

Robert Kathman, a graduate of Hadley Vocational School, related how his commercial training helped him get a job with a packing company, and Oscar Clauser of Fredericktown, Mo., told of the aid he received in farming and teaching after having taken a high school course in vocational agriculture.

Dr. W. J. Bogan, superintendent of schools of Chicago, speaking on "The Dignity of Labor," said schools should demonstrate to pupils the high attributes of labor, rather than "urging each boy to try to become President and each girl a society queen."

Churches preach the dignity of labor and reduce the salaries of janitors. The schools teach the dignity of labor, but advise pupils to shun it," he said.

More Interest in Training. At the annual dinner of the Missouri Vocational Association last night, W. F. Patterson, executive secretary of the Federal Committee on Apprentice Training, said there is more interest in apprentice training now than there has been in 30 years.

The reason for that interest, he said, is the fact that the United States "faces the paradox of 5,000,000 unemployed young people and a serious shortage of skilled workers in several trades. Reports show the country is flooded with half-baked mechanics while in some occupations trained craftsmen are as scarce as hen's teeth."

A concerted drive is now being made on the problem on all fronts. Individuals representing the forces most vitally concerned have formed local state and national committees on apprentice training. Missouri is promoting sound training through the Missouri Committee on Apprentice Training.

In closing, Patterson complimented Hadley Vocational School, saying "it ranks with one or two other leading schools in the country in the service which it is rendering to youth."

TWO AVENUES FOR HOLDING FIRM DECISION APPEAL

companies and, furthermore, that the debtor corporation in the present proceedings is no exception. "Nevertheless, repeating and summarizing what we have said, 'a national public interest' only exists under the Constitution so as to permit of Federal regulation when the person, company or thing affected with a 'public interest' is, in fact, involved directly, not indirectly, in activities over which the Federal Government, through one or more of the powers delegated to it by the Constitution, has jurisdiction."

Summary by Judge. Judge Coleman, in a summary of the decision which he prepared for the press, said:

"The question whether Congress, by the act, has also unlawfully delegated to the Securities and Exchange Commission, . . . the legislative power to determine when and to what persons and corporations the act shall apply, has not been considered by the Court, because unnecessary in view of the other grounds upon which the Court rests its decision."

He also said: "The question as to the validity of the public utility act has been directly and properly raised. . . . There is a real and not fabricated conflict of parties and interests. There is nothing premature about the proceedings. On the contrary, there is an actual pressing need for a prompt ruling upon the act's validity, because of the fast-approaching date when the act, with its multifarious, drastic requirements, becomes effective; and because until such ruling had, it cannot be determined whether the pending reorganization proceedings are a fulfillment, or should be progressed to a conclusion as this Court has directed."

In his summary he also discussed "national public interest," saying "under the Constitution there is no 'national public interest' which permits of Federal regulation, unless the person, corporation or thing affected with such interest is, in fact, involved directly, not indirectly, in some activity over which the Federal Government, through one or more of the powers delegated to it by the Constitution, has jurisdiction. If the Constitution be construed to permit what the Public Utility Act aims to accomplish, the Federal authority would embrace practically all the activities of the people and the authority of the states over their domestic concerns would exist only by sufferance of the Federal Government."

How Government Can Become Party to Litigation.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Some officials of the Securities Commission think the decision at Baltimore that the holding company law is unconstitutional will stiffen the resistance of the utilities industry to the act and that most of the holding firms will refuse to register with the commission by Dec. 1. The registration procedure calls for the filing of detailed information about the financial and operating structures.

The data are to be used by the commission in deciding which companies should be eliminated. The act provides fines and jail sentences for those that refuse to register. If the Securities Commission should move to enforce these provisions, the result would be a test case, in which the Government would be an active party, with a chance to appeal from an adverse decision. It was not a party to the Baltimore litigation except as friend of the court.

tional program. In the last 100 years our economic system has released additional youths from employment to the schools. If conditions continue along the line of technological advancement, which I believe they will, the great masses will have more time for a more complete education.

"Such arguments against the wider scope of education as, 'society would be over-supplied with professionally-trained men,' are without foundation. While the general competence of the masses would be greatly increased, it does not follow that all persons will be of equal ability."

Other speakers at the meeting were Dr. W. J. Bogan, and Dr. E. G. Williamson, director of the testing bureau, University of Minnesota.

Corey and Agar Talk Again.

Corey and Herbert Agar, who debated the question of the survival of civilization under capitalism yesterday morning, spoke again in the afternoon at a meeting of teachers of secondary schools and the social studies, in Centenary Methodist Church.

The aim of all teachers should be to obtain more control over the educational system, Corey declared. The teacher should explain the tendency to technological collectivism and interpret war and Fascism as signs of barbarism, he continued.

Agar advocated precision in the use of such words as "freedom," "Communism," and "Fascism." Most political organizations seem intent on keeping the plain man from understanding the profound social issues. The teacher must give that understanding. He should be unable to turn his back on the great questions," he said.

Dr. Jay B. Nash of New York University, speaking before the same meeting, expressed doubt that "Americans could use the leisure which a six-hour work day would give them. 'No people or nation which had leisure ever survived. Leisure is based on slavery, and our slaves are mechanical ones,' he added.

Directors of extra-curricular activities in the schools met in Municipal Auditorium yesterday afternoon. Dean Alphonse M. Schwitala, S. J., of the St. Louis University School of Medicine, addressing the debate section, gave an analysis of both points of view in the controversy over socialized medicine.

Health Instruction Criticized.

More than 3000 teachers attending a sectional meeting on elementary schools in the Auditorium music hall yesterday afternoon were given a "classroom scolding" by Dr. Nash, who characterized their methods of health instruction as "archaic and torturous."

"In the first place," he said, "you can't expect the child to follow your advice in health habits when you yourselves do not observe them. It is useless to attempt to coerce the child into adopting these habits, for by using force you defeat your purpose. A healthy child must first be free of fear, worry and hate."

The environment of the classroom should be one of happy, healthy relationships, Dr. Nash said, and the pupil must be relieved of all nervous strains arising from mental or physical discomforts.

Seats Frequently Too High.

The seats provided children in the elementary grades are frequently too high and wide, he said. If the seat is too high, the child's legs must dangle during the entire class period, producing nervous fatigue, or if the seat is too wide, the nerve centers on the underside of the knee are forced against the edge of the chair.

"I believe that every school superintendent should be made to sit for four hours with his legs hanging from a chair," Dr. Nash remarked. "Perhaps that would stop that form of classroom torture."

Three points to be stressed in health instruction, the speaker continued, are eight or nine hours of sleep, a reasonably balanced diet and a reasonable amount of exercise.

Other speakers at the meeting were Dr. Zachry and Dr. Macie Southall, professor of education, Peabody College for Teachers, Nashville, Tenn.

25 MISSOURI FARMS SOLD

F. J. Wade Jr., Heads Syndicate Purchasing Land. Twenty-five farms in Southeast Missouri, containing a total of 4200 acres, have been purchased by a syndicate headed by Festus J. Wade Jr., St. Louis broker, it is learned today. The deal, closed Oct. 31, was one of the largest land sales in the district in recent years. The amount of money involved was not disclosed.

The farms, most of them in Scott County bottom land, were formerly owned by banks which had foreclosed mortgages, and will be held by the syndicate as an investment, Wade says. His interest in the venture grew out of present low prices and greatly reduced taxes, he said.

Goodbye to Billy Sunday.
He Came From Denmark.
Fair-Haired Princess Fights.
400,000 Take Hitler Oath.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.
(Copyright, 1935.)

BILLY SUNDAY, reaching the end of the sawdust trail and other earthly trails, has gone to learn more than he could tell his great revival meetings.

Billy Sunday was one who actually believed. To him, Heaven was real, and eternal bliss was a certainty if you behaved, or repented, and meant it.

The devil was real, and his horns, hoofs and the sharp spike on the end of his tail were real. If you did not repent you would surely meet him.

Billy Sunday was convinced, and therefore was able to convince others. He made men better than they were, and it is hoped that he is now happy in the kind of Heaven that he planned for himself and others.

William S. Knudsen, one of the ablest men in the automobile industry, tells New York's Advertising Club of the automobile industry's determination to employ as many men as possible and spread out the work to avoid idle seasons.

Mr. Knudsen's career reminds us that when the right kind of immigrant comes from Europe we may thank our stars.

William S. Knudsen came here from Denmark with $50 in cash and $100,000 worth of ideas. He has made a reasonable fortune for himself, and, more important to the country and to him, his extraordinary success as an industrial production genius, has put hundreds of millions into the pockets of workmen and created a demand for new jobs. If Mr. Knudsen had any near relatives left in Denmark he is invited to bring them over.

If you remember Will Rogers, a millions of other Americans do with friendship and gratitude, you may want to contribute to the fund being raised for a monument to his memory. Any bank in the country will accept your gift, or you might send it to Capt. Rickenbacker, in care of Winthrop Aldrich, president of the Chase National Bank, New York City.

Capt. Rickenbacker, our best fighting aviator, the big war brought down more enemy planes than anybody else, did not worry about anti-aircraft guns shooting at him from the ground, and will be much obliged if you will contribute to the Will Rogers fund.

Great excitement in the Ethiopian town of Adigrat, held by Italy when natives saw their first motion picture, an Italian official newsreel, showing Mussolini's ships maneuvering.

IF YOU My OP By MARTHA

ON Value Duplication By Ely Culbertson

A CONSTANT menace to even the best contract bridge bidding is "duplication of values." I have wrestled with the bogey, duplication of values, from the beginning of my bridge researches. While I freely confess that it is a formidable opponent, and one which to this day still floors me every so often, I feel I also can claim some notable victories. The 44 no-trump convention, in my view, decimated its prowess, for now we can distinguish in the bidding between a king-queen combination, which counts one honor trick, and an ace, which also counts one honor trick, but which is much more important in slam bidding. The new void-showing bid further weakened my opponent. But to my chagrin it still is on its feet—groking perhaps and wavering, but still menacing.

Let us consider a typical example of the type of duplication of values that cannot, in our present state of advancement, be either expressed or weighed through the bidding.

NORTH
AK873
Q42
Q84
A6

QJ105
AK65
J7
J102

With these hands, North and South logically will bid four spades and will be defeated, losing one heart, two diamonds and one club even against mediocre defense. But let us transform the diamond queen into the heart queen. This makes North's hand, viewed separately, no stronger. But four spades, and possibly five, becomes a laydown. This difference cannot be allowed for in the bidding.

ONLY through getting a count of his opponents' hands was the declarer able to fulfill his seven heart contract on the following deal:

KQ102

AK7542
Q87
KJ763

WEST
AKQ1086
AK52
A94

SOUTH

The bidding (North-South vulnerable): North East South West 1 Pass 2NT 3 4 Pass 4NT 5 6NT Pass 6 7 8 Pass (Final bid) 9 Pass

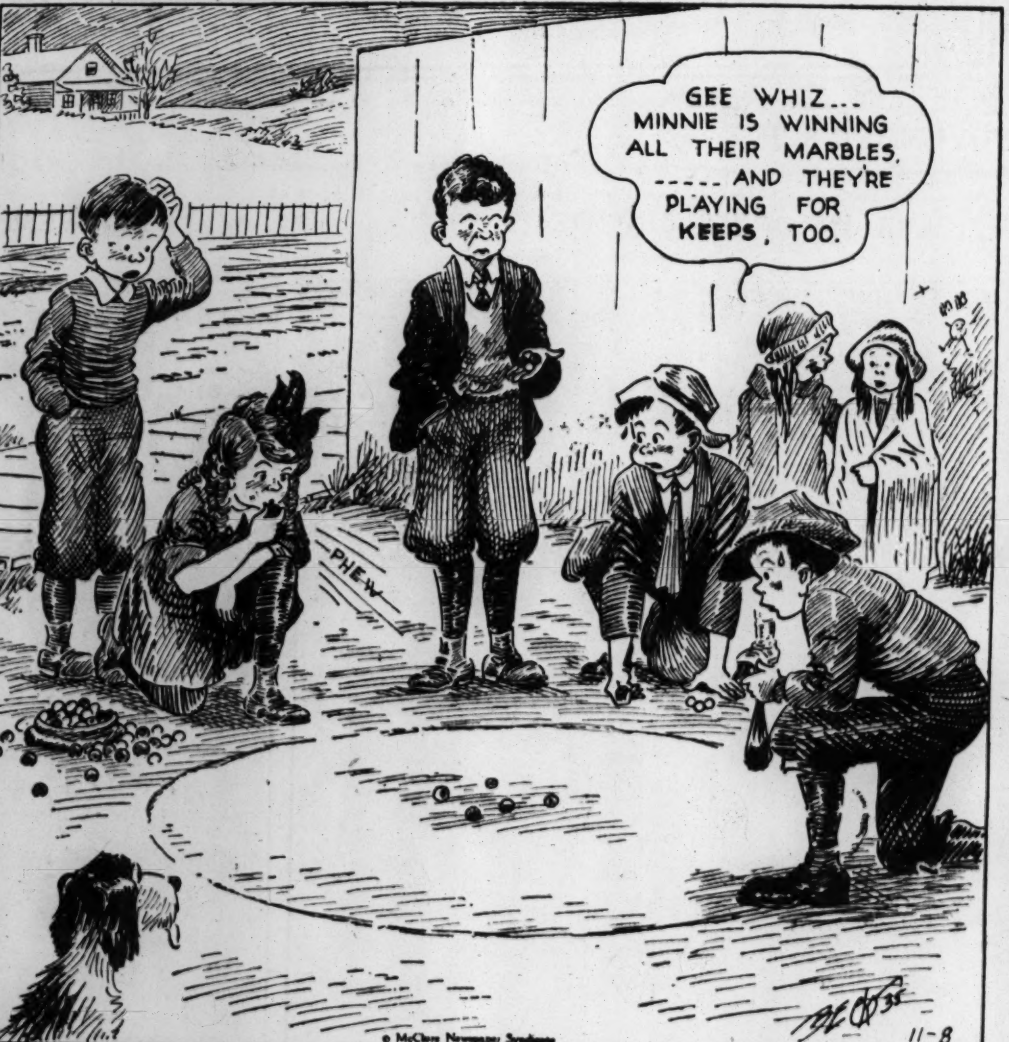

The opening lead was the spade king, won by North's ace. A diamond was led to the ace, then a diamond ruffed in dummy. A heart lead gave South the lead and his third diamond was ruffed with the heart ace. When East failed to follow, West was placed with an original holding of seven diamonds. Another round of hearts caused East to discard, and proved that West had originally held three hearts. Ten of his cards were accounted for, and his opening lead of the spade king indicated that he had also held the queen. He probably had no more than one club, which was unlikely to be the jack. The lead was still in dummy, so a club was led and South finessed his ace. This held, and he drew trumps and ran the remaining clubs, discarding his losing spade.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: With AK42 of trumps in one hand, and J10 8 5 in the other, how should declarer play the combined holding to avoid the loss of a trick?

Answer: The best play, by a slight margin, is to lead out the ace and king, hoping that the queen is guarded no more than once and will drop. But if there is any indication that one opponent has a singleton trump, then the king should be led (to drop a possible singleton queen), after which the other hand should be entered to lead the jack and finesse for the queen.

Four Recipes For Making Fruit Cakes

By Margaret Pierce

THERE'S an embracing spirit of warm remembrance and well-being attached to late fall and winter holidays. Without a fruit cake in the background, a vital part would be lacking. So with the joyful anticipation of Christmas, there would be a lag in the spice and zest of the day without its finale of fruit-cake.

Jars of savory spices and pounds of clear, green citron, tasty dried currants and raisins, vari-hued candied cherries, pineapple and citrus fruit rind bring prominently to your mind that ever-puzzling problem of how and when to add nuts and fruit to batter to give an even distribution throughout the finished cake. There are nearly as many recipes for fruit-cakes as there are stars in the sky. Some are very simple, others a highly versatile concoction of fruit with just enough batter to hold the mixture together.

- Pork Cake
One-quarter pound fat salt pork.
One-half cup boiling water.
One-half cup granulated sugar.
One egg, well beaten.
Two cups cake flour.
One-half teaspoon baking soda.
One-quarter teaspoon allspice.
One-half nutmeg, grated.
One teaspoon cinnamon.
One-quarter teaspoon salt.
One-quarter pound seeded raisins.
Two ounces currants.
Two ounces citron, shredded.
Two ounces candied orange peel, chopped.
- Put salt pork through a food chopper, using finest knife. Pour over it the boiling water and allow to stand for 15 minutes. Stir in molasses, sugar and egg. Sift together the flour, baking soda, spices and salt. Combine with prepared fruits and stir into first mixture. Mix thoroughly and pour into a deep pan lined with waxed paper. Bake in a very slow oven (250 degrees Fahrenheit) for one and one-half to two hours. This makes one medium-sized cake.
- Southern Fruitcake
Two cups butter.
Two cups granulated sugar.
Ten eggs.
One-half cup grape juice.

- One-half cup dark molasses.
Four cups cake flour.
One and three-quarter teaspoons baking powder.
Two teaspoons mace.
One teaspoon nutmeg.
One-half pound candied orange peel.
One-quarter pound ginger.
One and one-half teaspoons cloves.
Two pounds seeded raisins.
Two pounds currants.
Two pounds candied orange peel.
One-quarter pound candied cherries, chopped.
One-quarter pound candied pineapple, chopped.
- Cream butter thoroughly. Add sugar gradually, mixing until well blended. Break eggs in one at a time, beating thoroughly after each addition. Stir in grape juice and molasses. Sift together flour, baking powder and spices and mix them thoroughly with the prepared fruits. Add to first mixture and mix well. Pack into greased cake pans which have also been lined with waxed paper. Cover tops with waxed paper and steam for three hours, then bake two hours longer in a very slow oven (250 degrees Fahrenheit). This cake may also be baked completely in a very slow oven (250 degrees Fahrenheit) for about three hours. Remove from pans, cool, wrap and store. This recipe makes about 10 pounds of cake.

- Rich Fruitcake
Two cups granulated sugar.
Twelve eggs, well beaten.
Four cups cake flour.
One pound seeded raisins.
One pound dates, chopped.
One pound citron, shredded.
One-half ounce cinnamon.
One nutmeg, grated.
One-half teaspoon cloves.
Three-quarters cup brandy or sherry.
Three-quarters cup rosewater.
Grated rind of one orange.
Grated butter well. Add sugar gradually, continuing to cream until well blended. Add eggs and mix thoroughly. Add enough of the flour to the combined fruit to cover it well, then sift the rest with the sugar. Add to first mixture alternately with the liquids. Stir in grated orange rind and lastly the flour. Grease pans well and line with waxed paper. Pour in cake batter and steam for one hour. Then bake in a very slow oven (250 degrees Fahrenheit) about three hours. This recipe will make about 10 pounds of fruitcake.
- Light Fruitcake
One-half cup butter.
One cup granulated sugar.
Three eggs, well beaten.
One-half cup molasses.

- Two cups cake flour.
One teaspoon baking soda.
One-eighth teaspoon salt.
One teaspoon cinnamon.
One-half teaspoon allspice.
One-quarter teaspoon cloves.
One-quarter teaspoon mace.
One cup seeded raisins.
One-half cup currants.
One-half cup citron, shredded.
One-half cup candied orange peel, minced.
One-half cup almonds, blanched and chopped.
One-half cup sour milk.
One-half teaspoon orange extract.
- Cream butter. Add sugar gradually, mixing until well blended. Stir in eggs and molasses. Sift together flour, baking soda, salt and spices. Prepare fruit and nuts. Stir dry ingredients and combined fruits into first mixture alternately with the sour milk. Pour batter into well-greased pans. Steam for one hour in a covered cooker, then bake one hour longer in a very slow oven (250 degrees Fahrenheit). This recipe makes two medium-sized cakes.

Headaches Due To Difficulties With the Nose

Pains Caused by Sinus Pressure Less Frequent Than Once Thought.

By Logan Clendening, M. D.

IN speaking of headaches due to the nose, we said that they were likely to be evening headaches. Morning headaches usually are of nasal origin, caused from infection of the nasal sinuses, which fill up during the night and drain spontaneously a few hours after the patient is up and about. It is during the period when they are full and tense early in the morning that the headache occurs.

These headaches, however, are far less frequent than was once supposed. Years ago Gruenewald of Vienna taught that headache was present in 100 per cent of the cases of acute sinus disease, and in 50 per cent of the chronic cases. A careful re-examination of material has convinced a modern nasal surgeon in Cleveland that out of 295 consecutive cases of sinus disease in his clinic, only 27 had headache.

Deviation of the nasal septum high up may, however, by pressure on nerves, cause an irritating headache, and another condition is that in which a nerve ganglion inside the nose is affected by infection. All these headaches can readily be relieved by instituting proper drainage, or by local application in the nose. The use of nasal douches and inhalants of many kinds—each patient has his favorite—will make things comfortable at least temporarily.

Another condition close to the nose, which frequently is said to cause headache, is impaction of a molar tooth. In my experience, however, this does not cause much trouble unless there is an unstable nervous system associated with it.

Questions From Readers.

A. M.: "I would greatly appreciate your advice on the permanent removal of hair on the face. Could you give me the name of an oxidizer? Benzole? Benzoin?"

Answer: Electrolysis is the only method of permanent removal of hair on the face that is entirely reliable. Hydrogen peroxide is an oxidizer.

M. S.: "When a person's finger nails keep splitting and fall to grow, I am told that the body is lacking in calcium and lime. Is this correct, and if so, can you advise what to take to remedy this condition?"

Answer: This is not true. The trouble usually is a yeast infection or a fungus infection of the nail which can best be cured with the X-ray.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Six pamphlets by Dr. Clendening can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

In the Lunch Box

One housewife who packs her husband's and her own lunch makes her pies in the form of little tarts, using her ramekins as molds for the pastry. Then the next day each lunch can contain one of these delicious dainties.

Painted Roofs

A tin roof should be painted at the first sign of peeling, otherwise deterioration will set in and cause rapid rusting, consequent leaks and eventually the installation of a new roof.

Pantry Pointers

Good bread flour should be very fine, but when rubbed between the fingers feel slightly grainy.

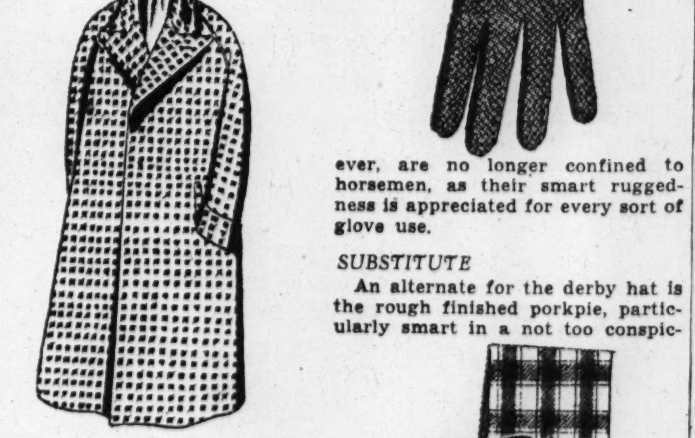

THE MAN OF FASHION

By ESQUIRE

NOT for a moment would we consider anything concerning football more important than a couple of seats on the fifty yard line. But, closely following the question of just whom you're going to date for the game, is the matter of the kind of outfit that can be depended upon to assure a completely satisfactory afternoon.

ROYAL RAIMENT

roomy raglan sleeved model is identical to the coat the Prince of Wales favors for spectator use.

FLATTERING HAT

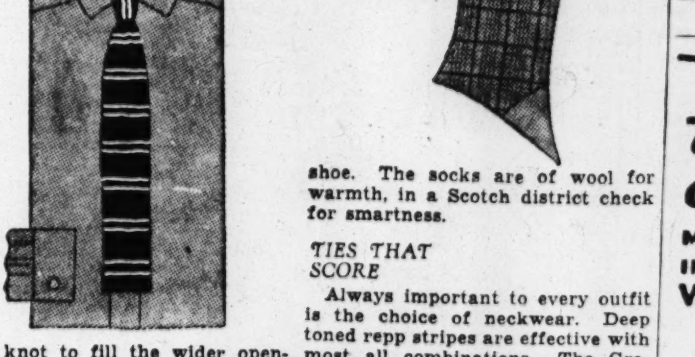

The derby can be the most flattering of hats. The smart shape is slightly belled with just the right flatish brim. Its sporting ancestry is assurance of its propriety.

WIDESPREAD LATERAL STRIPE

The much favored wide-spread collar requires a lot more than the shoe. The socks are of wool for warmth, in a Scotch district check for smartness.

TIES THAT SCORE

Always important to every outfit is the choice of neckwear. Deep toned repp stripes are effective with table and various combinations. The Gremlin motif spaced stripes on deep colored repp grounds is an alternate choice.

Cause of Fires

Fires in the home are frequently caused by poor wiring and incorrect heating systems. Electric switches and cords should be examined and defective ones repaired or renewed, and exposed or poorly insulated wires replaced with new ones.

Worn Edges

If your Turkish towels are frayed at the edges and otherwise good, cut off these worn parts and bind the fresh edges with strips of colorful gingham, thus adding to the life of the towel and still keeping it attractive.

Packing Away Irons

If you are putting irons away for any length of time, rub them with a little fat that contains no salt, such as mutton fat, and wrap them in brown paper. Otherwise they will surely rust.

Miscellaneous Problems of Social Usage

The Correct Application of Term "Hosts"—Grace at Meals.

By Emily Post

Dear Mrs. Post: It is not our habit to ask grace at the table, and when I have visitors I ought I ask them to ask grace before we start to eat?

Answer: You should ask a clergyman to say grace, of course. But on no account ask a layman, unless you know for a certainty that they always say grace at home.

Dear Mrs. Post: Would you say the host and hostess, in speaking of Mr. and Mrs. Brown, who gave a party, or would you say the hosts?

Answer: I would say "host and hostess" when speaking of a man and his wife alone. However, when referring to a group of men and women, I would more naturally say "hosts."

Dear Mrs. Post: We would like to have our baby baptized at home because my mother-in-law, who lives with us, is unable to leave the house and she wants to be at the christening. Is it wrong for us to ask the clergyman to come to the house when we can't afford to pay him anything? We are regular members of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

Answer: In the Episcopal Church no fee is ever required. But even so, you should explain to the clergyman why you are asking him to go to your house instead of taking the baby to the church after service, which would obviously be more convenient for him.

Dear Mrs. Post: (1) May a man wear a gardenia at any time? This man is not effeminate but loves gardenias. (2) And what perfumes do you consider masculine?

Answer: (1) At any time he pleases with evening clothes. (2) Many European men use scented, but most Americans dislike it on a man. Scents that are perhaps least feminine are geranium, verbena, lavender and possibly carnation.

Dear Mrs. Post: I have no servant and I always follow my guests to the front door, but never know whether I should then open it for them or let them open it for themselves.

Answer: Open the door for a woman, but let a man (if you are a woman) open the door for himself. Naturally, if the locks are complicated you would perhaps say, "Let me do it; it is rather hard to manage."

THOSE WOODEN GADGETS

By SYLVIA STILES

WHEN wood came into vogue a few years ago as a medium of table service, the plainer and cruder the type, the better it was liked. Unfinished natural finishes were considered the smartest. Now the trend has changed and everyone with a supply of wooden serving trays and dishes clamors for gay decorations. Friends with a flare for splattering paint are implored to put a red pig on one piece and a green duck on another, so that old dishes may look up-to-date.

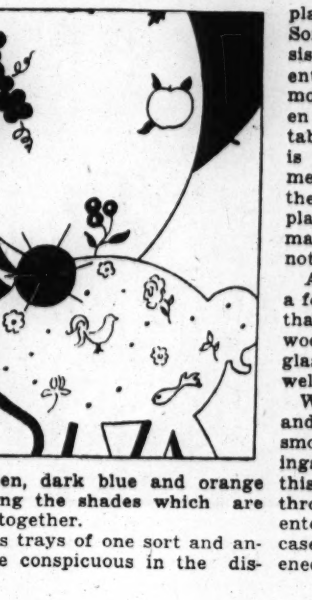

The smartest wooden trays, bowls and plates on exhibition in the St. Louis shops display the new interest in colors and novel decorations. Homely subjects supply the inspiration for the most original pieces. Vegetables and barnyard favorites appear in odd places—a carrot to hold salt and a pig to support cocktail glasses. The brightest hues are employed to give them greater notice.

An example of the themes in wooden ware is the tray which is sketched. This is shaped like a very fat pig and the surface enlivened with motifs of flowers and stars. At one side there is an attached wooden ball painted a bright color, and pierced with toothpicks to hold the appetizers.

A salad bowl bedecked with fruit and flowers takes the place of the simple, unfinished bowl that once was quite satisfactory. Fork and spoon are decorated with a matching design. Bowls which combine wood and glass or wood and metal omit the scenery but make up for it by splashes of vivid red or very bright blue.

Other large flat bowls which could be used quite satisfactorily either for serving cheese or for a molded salad on a buffet supper table subscribe to the vogue of color. One which has a dual role has a center compartment that may be removed. Individual service trays for cocktails introduce the compartment feature so that both food and drink may be placed side by side. An attractive style is painted ed red and decorated with gold stars. The popularity of gilt trimmings on bright colored wood is shown by several other interesting pieces. Trays of various shapes and sizes carry out the theme, as do some stunning square-shaped vases. The wooden vase is a real novelty and may seem absurd until it is seen in its proper surroundings.

Cream and sugar containers are made of wood but do their part also toward the unity of a wooden table service. One set with a modern indorsement of angles is painted bright red. Being light of weight and comparatively small, this set will be useful for individual tray service as well as for the buffet supper table.

Since there is a decided interest in the mixing of colors for informal service, the woodworker designers have given their indorsement to the fad. A collection of salad plates, for example, includes all of the daring tones. Yellow, red, green, blue green, dark blue and orange are among the shades which are stacked together. A Stuart Co. Hostess trays of one sort and other are conspicuous in the display of new wooden containers. Some are combined with heat-resisting ware while others are made entirely of the wood. Among the most practical novelties is a wooden tray that is shaped like a card table. One side of the top or table is divided into various compartments to hold refreshments, while the reverse side may be used for playing. The table folds so that it may be placed out of sight when not in use.

Another serviceable tray that has a folding base has compartments that alternate between glass and wood. There are several square glass dishes in wooden niches as well as round wooden bowls.

Wooden knobs that decorate glass and pottery ware, wooden bases on smoking gadgets, and wooden railings on glass trays indicate that this substance has decorative value throughout the scheme of informal entertaining. In practically all cases these trimmings are brightened with color.

Miscellaneous Problems of Social Usage

The Correct Application of Term "Hosts"—Grace at Meals.

By Emily Post

Dear Mrs. Post: It is not our habit to ask Grace at the table, and when I have visitors I ask them to ask Grace before we start to eat.

Answer: You should ask a clergyman to say grace, of course. But on no account ask a layman, unless you know for a certainty that they always say grace at home.

Dear Mrs. Post: The host and hostess, in speaking of Mr. and Mrs. Brown, who gave a party, or would you say the hosts?

Answer: I would say "host and hostess" when speaking of a man and his wife alone. However, when referring to a party given by a group of men and women, I would more naturally say "hosts."

Dear Mrs. Post: We would like to have our baby baptized at home because my mother-in-law, who lives with us, is unable to leave the house and she wants to be at the christening. Is it wrong for us to ask the clergyman to come to the house when we can't afford to pay him anything? We are regular members of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

Answer: In the Episcopal Church no fee is ever required. But even so, you should explain to the clergyman why you are asking him to go to your house instead of taking the baby to the church after service—which would obviously be more convenient for him.

Dear Mrs. Post: (1) May a man wear a gardenia at any time? This man is not effeminate but loves gardenias. (2) And what perfume do you consider masculine?

Answer: (1) At any time he pleases with evening clothes. (2) Many European men use scent, but most Americans dislike it on a man. Scent that is perhaps least feminine are geranium, verben, lavender and possibly carnation.

Dear Mrs. Post: I have no servant and I always follow my guests to the front door, but never know whether I should then open it for them or let them open it for themselves.

IF YOU ASK MY OPINION

By MARTHA CARR

Dear Mrs. Carr: I MISS "WONDERING" I want to say that the suggestions made by Mrs. Carr are VERY GOOD, but—what is one going to do when you cannot even afford these few things? I know of some families that could not. Their homes were as clean as mine. Their tables were as good as mine. Their food was as good as mine. I am wondering what she has in mind.

Answer: I would say "host and hostess" when speaking of a man and his wife alone. However, when referring to a party given by a group of men and women, I would more naturally say "hosts."

Dear Mrs. Carr: I am most happy to have the verses to "Three Little Kittens" and wish to thank you and Mrs. C. of Herwin, Ill., for the suggestion of the "Little Book for Children."

My Dear Mrs. Carr: WILL you be kind enough to tell me of any free convent for girls? I want to go so badly and take up school work. I did not graduate from grammar school. I am too old to go to public school any more. Please tell me what colors are becoming to me. I have a fair complexion, dark brown hair and eyes.

Answer: You can go to night school at the high school buildings, where these courses are given and where those who have, for some reason, missed their term of office is up?

Dear Mrs. Carr: OUR club has come to a standstill. I, as president, have tried to bring in new ideas and new interests, but the girls seem satisfied to remain as they are. How soon can a president of a club become an inactive or resign after the term of office is up?

I have a chance to join a group with higher ideals and better plans, but these clubs meet the same evening, which means I will have to give up the first in order to join the second.

Now, Mrs. Carr, my problem is, can I decently drop the club I belong to after the new president takes her chair, or would I be rude in doing so?

Answer: I do not believe that parliamentary law would have any part in governing your actions in this event. But courtesy, and perhaps some of the unregistered customs of parliamentary procedure, might be considered. Certainly you would not be compelled to remain in a club where you were no longer interested and no longer bound by the duties of your office. Within a reasonable and courteous time, perhaps after attending one or two meetings, you could, with perfectly good grace resign, and without entering elaborately into your reasons for doing so. Then later join the other club, after attending a meeting or two.

Whether or not you would incur the displeasure and enmity of some of the members of the first club is another matter, depending upon whether or not they are the sort of friends who make every personal matter or a personal grievance.

My dear Mrs. Carr: I READ the communication from a reader who wished advice about teaching English to a foreigner. We appreciate your referring these inquiries to the International Institute.

If we had the name of the inquirer we should be glad to send one of our teachers to make arrangements for private lessons in the home of the person who needs the English.

Letters intended for this column must be addressed to Mrs. Carr at the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Mrs. Carr will answer all questions of general interest but, of course, cannot give advice on matters of a purely legal or medical nature. Those who do not care to have their letters published may enclose an addressed and stamped envelope for personal reply.

self. He should be willing, if you buy your materials from him, to make these kindly suggestions.

Dear Mrs. Carr: AFTER being immersed in the Christian Church several years ago, would it be necessary for me to be immersed again in order to join a Baptist Church? A. B. C.

I am informed by a member of the Baptist Church that you would have to be immersed again.

Dear Mrs. Carr: FRATERNITY for teachers of the deaf at Central Institute is making picture catalogues for the use of the teachers and pupils of the school. We are badly in need of magazines from which to cut the pictures. Do you know of any place where we might get old magazines, or people who would be willing to give us some? M. I. S.

I hope we will get some offers.

Children Need Real Work As Grown-Ups Do

Activities, to Be Interesting, Must Bear Relation to Real Life.

By Angelo Patri

"COME, come, Henry. Get to work. The period is half over and you haven't anything done."

"I don't want to make such a fool of myself," said Henry, stubbornly planting his elbows on the desk and supporting chin on his fist.

"Don't talk to me like that. You have to do your work, so the sooner you begin the better."

"You call making a model of a paper box that won't be any good anyhow a piece of work? Say, I can make a paper box."

"You can go and tell the principal that."

"Sure I'll tell him."

Henry was one of the boys who had working papers and a job a while back. He lost his job and the law forced him back to school. The manual training lesson he objected to and for the making of a one-inch cube. His tools were a ruler, a compass, a lead pencil and eraser. His material was a piece of oak tag, a semi-stiff glazed paper used for making models and another sheet of drawing paper.

Henry had been using machines and turning out a manufactured product for the market. This sort of work seemed utterly foolish to him. And for him it was. For many other children it would be. Children need real work just as grown-up people do. They want to make things that can be used in actual service. They want to work on things that are to be used. They want to cook and eat the result. They want to sew and wear or put to use what they have made. They want to make chairs and tables they can take home and use. If they make a kite they want to fly it; a boat, they want to sail it. They want real work, not theoretical schemes for work.

I believe many teachers give lessons and exercises merely because they are set in the course of study and programmed in the daily routine. The exercises bear no relation to anything the child has in mind, make no connection with any other lesson. The teacher gives the exercise at the scheduled time in the prescribed manner precisely as a nurse would give medicine on time, trusting to the wisdom of the superior in charge of accepting no responsibility whatever for the work or its effect on the pupil. The teacher is not to blame for this. It is the mandate of the supervisor. But how could a supervisor know what lessons were to be needed for Henry? He could not know, and there is the answer to many a failure in the schools today.

CHAPTER FIVE. So far, I have tried to address both sexes. And now, ladies, I address you privately.

I have never known a woman who was not interested in her appearance. All women are anxious to be more beautiful, but there is no true beauty without good health.

All the creams and lotions in the world will do no good if the foundation of glowing health is lacking. Cameo-like features, gleaming teeth, and magnificent hair do not make for beauty if the complexion is sallow, the posture sagging, the disposition irritable and cross, the woman herself listless and unenthusiastic. The plainest features are beautiful if they are accompanied by the sparkling eyes that denote interest and alertness, the springing step that bespeaks buoyancy and life, the hearty laugh that indicates a sunny nature.

If I were asked to give one brief rule to all womanhood for more beauty, richer life, deeper contentment, a more glorious motherhood, greater lifelong happiness, I should round it up in one short and simple phrase: KEEP FIT. It is any wonder, then, that I am most heartily in accord with the woman who seeks to make herself more beautiful—for she is not, in seeking greater beauty, also seeking better health? Which comes first is immaterial; the fact that beauty and health go hand in hand is of paramount importance.

Before going further, will you allow me to warn you against fanaticism in gaining beauty of face or form. Do not attempt anything so utterly silly as this: A young, attractive woman came into my office one day. She was smartly gowned, well groomed, and, I might add, not at all hard on the eyes. She started me with her directness.

"How long do you think it will take me to make these changes in my figure?"

Lying flat on your back with the hands clasped behind the head, raise the head and shoulders and draw the right knee upward, trying to touch your chin or left shoulder with the knee. Repeat six times. Count each time the right leg returns to the starting position. For Exercise No. 14, repeat the same movement, but with the left leg six times. Count each time the leg returns to the starting position.

she asked. She handed me a carefully compiled card. A glance at the proposed changes stunned me for a moment, and puzzled me as well.

"Reduce: thighs ¼ of inch," I read. "¼ inches off hips, 2¼ inches off waist, ¼ inch off neck, and add 1¼ inches to chest." There was a blank look on her face as I looked at her.

"I forgot to put down ¼ inch off my biceps, but I want my forearm left just as it is," she said calmly.

A glance showed me that she would be none the worse for a little training, but training to measurement was too much for me. What was the catch in it? Was she trying to get herself into shape for perfect modeling? Was it a bet? Or was she put up to this by some acquaintance of mine who wanted to take me for a ride?

"If I'm not too inquisitive," I said, "where in the world did you get these figures? Is there a method behind it? Are you trying to make measurements for anything special?"

"Why," said the young lady, wisely-eyed, "I am supposed to be like Miss Mary, and she is a figure. I might not have been true vanity; it might have been a bet, as I said before. But that is what she asked me to do. I finally convinced the young lady that we were not in the drygoods business; that we could not take a pair of scissors and a required number of yards from a bolt of cloth and that, if we attempted to do so, it might quite possibly result in injury to her well-being.

The wish to conform to the measurements of a Miss America is indicative of the ever-changing trend in woman's idea of physical beauty. Even within my own memory there has been the transformation from the hourglass figure of the nineties to hobble skirt; and mincing steps, on to the debutante slouch, and from the clinging vine to the flat-chested, post-war flapper. Now we are back in the hourglass era again. Miss Mae West seems to have reframed woman's idea of the figure. Again women find themselves confronted with fashions that call for curves, trim waists, and svelte, graceful lines.

In the attempt to remodel physical appearance, most women cling tenaciously to the fallacy that there is an ideal chart of weight and measurement for height and age that applies to everyone. This is not true.

No matter what your weight may be, if you are properly proportioned and have smooth, symmetrical lines, you have a beautiful figure. Just because the woman in the next apartment only weighs 114, and is just your height, it does not follow that you should not weigh over 114, or that her figure is any better than yours. Take another look at her. Her shoulders are sloping, her bone structure is narrower than yours. If she weighed your 122, she would bulge and be out of proportion. At her 114, you would be too thin. You are in proportion the way you are.

For example, two young female members of my gym, each 20 years old, are exactly 5 feet, 4 inches tall. One weighs

Women Must Not Overdo Exercise, Diet or Recreation If They Want to Stay Fit.

By ARTHUR A. McGOVERN

118 pounds, the other 129. Each has a perfect figure. The difference lies in the fact that one girl has small bones, while the other's skeleton is much larger. If these two girls were to attempt changing their figures to conform to a chart for height and age, one would appear gaunt and "skinny," the other overplump. I am reminded of a pretty but somewhat scrawny young woman who came to me a year or so ago, almost in tears. Once her opening words might have surprised me, but I have learned that a physical instructor must act occasionally as a father confessor.

"My husband loves me, I know," she said. "But—well—he has a new secretary who is very pretty, but she's—well—she isn't straight up and down like I am. She's like this—" and her hands made curving motions. "And I got to thinking he might be contrasting her with me—in his mind. I couldn't blame him if it was in her favor. I want to put on some weight so I can rest my mind."

She was, as I have said, somewhat scrawny. What I mean is, she really needed flesh—in fact, it was to her advantage to do so from the standpoint of both beauty and health.

Never have I had a pupil who adhered more religiously to the principles I prescribed for her. She didn't expect a diet to follow. However, this did not seem rapid enough to her. Without saying anything to her doctor or to me, she adopted a fad diet that was recommended by some friend.

She lost weight quickly—too quickly. She lost 40 pounds, to the great astonishment of the doctor and myself. But—she spent four months in a sanitarium recovering from a "nervous breakdown." She is only in her early thirties, but this woman now is capable of only the most passive exercises, and it will be long before her internal organs regain their normal tone and functioning. A year ago she had a perfectly healthy body. Today she is practically a physical wreck.

"Do you exercise regularly?" is one of the first questions I ask of any woman who comes to me for instruction. With few exceptions, the reply will be: "Of course, I do. I play tennis." (Or it may be golf, or riding, or swimming.) However, further probing, in nine cases out of ten, will reveal that her sports are limited to week-ends and holidays, and that she does not supplement them with any systematic daily exercise.

Herein lies the reason for many of women's physical ailments. The woman who devotes a day and a half to indiscriminate indulgence in sport of a strenuous nature is doing herself more harm than good. True, the exceptional woman may get away with it for a time. But exceptional women are rare. They are the Jack Dempseys and the Babe Ruths of the feminine world—physical marvels who must not be confused with average individuals.

THERE is no doubt that women and girls should exercise to some extent to keep the circulation active, muscles well toned, weight normal, and strength and resistance up to par. However, the woman who wishes to indulge in sports must, if she values her health, use discretion. Violent athletics should not be indulged in, for they undermine the health. In most cases, the modern female stops exercising when she gets out of school and spends the greater part of her time sitting in a chair, leading a placid life.

I can hear the shout of rage at this statement, but it is mainly true. Of course, women who do their own housework get exercise. Plenty of it. Bedmaking, washing, ironing, sweeping, scrubbing, washing windows—each has an exercise value. How many women do all these things today? Household appliances are so many and varied that the housework of today is almost a travesty on the housework of 20 years ago.

So, as I have said, muscles accustomed to some sort of exercise in school suddenly become almost completely idle. But the heart, which has been accustomed to a heavy burden, is unable to adapt itself quickly to the lessened activity of the placid life. This is synonymous with the state of the athlete who, after strenuous years in college, suddenly ceases all exercise, only to become physically unfit as the years roll by.

Woman is structurally delicate—especially when compared to man. Woman has a less developed musculature, therefore unable to take the abuse the male's can. In other words, woman is built of much more frail materials than man, and so is unable to "stand the gaff."

She should not attempt to develop her bony and muscular systems to compete with man.

It is a well-established fact that the sap starts to run in the spring. The pity of it is that he keeps on running instead of pausing to rest once in a while. Recreation is almost universally misunderstood. Certainly it is misapplied. Recreation should be just what the word itself implies—a re-creating of the mind and the body, a build-up. More frequently it is just the opposite—a tear-down.

Recreation should be just as much a part of our daily program as work, but it must be of the kind, quality, and degree best suited to the individual, and it must be balanced.

It has a two-fold purpose—relaxation of the body and rest for the mind from its accustomed mental processes.

In other words, recreation should be play. And, too, many of us make hard work of our play. We concentrate so strongly on our hobby that instead of riding it, it rides us. I care not what your pet enjoyment may be—tennis, golf, horseback riding, aquatics, handball, ping-pong, bridge, or bending the elbow, you should use some discretion about it.

"I must take off 14 pounds right away."

Even if your hobby is organizing harmony quartets, use moderation. I think your neighbors will back me up in this one.

However, a hobby should be a definite part of your health program, with this proviso: If you want to get the most of your fun, apply a little commonsense to it.

There are two types of recreational hobbies—the active and the passive. Both are good for you. Both can be overdone.

Mr. Tennis Fan is quite sure that he can play just as well as he did last year. The old arm has not lost its cunning, the old legs their spring. He starts out with five or six sets the first day on the court.

What happens? He puffs up like the proverbial dried apple in warm water, and his heart starts to do tricks—as if it were out for a fast-thumping record. But he'll be all right in a day or so, didn't he play as much as that last summer? Give him another week-end or two in which to get limbered up.

It's no fun to be lame and aching in every muscle, but that's exactly what he asks for when he plunges into too active a program right off the bat. Why can't he take it a bit easy at the beginning? Start his season with one set and gradually build up to more. He has several months in which to play. Summer isn't over the first week, so why tax his heart with a sudden load that is bound to be very harmful? Give it time. It won't be long until that marvelous organ accustoms itself to the additional activity, but it must be given a chance—it can't be rushed.

Then there's Mr. Horseback Rider. If he hasn't been riding for some time, he should take it in light doses at first, until his muscles become accustomed to the exercise and the saddle. A polished—or calloused—rider can go for hours in the saddle without ill effects, but this is not true of amateurs—the Sunday champions who trot and gallop along the park bridge paths. Most of them must learn not only how to ride, but also how to conserve their strength so they may live to ride again. There is nothing sadder than a determined horseman coming home singing The Last Roundup.

Then there is that popular recreation—the day at the beach. This includes a swim and a sun bath. What's wrong with that? Nothing whatsoever. It's fine. You get something from the swim, and you get something from the sun bath. Perhaps you go about it in the same way, but how many hundreds do you see every week-end who go about it all wrong? They romp from the locker-room to the beach, plunge into the water with great cries that this is the life, paddle about for a little while, come out and lie on the sand, letting the hot sun pour down on them, and after a while go back into the water again. When this routine is repeated ad nauseam, I say ad nauseam advisedly, for I have known many cases where the heat of the sun on a shivering wet body, and then the cold water on the burned skin, produced severe cases of sunburn sickness.

Some systems will stand this; but how do you know that you are the owner of one of those systems? You don't. So use a little intelligence.

Instead of diving into the water right away, have your sun bath first. Exposing the surface of the body to the direct rays of the sun for five minutes is enough for a starter. Then gradually increase the time until you have the desired coat of tan. Of course, if you are going to play the lead in a motion picture about Bali, this will take a little time. But never forget that apart from being a most painful and, certainly, a most unlovely condition, a bad sunburn may be dangerous as any other sort of burn. Exposure to intense heat lowers the resistance, certain toxins are produced, and surface damage is increased.

Take handball, squash, hockey, skating, dancing. You can apply these principles to all of them. Don't overdo. Start lightly, gradually increase your dosage. You probably wouldn't get to be on the Rangers' team the first week you play hockey, anyway, and wearing yourself to a shred will not help you to become Hal Leroy's dancing partner. Champion players are not made overnight. And even if you never get to be a champion at anything, you are getting fun out of your hobby, aren't you? Well, then, don't make hard work of it, and you'll live longer to enjoy it.

Dancing—I mean the everyday variety, the popular dinner dance—demands special mention. You see young men and women (and plenty of old ones, too), in clubs, hotels, restaurants, order their dinner, get up and fox-trot around a bit, come back for the appetizer, bob back on the floor again, sit down for a mouthful of soup, and on and on, and what far into the night. I have already said enough about exercising after eating, but it seems to me that even if I didn't care about endangering my health, I'd like to have an uninterrupted meal. If you like to dance, dance, but try to keep it apart from dining. They speak of people who dig their graves with their teeth. Plenty dig them with their feet.

TOMORROW there will be a page of McGovern's exercises in this section of the Post-Dispatch. It will conclude the series on "How to Keep Your Health."

Willy Nilly Very Happy on Arrival Home From Trip

By Mary Graham Bonner

WILLY NILLY was so happy to be home, and to see that the ducks, the rooster, the lamb, were standing there as if they thought to greet him that he got out of his automobile Two-Ways and shouted:

"Come along with me! I've got the car filled with packages, and I've some little presents for every one, too."

He did not see that they were not as happy and interested in seeing him as they had been at any other time. He was so glad to be back, so happy over the presents he had brought for every one that he did not notice anything else.

"Oh, but it's good to be home!" he exclaimed. "I suppose the bears are out looking for food as this time of the year is when they need plenty to eat."

He did not wait for an answer, but went right on talking:

"Come along, Rip. Help me with some of these bundles. But we won't eat until you've taken a little look around at what I've brought."

"I certainly was proud when I purchased all the things to realize that my splendid Puddle Muddlers had really been the ones to earn the money for all of us."

"Oh, oh, it's good to be home. There is no place like Puddle Muddie—at least to a Puddle Muddler." Suddenly he realized that his animals were not believing in a natural way at all, for of course he did not know that the bears had fallen through the roof.

Ripley's Unusual Finds

The Daily Short Story

Let's EXPLORE Your MIND

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D. Sc.
See Whether His Opinions Agree With Your Own

AUTHOR'S NOTE: These answers are given from the scientific point of view. Science puts the rights of organized society above the rights of individuals.

Everybody who really wants to know what "Eugenics" is all about should read "The Eugenics Catalogue" by Prof. Ellsworth Huntington of Yale. Professor Huntington says: "These child marriages (the justly called 'marriages of convenience') are found mainly, although by no means wholly, among people of low grade, often emotionally unstable, who are likely to produce children of similar type."

Since such couples have several years spent in bearing children over the older marriage of more sensible people, this probably tends to lower our average intelligence and character.

According to an exhaustive statistical study of homicides in New York State from 1921 to 1930, published in Human Biology by J. V. DePorte and Elizabeth Parkhurst, your chances of murdering or being murdered are decidedly greater in summer than in winter. They found 40 per cent more murders were committed by males and 25 per cent more by females during July, August and September than in any other similar period. Murder seems to be a "Midsummer Night's Dream." Whether to wear a bullet proof vest in summer and die of the heat or take a chance of being murdered in cold blood... my blood not the other fellow's. I have not yet fully decided.

In a sense civilization is more natural to man than savagery because it calls into activity a far larger range of man's native instincts and drives. Professor Henry P. Fairchild, sociologist, maintains in his book, "Immigration," that civilization is more permanent than savagery or barbarism because when barbaric savagery conquers a civilized nation they are in turn always conquered by its culture and soon take up its ways of life, that is, become civilized, because this satisfies a larger number of their natural desires.

An Old European Custom

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER.

THOSE bubbles on the surface are the Greek Republic. It just went down for the third time.

King George was voted back after being out 12 years. George can give our Republicans lessons in patience and self-control.

Greece will be known as a crowned democracy. Thereby adding another republic to Europe's political chain gang.

Alphonso and Wilhelm and Otto are listening in. Another shake-up of the European puzzle may put all the little pigs in clover.

NEW PLOT TO KILL
U. S. AMBASSADOR
BALKED IN CUBA

Purpose of Crime, It Is Said, Was to Draw American Intervention and Provoke Revolution.

FOUR MEN HELD
AND 25 SOUGHT

Jefferson Caffery Marked as First Victim—Police Chief Also Placed on Terrorists' List.

By the Associated Press.
HAVANA, Nov. 8.—Cuban army intelligence officers announced last night that they had foiled a plot to assassinate United States Ambassador Jefferson Caffery, the obvious purpose of the crime having been to draw United States intervention in Cuba and so provoke a Cuban revolution.

Authorities said four men had been arrested as participants in the conspiracy which, they said, included other assassinations and acts of violence. Among those said to have been marked for murder was Police Chief Colonel Jose Pedraza.

The "master plot" against Caffery, authorities said, was balked by army intelligence agents on the eve of the assassination day. Twenty-nine men were said to have sworn to kill Caffery, the first intended victim of the terrorist campaign, with the murder set for last Friday. The arrest of the leader the day before halted the plot. The alleged leader of the terrorists, who was arrested, is Cesar Vilaz, leader of the Confederation of Labor, against whom many charges are pending.

With a majority of the 29 suspects still at large, Secretary of the Interior Maximilian Smith called on all Cubans today to aid a drive to "exterminate . . . a sect of dangerous criminals . . . who must be faced as tigers, grown vicious on the taste of human flesh. It is impossible, for a civilized city to tolerate such savagery as Havana has been suffering."

Caffery has been the target of assassins before. His home on the outskirts of the city shows bullet scars where assailants fired. A soldier guard at the residence was killed when attackers opened fire on it in daylight. At least three attacks were made on his home last fall.

SEARCHERS FIND NO TRACE OF KINGSFORD-SMITH PLANE

Missing Craft Last Seen Over Bay of Bengal Equipped to Float Indefinitely in Water.

By the Associated Press.

SINGAPORE, Straits Settlements, Nov. 8.—Searchers for Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith, missing for nearly two days on a flight from England to Australia, refused today to abandon hope for him. It was learned that his plane could remain afloat indefinitely if forced down in the water. He and his co-pilot, Tom Pethybridge, were last seen over the Bay of Bengal after having passed Calcutta.

Royal Air Force planes flew northward to search the sea from Victoria Point, above the Malay Federated States, but reported no trace of the flyers.

The missing plane was equipped with a wireless set but no radio calls were heard. Kingsford-Smith, a former member of the Royal Air Force, who has flown both the Pacific and the Atlantic, has often been lost for days, only to turn up safe. He took off from Lympne, England, Wednesday in an attempt to regain the speed record from England to Australia, which he formerly held.

PORT DARWIN, Australia, Nov. 8.—Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith's 1933 England-to-Australia solo flight record was lowered today by a fellow Australian, H. F. Broadbent. Broadbent landed here 6 days, 21 hours, 19 minutes after leaving Croydon. He beat Kingsford-Smith's record by 7 hours and 28 minutes.

PRESIDENT TO DELIVER
ARMISTICE DAY ADDRESS

Will Speak at Arlington and Place Wreath on Tomb of Unknown Soldier.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—President Roosevelt will deliver an Armistice day address Monday at Arlington National Cemetery, beginning at 10:45 a. m., and ending at 11, the hour when the firing ceased Nov. 11, 1918. The speech will be broadcast.

Mr. Roosevelt will place a wreath on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

Throughout the country citizens will observe a period of silence beginning at 11 a. m. Many civic and patriotic organizations have planned ceremonies.
